AIDS DESCRIBE SENATE'S SINS TO PRESIDENT

Advisers Tell of Doings in Absence When He Returns to Work.

SCARCITY OF HUGHES DEFENDERS DEPLORED

Tilson Comes Back From Call on Hoover Citing Slow Legislation.

HOUSE MAY CUT DOWN ON LAWMAKING SPEED

Impression Obtained It Does Not Intend to Pass More Dry Bills Now.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

President Hoover's ears must have burned yesterday with the shortcomings and downright deviltry of the Senate. It was mostly what he heard all day.

Hardly had he got to his office, fresh from the warm Florida sun, than his advisers began to harp upon how the Senate had acted in his absence, how it was an outrage that no administration senator had defended Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes when he was under attack; that is, none except Senator Glenn, of Illinois.

Then about the time the President was comfortably seated in his chair he was informed that Majority Leader Tilson, of the House, would like to talk with him at his convenience, and Mr. Tilson said all that had been said about no defense being made of Mr. Hughes and a lot more.

Senate Lacks Defenders.

Inasmuch as no one from the Senate went up to see Mr. Hoover, there was no defense of that body at all.

Out of it all, this attack on the Senate from many sides, the impression was obtained in many quarters that the House is getting ready to slow down and place the blame upon the Senate. Particularly was the impression obtained that the House does not intend to pass any more prohibition legislation at this session or before the congressional elections.

Mr. Tilson returned from the White House feeling very strongly about the Senate. He said he saw no reason why the House should continue passing bills with the Senate doing nothing about them. Insisting that he was not criticizing the Senate, he nevertheless said very frankly that the Senate situation was creating havoc with the good legislative intentions of the House. He was asked specifically just what legislation the Senate situation is threatening.

Railroads, Banks Mentioned.

"Well, there is the railroad consolidation legislation," he said, "and, too, we might be able to get through some banking legislation. But what is the need of trying to do these things if the Senate is not to act upon them?"

This explanation of Mr. Tilson's but further beclouded the reason for his deep feeling against the Senate.

Railroad consolidation has been dormant in Congress for years, and it has been the impression that nothing would be done in that connection until the tentative consolidation plan recently drawn up by the Interstate Commerce Commission had been given an airing and modified and redrawn, at least a year's work. New banking legislation, too, had not generally been looked for at this session. The subject began to be agitated in the House only about a week ago.

The only important bill which the House has sent to the Senate so far, and which is still pending, is that transferring prohibition enforcement to the Department of Justice. There are the appropriation bills, of course, but then the Senate is generally expected to make short shrift of them in due time and without the tariff causing any harmful delay.

Feeling Thought Significant.

The outcropping of feeling against the Senate was considered all the more significant because it has been moving right along on the tariff for some time with the exception of the three-day diversion on the nomination of Mr. Hughes. In fact, it is expected to be ready for conference in a couple of weeks. The coalition is still in control of it, of course, but the Republican leaders conceded months ago that the coalition would write the Senate bill.

It is not known just how much of Mr. Tilson's feeling about the Senate, its way with the tariff and its treatment of Mr. Hughes reflected the views of Mr. Hoover.

He was asked if he had suggested that the President do something about the situation and replied that he simply gave his views on things to Mr. Hoover and that it was for the President to draw any ideas that he might. He was asked if he knew whether the President intended to do anything and replied that he did not. He was asked then what he would do

ALEXANDER P. MOORE DIES ON WEST COAST

HAD BRILLIANT CAREER

Los Angeles, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Alexander P. Moore, United States Ambassador to Poland, who followed a newspaper career from office boy to metropolitan publisher and carried on into the diplomatic service of his country, died here today. He was 63 years old.

A seemingly minor cold which rapidly developed into bronchial pneumonia, caused the death of the former Pittsburgh newspaperman, who recently was appointed America's first Ambassador to Poland. His illness never permitted him an opportunity to serve in the foreign post. Prior to this last appointment he had served as Ambassador to Spain and Peru.

At his bedside when he died were two cousins, Miriam A. Culbertson and Eleanor Schuber; a former associate publisher, J. P. Emge, and Mrs. Emge, and Marion Davies, screen star, at whose ranch Mr. Moore spent several days prior to his fatal illness.

Relatives said burial would be held at Pittsburgh, where Mr. Moore rose to leadership in the journalistic world. It had not been decided whether the funeral services would be held here.

Mr. Moore apparently had been suffering from an infection of the throat and lungs for some time before he became aware of his condition. After a visit to friends in the motion picture industry he went to Palm Springs, near here, to visit acquaintances. He contracted a cold and returned to Monrovia, Calif., to enter a sanitarium. The infection was discovered, and in a week he was fighting for his life. Last week he was removed to a hospital here, but he failed to respond to treatment.

Alexander Pollock Moore, known to his host of friends as plain "Alex," and to his newspaper associates as "A. P.," was a self-made man. His career in the profession of journalism carried him from the lowest station—an office boy—to the highest post, editor-in-chief and publisher. Beyond that he attained high distinction in the field of diplomacy.

He worked in succession on the Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph, the Press and the Leader. It was with the latter that he became a pub-

LEHLBACH BILL IS INDORSED BY ENGRAVER UNIT

Envoys of 4,500 Bureau Employes to Urge Passage Today.

HOUSE CAUCUS ROOM CHOSEN FOR HEARING

Central Labor Union Is Divided in Support of Measures.

SESSION IS ENDED BY VOTE FOR BOTH

Sponsor Insists He Will Not Yield Preference for Own Legislation.

Representatives of the 4,500 employes in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing indorsed the new Lehlbach civil service retirement bill at a meeting in the Labor Building last night.

These representatives, who form a joint conference in the bureau, appointed a committee of three to appear at a Capitol hearing this morning to urge passage of the bill. The three are James H. Windsor, Miss Belle Trouland and John McCallum.

Union Delegates Wrangle.

Delegates of the several Government employes' unions affiliated with the Central Labor Union waged a heated battle for more than two hours last night over the respective merits of the Dale-Lehlbach bill as contrasted with the Lehlbach bill. Unable to reach an agreement, they finally compromised by indorsing both measures.

The Central Labor Union had previously adopted a resolution supporting the Dale-Lehlbach proposal, but the motion was made last night that the Lehlbach measure be indorsed in its stead. Then came the word war.

Several times the chairman had to rap his gavel in order to bring order. Speakers interrupted each other at will, while non-Government delegates plead for "question."

Colpoys Enters Discussion.

John B. Colpoys, editor of the Trade Unionist, made a motion that the matter again be referred to the legislative committee until the Government employes could come to an agreement. But, after further debate, the motion was defeated. Numerous delegates walked out during the controversy.

Finally, a motion was made that the Central Labor Union indorse the Dale-Lehlbach bill.

An amendment was immediately tacked onto it upholding the Lehlbach measure. The latter was voted on first and carried, and then the motion and amendment were adopted.

The hearing on the Lehlbach bill will be held in the caucus room of the House Office Building, and is expected to be a stormy one. It will be conducted by the House civil service committee and will start at 10:30 o'clock.

Great Interest Prevails.

Not since the Welch salary bill has a measure aroused such excitement among the half-million Federal workers, and a heavy attendance is expected this morning.

Representative Lehlbach (Republican), of New Jersey, chairman of the civil service committee and author of the new bill, will preside over the hearing.

In a statement yesterday he said he was astounded by the opposition that has sprung up against his bill. Especially was he surprised at the opposition of the navy yard workers.

"It is an amazing thing," he said, "to see a group opposing something

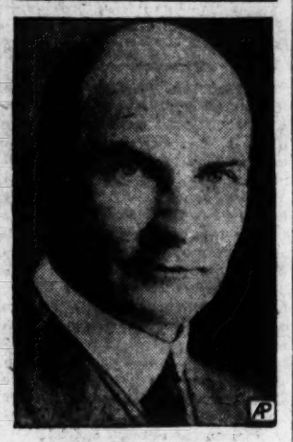
HURT IN CRASH



GOV. JOHN TRUMBULL.

TRUMBULL INJURED IN CRASH OF GLIDER

Connecticut Executive Hurt in Mishap at Airport at Newark.

PILOTS HIS OWN PLANE

Newark, N. J., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Gov. John Trumbull of Connecticut was injured today when a glider he was attempting to fly at the Newark airport crashed to the ground after gaining altitude of only a few feet.

Gov. Trumbull's injuries were not believed to be serious. He was cut about the face and badly shaken. He also complained of pains in his leg.

The governor was seated in the glider hitched by a long cable to an automobile which was to catapult it into the air. The glider shot forward directly into the wind, rose several feet and then suddenly plunged to the earth.

About 25 cameramen witnessed the accident. Before he was taken into the hangar for first aid treatment, the governor stood before a newsreel camera and microphone.

"I'm sorry my glider flight wasn't a good one," he said. "But a little mishap like that might be expected."

Gov. Trumbull is an aviation enthusiast and an officer of the Colonial Airways. He pilots his own plane and most of his trips, when weather is favorable, are made by air.

Recently at the New York aviation show the governor revealed that his daughter, Mrs. John Coolidge, would be a licensed pilot except for the objection of her husband. Another daughter is learning to fly.

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Gov. John H. Trumbull of Connecticut, hurt today in a glider accident at Newark, was slightly injured in a spectacular plane crash July 20, 1928, at Groton, Conn., when his ship collided with one piloted by Lieut. J. W. Lancto during a landing.

Lieut. Col. James W. Kilson, a passenger in the governor's plane, was badly cut and bruised. Both planes were demolished. The accident was described as unavoidable after an official inquiry.

Gov. Trumbull began his flying career on April 25, 1925, being the first governor in the United States to fly over his own capital. With him on this hop was Lieut. Louis N. Eller, regular Army instructor of the 118th Observation Squadron. Gov. Trumbull passed the United States Department of Commerce examination for a private pilot's license on December 21, 1927.

LOWER LEVIES FOR ALUMINUM WON IN SENATE

Democrats, Republican Independents Score Smashing Victory.

MELLON AND BROTHER TARGETS OF CHARGES

Monopoly Is Controlled by Secretary, Say Reports Read by Montanan.

DENEEN EXPRESSES EMPLOYMENT PERIL

Tariff on Crude Product Is Slashed by Close Vote of 41 to 39.

(Associated Press.)

Senate Democrats and Republican independents won a smashing victory in the long tariff struggle yesterday when they put through amendments to the Hawley-Smoot bill slashing existing import levies on aluminum to the level of the Underwood rates of 1913.

During a session marked by frequent references to Secretary Mellon and by monopoly charges hurled against the Aluminum Co. of America, in which the Treasury head and his brother, R. B. Mellon, were said to be interested, the coalition succeeded in cutting the rates on crude and sheet aluminum and aluminum household utensils.

Earlier in the day the coalition demonstrated time and again its majority strength and eliminated proposed increases in levies on hollow drill steel, wire rope and wire rods, and pared down increase on fourdrinier and cylinder wires for use in paper-making machinery and cast-iron pipe.

Three Rates Slashed.

The test vote on aluminum came on an amendment by Senator Walsh, of Montana, acting Democratic leader, to cut the present duty on crude aluminum from 5 to 2 cents a pound. This carried, 41 to 39, with 15 Republicans and 26 Democrats supporting the cut and 5 Democrats and 34 Republicans opposing it.

Without a record vote, another amendment by Walsh then was approved to lower the duty on sheet aluminum from 9 to 3½ cents a pound.

By a vote of 41 to 30 the duty of 11 cents a pound and 55 per cent ad valorem on aluminum household utensils was reduced to 25 per cent without any specific rate per pound. All three aluminum rates approved were carried in the Democratic staff act of the Wilson administration.

Vote by Roll Call.

The roll call on crude aluminum follows:

Republicans for the reduction—Allen, Blaine, Borah, Brookhart, Capper, Cutting, Frazier, Howell, Johnson, La Follette, McMaster, Norbeck, Norris, Nye, and Schall. Total—15.

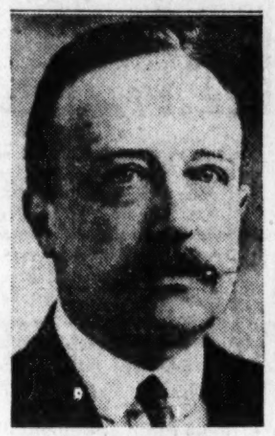
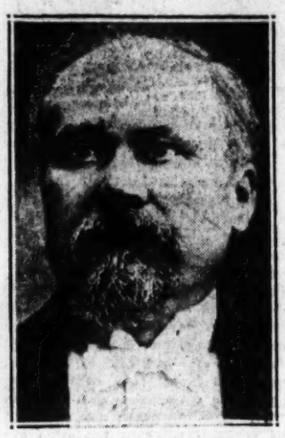
FRENCH CABINET FALL TO CAUSE ONLY DELAY AT SEA CONFERENCE



ANDRE TARDIEU.



RAYMOND POINCAIRE.

New Ministry to Stand by Paris Demands, Is Belief.

JAPANESE FIGURES STUDIED BY PARLEY

Session on Her Demands Finally Adjourns in Serious Mood.

BRITISH PRESS AIRS GALLIC CHALLENGE

Position of Admiralty in England Now Reveals Unexpected Strength.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, Feb. 17 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The sudden fall in Paris today of the French government, headed by Premier Andre Tardieu, proved the culminating sensation of what has been one of the liveliest days thus far of the London naval conference.

The general impression late tonight in French quarters is that while some delay in the negotiations here may be caused by this political development in France, the conference will not be seriously affected.

Overthrown on a trivial domestic issue, the French premier is expected to reshuffle his cabinet and carry on. But in any case, French opinion has aligned itself so solidly behind the announced naval program providing for a French fleet of 724,479 tons by 1936 that any new ministry would presumably follow the same policy.

French Demands in Abeyance.

M. Tardieu's illness would have prevented his return to London until next week anyway, and meantime the French demands will be left out of the immediate calculations and the conference will proceed to wrestle with the Japanese figures.

M. Tardieu instructed Minister of Marine Georges Leygues by telephone from Paris tonight to remain here as nominal head of the French delegation; but as he is not now a minister, he will not attend a meeting of the chief delegates arranged for tomorrow which, it is understood, will be formally postponed, although private conversations will take its place between the other four powers.

The fall of the Tardieu government makes M. Leygues' status practically that of an "unofficial observer." Under the French constitution, resigned ministers are empowered to administer "current affairs," but can not bind succeeding governments to treaties with foreign powers. The status of the French Ambassador at London is unaffected by the fall of the Tardieu ministry.

Two Major Developments.

There were too major developments today before the news from Paris arrived. The British press, under the inspiration of an official Government spokesman, awoke to alarm over the menace of the French naval program when it was officially intimated that the tentative parity agreement with the United States might have to be scrapped and the British building program revised upward unless France reduces her claims.

The chiefs of the American, Japanese and British delegations examined Japan's naval demands, as put forward in the memorandum handed to Senator Reed by Ambassador Tsuneo Matsudaira, at a protracted meeting in St. James' Palace this afternoon and adjourned in a serious, if not gloomy, mood. No progress was made at this meeting, which lasted three hours.

The Japanese standpoints in regard to battleships, cruisers and destroyers were discussed by Premier MacDonald, Secretary Stimson and former Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki, but the submarine question was not touched upon on the ground that this is now before the conference sitting as a committee of the whole.

Secretary Stimson and Senators Reed and Robinson were present at

LANGDON ACQUITTED ON LIQUOR CHARGES

Fifth Precinct Policeman Is Freed After Plea That He Was "Framed."

PRESS INFORMANTS HIT

Robert F. Langdon, suspended Fifth Precinct policeman, was acquitted by a jury in District of Columbia Supreme Court yesterday on charges of transporting and possessing liquor.

Langdon based his defense on the contention that he had been "framed" by a reporter of the Washington Times. Langdon was arrested on October 25, just four days before three reporters of the same paper were sent to jail for contempt of court in refusing to tell the grand jury where they had obtained information on which the paper was basing a series of stories relating to alleged liquor conditions in Washington.

The jury took the case at 2 o'clock, after hearing Harry Whelan who, with Attorney William B. O'Connell, appeared for the defense, scathingly denounced Daniel O'Connell, city editor of the Times and Ralph Benton, managing editor, for their alleged part in the policeman's arrest. The verdict was returned an hour later.

Both Mr. O'Connell, of the Times, and Mr. Benton testified they had given the prohibition commissioner information which led to Langdon's arrest.

Langdon declared he had never seen the two kegs of liquor found in his automobile and that he had gone to the Thirteenth street northwest address where he was arrested, in response to a telephone message from an unnamed newspaper man who was said to have wanted some information about the escape of a bank bandit from the Fifth Precinct Station House two days previously.

Efforts on the part of Mr. O'Connell to show that his paper had been gathering information concerning liquor activities on the part of between seven and ten members of the Police Department were halted by Justice Peyton Gordon, who pinned the newspaperman down to the facts he knew about Langdon.

Mr. O'Connell lead up to the testimony when Attorney Whelan asked him about his visit to the prohibition bureau and about the conversation he had had with the dry law enforcement officers.

Mr. O'Connell stated that the matter had transpired so long before that he could not remember his exact conversation and when told to give a general outline, said:

"It was to the effect that for about a month we had been gathering prohibition information, and we had,

CONFIDENCE DENIED, PARIS CABINET QUITS

Resignations of Tardieu and Others Are Accepted by Doumergue.

POINCARE CANCELS TRIP

Paris, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—The political storm threatening the Tardieu cabinet since the naval conference got under way in London broke in the Chamber of Deputies today, and the government went down to defeat.

A few hours later the ministers handed their collective resignation to President Doumergue, who immediately accepted it. The cabinet has been in office for a little more than three months.

The political consequences of the resignation were obscured tonight by the excitement attending the government's downfall. M. Tardieu is considered to be the favorite candidate to succeed himself, with former Premier Poincare, who recently returned from a rest cure on the Riviera, second choice.

M. Poincare announced late this evening that he had cancelled his trip to Buenos Aires, scheduled to begin at the end of the month. This news roused rumors that he was ready to enter a new cabinet either as premier or as a minister under Tardieu.

Premier Tardieu went down with colors flying, and though unable to rise from his sick bed, where he has been confined with a severe attack of grip, directed the government's tactics in the chamber by telephone.

Three successive attacks were beaten off before the government finally fell on the fourth vote of confidence by five votes. The figures were 286 to 281.

The vote was taken on M. Tardieu's orders on a financial measure of M. Cheron, who in accord with the premier, refused to accept an increase in pensions for the widows of officers and soldiers killed during the World War.

The overthrow of the government places France in the anomalous situation of taking part in the London conference, and yet being virtually unrepresented there.

Under the French constitution resigned ministers are empowered to administer "current affairs," but have no authority to bind succeeding French governments to treaties affecting France's relations with other powers.

Thus Minister of Marine Leygues, who arrived in London this afternoon, is relegated to the position of an "unofficial observer."

Only the status of Ambassador De Fleuriau, French representative in London, is presumably unaffected by the defeat.

Thomas Circle Lights Pass Test in Traffic

After Two Days Experience With 80-Second Interval, Rush Hour Vehicles Move Without Undue Confusion.

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

Traffic went through during the rush hour yesterday afternoon at Thomas Circle.

It went through without making it necessary to turn off the new lights, as was the case Saturday afternoon and again yesterday morning at the peak period.

Two days' experience with the new signals, a modification of the timing interval to give motor traffic 80 seconds of "go" and essential realization on the part of users of the circle that Washington has grown to be a big city—all combined to move traffic without undue delay or confusion.

Still further experience on the part of both pedestrians and motorists is expected to smooth the situation even more and bring an end to the carping criticisms that began the day the lights were turned on.

The jams which caused the lights to be turned off on Saturday evening and again yesterday morning during the peak periods were no surprise to those in close touch with the situation. They were anticipated by Traffic Director William H. Harland, who would not even be surprised to see the tie-up performance repeated this morning.

Like the storm which greeted the light installation at Dupont Circle and which blew over almost as quickly as it started, the one now centering on Thomas Circle is expected to subside as soon as Washington learns how to use the lights.

Mr. Harland, who, with his two assistants, M. O. Eldridge and A. G. Seiler, and Inspector E. W. Brown and Lieut. B. A. Lamb, of the Traffic Bureau, has watched the situation closely, is determined that the lights shall have a fair test and not be sacrificed to voluntary or involuntary misuse.

In spite of the fact that Dupont and Iowa Circles are lighted, the former for nearly a year, observation at Thomas Circle during the last two days has revealed a lack of familiarity with such systems or an unwillingness to cooperate in making them effective. Traffic authorities are convinced that the first is the more weighty reason for the jams occurring so far.

In addition, and actually responsible for the light installation, is the fact that Tromas Circle is one of the points of heaviest traffic flow in the city. As indicating that the new lights are being used by a considerable element of traffic not familiar with such installations was the relative confusion still remaining yester-

Senate Committee Defers Vote on Rum Investigation

Judiciary Group Split Seen as Action Is Put Off for One Week; Western Bloc Backs Norris' Proposal for Thorough Scrutiny.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate judiciary committee debated, but failed to decide yesterday whether it wants an examination made of prohibition enforcement, after its chairman—Norris, of Nebraska,—had advocated a thorough scrutiny.

Senator Robinson, of Indiana, opposed the proposal by Mr. Norris on the ground that it would "paralyze all prohibition enforcement for two years." Both men are Republican drys.

No vote was taken, the committee deciding to let the subject rest for a week. Meanwhile, viewpoints of some committee members who are undecided are expected to crystallize and more argument will take place on Monday.

While the Democratic drys appeared to be divided after the session, the Western Republican independents, of whom Senators Norris and Borah, of Idaho, are leaders, appeared to be in line for it.

Senator Borah, also a dry, has charged open saloons are running throughout the country and he is a member of the committee. He is expected to support the proposal, having expressed the opinion that prohibition would never be enforced "with the present personnel from top to bottom."

Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, another Republican dry, gave the word that the attempt to enact the Norris resolution would be taken to the floor, if this afternoon's talk with the heads of the British and Japanese delegations. It was understood afterward that the Americans brought forward a suggestion that Japan be given light cruiser parity in numbers, but not in tonnage, both the United States and Japan accepting 21 of these craft.

The Japanese pointed out the disparity in tonnage that would result under this arrangement, which would give Japan 98,000 tons against 150,000 American tons, and could see no reason why their claim to big cruisers should be modified by this proposal.

Japan's big cruiser demand remains, it was stated, at 14 if the United States hold to 18 of these ships. Ten of the Japanese big cruisers would be 10,000-ton vessels and the other four already existing 7,100-ton ships carrying 8-inch guns.

There was also discussion on battleships, but informants were reserved on the question of Japanese opposition to reduction to a 15-15-9 ratio before 1936 unless the United States will agree to settle now on reduction of the maximum size of battleships and extension of their time of service after 1936. On this last point the British are in sympathy with Japan, but not, it is believed, to the extent of supporting their threat to oppose scrapping of any battleship unless their wishes are met.

Ray of Hope in French Situation.

There is one ray of hope today in the French situation, admittedly the most serious the conference will have to face. M. Tardieu, whose successor, if any, will be less rather than more nationalistic than himself, has expressed his desire for a consultative Mediterranean pact in which the British and the United States would associate themselves without a pledge to use force. This is regarded in well-informed quarters as a hint that in the end French demands may be reduced, although such a conclusion on such slender premises is highly speculative.

The air is full of pacts—Pacific, Atlantic, Mediterranean and global tonnage pacts. In the latter category comes the suggestion, the source of which lends it great importance, that the United States might be willing to extend the Kellogg pact by providing it with machinery for investigation and conciliation whenever peace is threatened anywhere in the world. In this connection the defective machinery existing when the United States invoked the pact to compose the Russo-Chinese border crisis over the Far Eastern Railway in Manchuria is mentioned.

But there is authority for stating that, so far as the American delegation is concerned, all these ideals, although alive and destined to play a large part in the future of the conference, are not yet the subject of negotiation, even informal, among the various powers. They may be described as in the stage of exploratory conversation which commits no one, not even the delegates who talk about them.

Stimson Report Is Denied.

The New York World News Service is authorized to deny a story current here that Secretary of State Stimson, head of the American delegation, walked out on the Anglo-American-French conference Friday in which the French program was discussed. Mr. Stimson, in fact, was the last delegate to leave the room.

It has now dawned upon the Americans that the position of the British admiralty is stronger than they thought and that British financial troubles can not be counted on to prevent this country building against France if a French scare is started.

Premier MacDonald's hands are tied because of a pledge he gave the admiralty. As explained at the time, the prime minister induced the sea lords to consent to lowering their demands from 70 to 50 cruisers only on condition, as was vaguely admitted by Mr. MacDonald in the House of Commons under questioning by former Chancellor of the Exchequer Winston Churchill, that reductions in naval strength would be made by other powers.

But now France is increasing the strength of her fleet, especially in the much-feared submarine arm. It is probable that there exists in the files of the committee on imperial defense a document setting forth British policy which was prepared before the 50-cruiser program was decided upon and that this is sufficient to prevent Mr. MacDonald and the British delegation from holding to the tentative agreement with America in the face of French claims, even should they wish to do so.

It can, therefore, be stated almost dogmatically that either the French program, as announced, must be drastically cut or the Anglo-American parity scheme on the present basis agreed between Washington and London is stillborn.

U. S. TO SHUN PACT ON MEDITERRANEAN

American Delegates Agree Not to Become Involved in Moot Question.

JAPAN'S VIEW IS SIMILAR

London, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Secretary Stimson, in conjunction with his fellow delegates on the naval commission at the naval conference, has decided that the United States will remain aloof from any Mediterranean pact that may be drawn.

It was intimated in American delegation circles that have been closely following the French discussions that it was doubted the United States would even be asked to join such a treaty. The American attitude was said to be that the delegation was prepared to "give its blessing" to such a pact but not to join in anything involving commitments.

It is known that the Secretary himself recognizes that conversations with the French, the outcome of which may determine the final success or failure of the conference, will be held with all present turning over the question of political agreements in the back of their minds. The question which Mr. Stimson had to determine was whether to commit the United States to a consultative capacity in connection with such a treaty. The American position on this question is about the same as that of Japan, neither having any direct interest in it. On the other hand Japan already is a permanent member of the council, of the League of Nations and in view of this might be more ready to assist in the formulation of a pact than the United States.

There is little doubt that if France insists upon some form of guarantee or nonaggression treaty relating to the Mediterranean, the question will become paramount in the conference.

Discussions so far among the delegations on such a treaty have been solely academic and informal. However, since the French conversations will be constantly held with this question in the minds of the delegates, it was considered very possible that the British would make some move within the next fortnight to bring the matter to the fore, formally in the chief delegates' meeting, if necessary, to overcome French objections to lowering last week's 724,000 tonnage claim.

One question which the British must consider in connection with such a proposal, if made, is the position of other nations bordering the Mediterranean. Since all present except the United States are members of the league, it is believed they will approach the question cautiously in order not to bring offense to their other league colleagues.

It is said that the last thing both the British and French would want to occur would be the idea to spread abroad that the London conference resulted in shaping an agreement directed against other league members or leaving them completely in the cold on a subject in which some have most vital interests.

One suggestion, which has been talked mainly over dinner tables, is that the conference might agree to turn the Mediterranean pact problem over to the league for settlement or for a subsequent meeting at some place, such as Geneva, for consideration of the question and shaping of a treaty.

In this way, the possible agreement on a pact would be looked upon as similar to the Locarno agreement with the added advantage that it probably would satisfy league circles that might object to such an agreement being reached in London.

The possible formulation of a so-called Atlantic pact is still further in the background than one on the Mediterranean. In fact it is considered to be so remote that it is not being given any active consideration by the American delegation.

PACT WITH EUROPE OPPOSED IN SENATE

Warnings Against Signing of Any Treaty Are Voiced by Leaders.

PROPOSAL MAY BE HEARD

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Unmistakable warning against signing any sort of European political pact came from the Senate yesterday for the benefit of the American delegates to the London naval conference. It was inspired by the continued reports from the British capital that an Atlantic pact, a strengthened Kellogg pact or a five-power Mediterranean pact to insure French security were now being seriously discussed.

But Republicans, Democrats and progressives in the Senate are, with very few exceptions, absolutely opposed to any such pact, whether it be a binding political treaty or a mere gesture.

The attitude of Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, is well known with respect to any form of political commitment or alliance involving the United States and the powers of Europe. Senator Hiram Johnson, second ranking Republican member of the foreign relations committee, said yesterday:

"Of course, I do not for a moment believe our representatives at the conference would make this country a party to any security pact for European nations.

"I think it would be ridiculous for any of us here to discuss any such thing for it is not within the bounds of possibility."

Swanson Against Treaty.

Senator Swanson, ranking Democratic member of the foreign relations committee, said:

"I do not favor the United States' entering into any security pact in connection with the Mediterranean Sea. It would be contrary to the fundamental principle of the Monroe Doctrine for us to inject ourselves specially into the affairs of the nations bordering on the Mediterranean Sea.

"We do not permit these nations to inject themselves into the affairs of North and South America and I see no reason for us to inject ourselves into a guarantee of territorial possessions and commercial affairs of the Mediterranean.

"The excuse given for the four-power pact under the Washington treaty in the Western Pacific was that we had possessions in the Philippine Islands and consequently were interested in guaranteeing security there. No such reason exists in the Mediterranean.

Foreign Entanglements Seen.

"If the proposed pact is effective and the nations bordering on the Mediterranean trust to it for security it might result in embroiling us in wars in which we have no interest and have no justification to meddle in.

"If it is a harmless pact and the United States never intends to exercise any force under it, then it is a deception to the nations and the United States should never indulge in a policy of that character.

"If it is entered into it means either something or nothing. If it means something then it involves us in untold difficulties. If it means nothing we should not be a party to a treaty which is based on deception."

24 OF CREW REMAIN ON DOOMED VESSEL

39 Sailors Rescued From Admiral Benson Grounded in Pacific Graveyard.

ALL PASSENGERS SAVED

Astoria, Oreg., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—The coastal steamer Admiral Benson, ashore in the mouth of the Columbia River, tonight was believed doomed to join the dozen ships abandoned during the last 75 years on Peacock Spit, "the graveyard of the Pacific."

Only 24 members of the crew, including Capt. Charles Graham, remained aboard the vessel when rescue work was discontinued tonight. Thirty-nine members of the crew were removed from the ship today by lifeboat and breeches buoy after the last of the 39 passengers was taken ashore.

Those remaining aboard the ship included all officers, some members of the deck crew and most of the engine room crew. They were expected to be taken off the stranded steamer at low tide tomorrow, weather permitting. The Admiral Benson tonight was 200 feet farther inshore than when she grounded Saturday night.

Half a dozen tugs and smaller vessels, including the powerful Salvage King, summoned from Puget Sound, stood by the Admiral Benson in the hope of getting a line aboard her for an attempt to pull her on the sand. However, it was revealed today that members of the Port Canby Coast Guard crew waded out to the vessel at low tide last night, so shallow was the water. The Admiral Benson draws 19 feet and Coast Guardsmen said when they waded out the water was only waist deep.

Most of the passengers were taken to Portland by train today. Two passengers, Mrs. Zola Kerry, of Portland, and Paul T. Reese, of Los Angeles, said they were requested to wade ashore after Coast Guardsmen had waded out to the ship last night. They declared they refused to leave the vessel.

Man, 65, Severely Hurt When Struck by Auto

Daniel Hart, 65 years old, received severe shock, a fracture of the right arm and the right leg shortly before midnight when he was struck and knocked down at Michigan avenue and Harewood road northeast by an automobile allegedly operated by Howard E. Bell, 24 years old, of 4401 Prospect avenue, Brentwood, Md.

Mr. Hart was taken by Bell to Sibley Hospital, where his condition was reported as critical. He had not regained consciousness at an early hour today and personal effects failed to list his residence. Twelfth Precinct police held Bell for investigation pending the outcome of the man's injuries.

Limited Divorce Suit Filed by District Man

William Krumholz, of 1010 Eleventh street northwest, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court, seeking a limited divorce from his wife, Marie O'Connell Krumholz, of Buffalo, N. Y.

The petitioner, through Attorney Samuel Boyd, tells the court that he and his wife were married on May 1, 1928. In July of the same year she deserted him, he alleges. One month later Mr. Krumholz asserts he located his wife and persuaded her to return to him. In December, 1928, she again left him, and after five weeks he relocated her and persuaded her to return, the petitioner asserts. December 31 last the wife again deserted him, Mr. Krumholz alleges. Each desertion, the man states, was without excuse.

$1,000,000 BRIBERY LAID TO CHICAGOAN

Head of Contracting Firm Gave Costly Gifts to Officials, Charge.

RECORDS SOUGHT BY U. S.

Chicago, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Charges that public officials were bribed from a $1,000,000 fund established by the U. S. A. Co., electrical contractors, were made today in a petition filed in criminal court by Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, asking that the company's records be turned over to him for use in investigating affairs of hte Chicago sanitary district.

The petition charged that George L. Chamberlain, president of the company, withdrew that sum in currency checks payable to himself, and that the sums "constituted part of a vast sum for the bribery of public officials and for the enrichment of favored contractors and subcontractors on the sanitary district."

Northup explained that he wanted the books to present evidence to the grand jury now engaged in a new investigation of sanitary district affairs.

Chamberlain was not available for a statement.

The U. S. A. Co., a previous investigation of the district's affairs disclosed, had installed the lights on McCormick Boulevard at an average cost of $1,000 per light. Following that investigation a number of officials and employes of the district, including former President Timothy J. Crowe, were indicted. These indictments were not pressed and a second inquiry was undertaken with a view to reindicting, if possible, on stronger cases, prosecutors said.

The petition said that Chamberlain drew the large amount of money over a period of three years, and added: "At least $40,000 of the deposits of the U. S. A. Co. have been withdrawn within the last year on the order of Chamberlain and were used to purchase lavish presents for friends of his, the presents running from fancy and artistic silverware to furniture and indoor golf sets which cost $1,000 each," the petition concluded.

Today's action, which will be argued tomorrow, was the second attempt made by prosecutors to seize the records of the U. S. A. Co., the court holding against the State in a similar action last week. Efforts made several weeks ago to secure possession of records of a local taxi firm were futile. In the case of the taxi concern, the State contended the firm had billed the sanitary district, and was paid for things other than specified in the account. The investigation brought out that $7,500 had been spent on a junket to Washington and New York by sanitary district trustees, the major portion of which went to defray the hotel bill for some furniture destroyed when the party grew boisterous.

Indictment of several of the officials of the U. S. A. Co., including Chamberlain, was announced by the United States district attorney's office recently in connection with an investigation of the officials' income tax payments.

Obsolete Shipyard Building Is Burned

Slight Damage Is Caused Alexandria Structure by Night Blaze.

An obsolete structure on the property of the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation, Alexandria, burst into flames last night and cast a lurid glow over the Virginia skyline that was visible in Washington.

While the blaze was spectacular and attracted hundreds of autoists, the damage was slight. Firemen believe that the blaze was caused by tramps who had made the place a rendezvous.

When the firemen arrived at the building, in the 800 block of South Lee street, it was apparent that the structure was doomed. Nothing inside the building was of any value.

There was no danger of the fire spreading. It is in an isolated section on the company property. Firemen played several streams of water on the building, but the fire had obtained a good headway.

During the World War the building had been used as a comissary hut for workers at the shipbuilding plant

U. S. Ship Monopoly Is Hinted.

Declaring that Paul W. Chapman and his interests, owners of the Leviathan fleet, were seeking to create a huge North Atlantic monopoly of American passenger and freight ships, officials of the American-France and the American-Diamond lines yesterday petitioned the United States Shipping Board to withhold the sale of those lines to Mr. Chapman.

PHILIPPINE LIBERTY HIT BY AMERICANS

Witnesses Tell Senate Group Immediate Freedom Is Frought With Danger.

TRADE FACTS ARE CITED

(Associated Press.)

Through eight hours of questioning, two American witnesses told the Senate Territories committee yesterday of their opposition to granting immediate political freedom to the Philippines.

Chairman Bingham concluded the hearing by reading a letter from Gov Gen. Dwight F. Davis, whose survey of the immediate results of independence and automatic tariff barriers purported to show the islands' import trade would decrease from $134,650,000 to $84,483,000 annually and their export trade from $135,050,000 to $95,900,000.

Nicholas Roosevelt, a relative of the former President, said withdrawal of the United States from the Philippines would make the United States responsible for numerous armed outbreaks that would follow in India, Korea and the Danish East Indies.

John M. Switzer, an investor in the Philippines, submitted a lengthy brief to show that the Philippines were not economically ready for self-government.

Senator Hawes (Democrat), Missouri, warned that it would be more difficult to free the Philippines in the distant than in the near future.

DEAREST GENEVIEVE:

Between now and the beginning of Lent there are so many things to absorb our attention, but nothing more recreative than the pleasant duty of inspecting the new fashions which are blooming gayly in shops at the moment.

The first hats are always such a joy to see. Have you noticed how all the girls are wearing highly colored and even delicately tinted frocks under their fur coats just now, as though they simply could not wait until spring came, with its real license to wear bright garments.

Pictures Made at Underwood & Underwood's

—bear so many marks of distinction that it is difficult to say what in particular makes them outstanding. There is a certain satisfaction in having a picture made by Underwood & Underwood, and you surely feel in giving any one your photograph with this famous signature that you have gone all the way in generosity.

It is not absolutely necessary to make a special appointment for a photograph. You might be passing Underwood & Underwood's, on some bright and shining morning, and suddenly be seized with the desire to have a picture made. That should be the ideal time to obey that impulse. For feeling enthusiastic, you will be sure to take a fine picture.

There is always the thing to consider, of having a good picture of yourself on file. You might be "news" at the most unexpected moment. Surely it is worth while to go to the trouble to be sure of having an approved photograph available for such use.

That Vegetable Plate at Carolines

—is proving so popular. It is rather illuminating to discover that so many people know what they should eat this time of year. In the spring, fresh green vegetables are exactly what we should all have plenty of. Caroline's Cafeteria, 734 15th Street, which features excellent food of all kinds, is wise in taking the trouble to secure fresh vegetables for their menus.

Mrs. Gleason says that so many men are dropping in for dinner, and enjoying the privilege of reading their papers, and having a good smoke at leisure. Not many places where you can do that.

Spring Sunshine and Flower Colors

—make the Boston Beauty Salon, 1329 F street, one of the most attractive spots I have found in a long time. The sun streams—at the many windows—an ideal place to dry your hair while you are having a manicure or other beauty attention.

Mrs. Nellie White, the owner, has been absent from the salon for two years, but is now back again, to greet her old friends and patrons. Mr. Blue, formerly with Hepner's, has joined the staff, so you will know where to have your hair cut and finger-waved. Geneva and Carrie are there, and also Ellen Stanley, who was with Elsie Pierce for so long. Call Met. 6723 for an appointment.

Pasternak Always Anticipates

—the needs of the public, and true to form, have a wonderful collection of new afternoon and evening things ready for the festivities incident to Washington's Birthday.

In the afternoon frocks you will like the beautiful prints in fascinating designs, and the chiffons and silks trimmed in dyed laces. It seems that with the return of feminine tendencies in fashions the designers are taking special delight in creating the most adorable costumes we have ever had the pleasure of wearing.

New hats are in at Pasternak's, too. You can't afford to miss one day, for new things arrive almost hourly at Pasternak's, 1219 Connecticut avenue.

Are You Entertaining Washington's Birthday?

—or any other day this week, because if you are, you must not forget to order your Pastry Shop Sandwiches in time to have them when you want them. Pastry Shop Sandwiches, 808 17th street, have a deserved fame, for they are just the most delicious sandwiches you have ever tasted. The regular price for plain shape sandwiches is 45 cents a dozen or $3.25 a hundred. There is a slight additional cost for delivery. Call Metropolitan 1568, to place your order. Put in your order early, as this is an especially busy week.

Have Avignone Freres Serve the Luncheon

—you have planned for next Saturday, Washington's Birthday. You could not do a wiser thing than to call Avignone Freres and have them take complete charge of your party.

If you do not want them to do that, you know, of course, that you can order one or two dishes, or as many as you need from this excellent establishment. Chicken salad in the shape and color of peaches, all sorts of molds appropriate to the day; the most delicious ice creams and ices and iced puddings, everything, in fact, to tempt the appetite and make an attractive, artistic table may be ordered at Avignone Freres, 1777 Columbia Road. Telephone Columbia 0333.

Elizabeth Arden Is in Town

—today and will receive her patrons in her new salon today and tomorrow. If you want a personal interview with her, why not call up at once for an appointment?

You know, Miss Arden is not often here in person, and it is a distinct privilege to have an opportunity to meet her. The new salon occupies three floors in her new building, 1147 Connecticut avenue. You will agree that it is the most harmonious and artistic interior you have found in any similar establishment.

You Know Spring Is Coming Soon

—when you visit Schwartz, 1325 Connecticut avenue. This shop has such gorgeous colorings in the new frocks. At $19.75 you may choose from frocks made to sell for a much higher figure. You probably know that the situation in the manufacturing industry has been a trifle unusual, and it has been possible recently to obtain groups of models at ridiculousy low prices.

Just one of these incidents brought this collection of gowns to Schwartz. When you see them you will know that what I say is true. You do not ordinarily buy for $19.75 frocks such as these.

Brides Are Ordering From Mrs. Dulany

—the dainty lingerie and negligees their hearts delight in. Mrs. Dulany, 1901 Que street, has always the most exquisite boudoir accessories and garments intime, but at this time has a more than ordinarily comprehensive selection.

Before I forget it, let me tell you that in the exhibits are some lovely nightgowns at a smaller price than you are accustomed to expecting at Mrs. Dulany's.

Tea gowns which have become such an important part of every hostess' wardrobe, are found here in charming interpretations.

Affectionately,

INQUIRY IS ORDERED ON ARMY DRINKING

Maj. Gen. Lassiter Acts on Unsigned Charge Laid Against Fort Bliss.

EIGHTH CORPS AFFECTED

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Commanding officers of Army posts within the Eighth Corps area today were ordered by Maj. Gen. William Lassiter to investigate reports of violations of the national prohibition laws by Army officers.

The investigations were ordered by Gen. Lassiter after receipt of a letter from the adjutant general of the Army calling to his attention an anonymous letter which intimated that Fort Bliss at El Paso, Tex., on the Mexican border, was the wettest post in the United States.

Gen. Lassiter stated the belief that while there might be some drinking by Army personnel, the situation was not such as to cause any drastic action on his part.

"There is not anything like as much drinking being done in the Army now as there was 30 years ago," he said.

Creek Yields Bodies Of Suspected Elopers

Newport, Mich., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Parents of a young man and young woman of this place discovered late today that death rather than elopement accounted for their failure to return from an automobile ride yesterday.

The bodies of Alfred M. Schultz, 19, and Miss Alva Masson, 18, were found in Swan Creek, near the automobile, where it had broken through the thin ice and sunk in 14 feet of water. The couple went out yesterday afternoon. Their failure to return caused parents to suspect an elopement and several friends told of hearing the youth and girl were planning a secret marriage.

ALEXANDER MOORE DIES OF PNUMONIA

lisher. Suspension of publication in 1923 because of increasing costs of production was followed within a month by Moore's appointment as Ambassador to Spain.

This did not end his newspaper career, however, for he resigned the Madrid post after negotiating important treaties and in 1927 he acquired the New York Daily Mirror and the Boston Advertiser.

Appointed to Peru.

But the new ventures in journalism did not keep him long from diplomacy and in March, 1928, President Coolidge sent him to Peru. He was a Republican who deviated from the party path only to support Theodore Roosevelt in the Bull Moose campaign. It was active support of Warren G. Harding in 1920 that led to his first diplomatic appointment.

Among his friends he numbered practically every well-known figure of the stage.

Lillian Russell, the actress, became his wife on June 12, 1912, and they remained inseparable until her death in 1921.

U. S. Officials Express Regret.

President Hoover and Acting Secretary of State Cotton were shocked yesterday when word was carried to them of the death of Ambassador Moore. Both expressed the deepest sympathy for Mr. Moore's relatives.

"I am shocked to learn of the death of Alexander Pollock Moore, American Ambassador-designate to Poland," said Mr. Cotton. "Mr. Moore has served as Ambassador to Spain and later to Peru. That post he recently relinquished to accept the post at Warsaw, recently elevated to an embassy.

"His career in the diplomatic service has been marked by signal success, and the country has lost not only a distinguished officer but a loyal American citien."

It is known that the President will not send to the Senate the name of Ambassador Moore's successor for some little time. The President has no one in consideration for the appointment.

County Attorney Acquitted as Former Sheriff Is Convicted.

36 ARE STILL IN CUSTODY

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—A jury in United States District Court agreed today with the Government's charge that a conspiracy for the violation of national prohibition laws existed in Pottawatomie County for nearly three years, but disagreed in part as to the purported leaders by acquitting Randall Pitman, county attorney.

Frank Fox, sheriff from 1925 to 1929, was among the eight defendants who were convicted. Pitman, who with Fox, was accused by the Government with being an "arch conspirator," and three other defendants were exonerated by the jury. Acquittals against five other defendants were reported, but they had been instructed last week by Judge Edgar S. Vaught, who conducted the trials.

Of the 102 persons indicted last September on charges of participating in operations of the liquor ring alleged to have held a monopoly in Pottawatomie County under protection of county and city officials, 36 remained in the Government's dragnet tonight.

28 Plead Guilty.

Twenty-eight defendants pleaded guilty at the start of the trial and will be sentenced next Saturday. Sentence will not be passed upon the eight convicted today before March 15, set by Judge Vaught as the latest date for the filing of motions for a new trial.

The jury's verdict was returned after deliberations extending over 48 hours and a trial that lasted more than two weeks.

Evidence was presented by the Government to show that wide-open conditions existed in Pottawatomie County for several years after the advent of an oil boom and that vice and bootlegging flourished in the mushroom towns that sprang up.

Besides former Sheriff Fox, those convicted today were Bob Keys, Virgil Church and Bill Collier, operators of drug stores; Roy Booth, resort proprietor, and John Baugh, Barney Lovette and J. W. Motsenbacher.

Millionaire Negro Acquitted.

Forrest Anderson, millionaire Negro, who, the Government alleged, financed operations of the liquor ring; Bud Greer, drug store proprietor, and John Boggess were acquitted.

Homer Knappenberger, former mayor of Earlsboro, who pleaded guilty to a conspiracy charge, was one of the chief witnesses against County Attorney Pitman and Fox, both of whom were alleged to have participated in division of protection money.

Knappenberger's testimony that he paid $2,300 to W. Oscar Gordon, assistant State attorney general, to escape prosecution resulted in Gordon's resignation and the filing against him of extortion charges.

day afternoon but which police officers quickly straightened out.

Even with a majority acquainted with peak-hour traffic movement under such a signal installation, the unfamiliarity with it of a minority of both drivers and pedestrians was destined to cause some confusion at the outset, officials believe.

The green light interval of 75 seconds and the green and amber interval of 5 seconds, making a total of 80 on which motor traffic may move, will be continued indefinitely. It represents an increase of 20 seconds in the period allowed vehicles. When the lights first were turned on, the timing was the same as at Dupont Circle, a total of 60 seconds for motor cars and 23 for pedestrian movement. The latter interval, comprised of 20 seconds of red and amber and 3 of red, remains in effect despite the increase in the vehicle movement cycle made yesterday afternoon.

Dry Administrator Leader Of Raid on Palatial Cafe

Furnishings Worth Thousands, Including Bar 100 Feet Long, Carted Away; Investigator Hired by Crime Commission, Revealed by Foray.

New York, Feb. 17 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—With Prohibition Administrator Maurice Campbell himself leading the raiders, prohibition agents today took possession of one of the most ornate and palatial cafes in Brooklyn. It was said to be the first time that Mr. Campbell has ever personally led a liquor raid in that borough.

The invasion, executed under the Internal Revenue law which provides that not only the furnishings but even the premises may be seized for failure to pay liquor taxes, was almost a duplicate of the raid on Helen Morgan's night club, Chez Morgan, two years ago, which brought such a storm of protest down on the head of the same prohibition administrator.

The agents were careful not to smash the cafe's interior, however, being content to cart away the valuable furnishings and equipment, which are valued at many thousand dollars. Cartloads were still being removed tonight.

United States Attorney Amell, of Brooklyn, said they were seriously considering confiscating the entire cafe under the revenue laws. It had a gala opening only last October. The place is known as the Bedford Nest.

Two men were arrested and about $1,000 worth of liquor—described as a day's supply—seized.

The raid followed closely the transfer of Brooklyn's entire force of agents, fourteen in number, to New York, and the switch of an equal number of New York agents.

The only given reason for the shake-up was that it was for the "good of the service." The old agents, it was said, had become pretty well known in Brooklyn.

The raid and the shake-up were simultaneous to the discovery that the Wickersham crime commission has for some time employed H. Gilbert Francke, a well-known private investigator, of Boston, to sit in and report on law enforcement in the various prohibition bureaus. He was not in the raid today but has been in the Campbell office about a month.

The raided cafe is a one-story stucco building. In the back is a bar nearly 100 feet in length which was lined with customers when eighteen agents swooped down on it.

LANGDON IS FREED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

about that time, I guess, a list of about somewhere between seven and ten members of the Metropolitan Police Department, who, according to the information given us, had been engaged in some sort of way in violation of the prohibition act. I think there were two captains, one lieutenant, and———"

Justice Gordon interrupted at that point and instructed Mr. O'Connell to confine his remarks to the question.

Both Mr. O'Connell and Mr. Benton were placed on the stand by the defense. They substantiated testimony given last Thursday during the first day of the trial by prohibition agents. This testimony was to the effect that the two newspapermen had called on Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran and apprised him and other members of his staff that the policeman was to deliver two kegs of liquor to an address on Thirteenth street northwest, near Harvard street, and that he would be in his own Hudson automobile or in a Police Department Ford.

Mr. O'Connell also testified that Langdon was arrested at the home of a woman who formerly had been employed by the newspaper.

Information transmitted to the prohibition commissioner was said to have been obtained by overhearing a telephone conversation. Mr. Benton said that his information had been obtained from Mr. O'Connell.

Must Face Trial Board.

Assistant United States Attorney Walter M. Shea and James R. Kirklan appeared for the Government.

Langdon will be haled before the Police Trial Board on charges preferred by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, despite his acquittal by the jury in the District Supreme Court.

Harry M. Luckett, chief clerk of the department, has been instructed by Maj. Pratt to draft charges which are to be filed against Langdon within the next few days.

Nature of Charges.

It is understood that while the basic charge will be "conduct prejudicial to the good order and reputation of the Police Department," one of the specific specifications against Langdon will be substantially as that contained in the court charge—that of possession and transportation of liquor.

Inspector Albert H. Headley investigated the charges against Langdon immediately after his arrest and it is upon the report of his investigation that Maj. Pratt has cited Langdon for appearance before the trial board.

SENATE COMMITTEE SHUNS VOTE ON RUM

the judiciary committee failed to approve the proposals.

"If there is corruption," he said, "we must know how much of it there is and who is responsible. The prohibition unit recently said that industrial alcohol was under complete control. Since then it was stated the Department of Justice has returned some indictments against huge concerns dealing in industrial alcohol. During the war we used only 50,000,000 gallons of industrial alcohol. Last year we used 106,000,000 gallons."

The Senate wets are sitting back and enjoying the battle among the drys. They have not much strength in the Senate and do not appear to be worried about the outbreak in the dry fold. They are expected to vote for the prohibition investigation.

Regardless of the decision of the committee on the Norris resolution, which would direct the Senate's investigation particularly into what part politics have played in enforcement, the whole issue promises to be threshed out on the floor of the Senate after the tariff is out of the way. The word went the rounds in the Senate chamber late yesterday that some of those favoring the investigation were aiming at Assistant Secretary Lowman, of the Treasury, and Prohibition Commissioner Doran—the two dry chieftains.

It is the first serious attempt at an investigation of prohibition since the law went into effect ten years ago. Senator Norris proposed his resolution as a substitute for one advanced by Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana.

The Nebraskan proposed to enlarge the scope of the inquiry, but did not ask that the committee be directed to determine whether prohibition can be enforced.

Coincidentally, Prohibition Commissioner Doran announced yesterday that he had ordered a broad investigation into all phases of prohibition enforcement to obtain data for President Hoover's law enforcement commission.

Palmer Canfield, former prohibition administrator at Albany, N. Y., has been placed in charge of the inquiry, which Mr. Doran expects will provide a fairly accurate picture of enforcement conditions throughout the country.

Old Age Pensions In New York Urged

$12,400,000 Put as Annual Cost of Action Asked of Legislature.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 17 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Pensions ranging from $5 to $50 a month for all needy persons in the State 70 years old or over, and abandonment by New York City of its policy of institutional aid in favor of home assistance for the aged are among the recommendations of the Commission on Old Age Security, which reported tonight to the Legislature.

The commission recommends immediate legislation to carry out its program, with payments to begin January 1, 1931. It is estimated that 51,000 persons would be entitled to the payments, the average being $242 a year.

It is estimated that in the first year the full number will not apply for help and that $6,500,000 will be sufficient to meet the demands of 1931. For the second year the estimate is $11,000,000, of which the State would pay half. The full expected quota of $12,400,000, the commission estimates, will not be reached until 1934.

SERVICES ARRANGED FOR COMMISSIONER

Charles A. Warden, Official of Prince Georges, to Be Buried Today.

CLEW ON MISSING GIRL

Funeral services for Prince Georges County Commissioner Charles A. Marden, of Oxon Hill, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at St. Barnabas Episcopal Church, Oxon Hill. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Commissioner Marden died suddenly Sunday afternoon. He had eaten a hearty dinner and walked out into the yard at his home to pump water from the well. He fell beside the pump in an unconscious condition. Dr. W. S. Ritchie, of Ritchie Station, was called and pronounced him dead of heart failure.

Commissioner Marden was 69 years old and had been a resident of Prince Georges County all of his life. He was an ardent Democratic worker. He was appointed commissioner last August to complete the term of Commissioner T. B. Middleton, who died. Prior to that time he had not held any political office.

Commissioner Marden was of a rather retiring disposition, but he was well liked by all who knew him. He was a farmer and understood the problems of the farmer in the county, and his appointment was a popular one.

He was unmarried living with a sister and brother on his farm. He is survived by two brothers Frank Marden and Thomas Marden, and four sisters, Mrs. James Shreve, wife of the county assessor; Mrs. Enos R. Shreve, Miss Nellie Marden and Mrs. George iKrby, all of Prince Georges County. The weekly meeting of the county commissioners probably will adjourn early to permit the office staff to attend the funeral.

Jane Sedgwick Duvall, 20 years old, who disappeared February 1, after leaving her mother at Tenth and G streets northwest to return to the a sophomore, had withdrawn from the University of Maryland where she was university several days before that time, it was revealed yesterday by university authorities. She had told the dean of women that she had been married in June.

The girl, who lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Duvall, at Oheverly, Md., has not been seen since her disappearance and police of Washington and Baltimore have been asked to look for her. At the time of her disappearance she had $60 to pay her tuition at the university but this was returned next day to her father, who is a Pullman conductor together with an unsigned note which said she would have no further use for the money.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, District Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty, Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, president of the University of Maryland, and other prominent speakers, will talk at the second annual banquet of the Prince Georges County Volunteer Firemen's Association tomorrow night. The banquet will be held in the dining hall at the University of Maryland.

The program will begin with music by the Glenn Dale Fire Association Band. The invocation will be given by the Rev. Ronalds Taylor, pastor of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church at College Park. The address of welcome will be made by Mayor James E. Sampson, of Brentwood, president of the association. George Finger, of Capitol Heights, former president of

Barnard Welsh, president of the Rockville Volunteer Fire Department; Kent R. Mullikin, of Laurel, member of the Maryland House of Delegates; John J. BIDS FOR CLEARING SITE TO BE OPENED Montgomery Courthouse to Be Built on Block Made Available.

FIREMEN DINE TONIGHT

Bids for the clearing off of the block west of the courthouse at Rockville, which is to be the site for the new courthouse, will be opened at noon today by the Montgomery County Commissioners in their office at Rockville.

The bids call for the tearing down of the existing structures on the block and the clearing of the land. Bids were called for two weeks ago, but were refused. Later a bid was accepted from H. England, but this acceptance was canceled when Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, counsel to the county commissioners, decided that it would not be legal to accept a private bid for the work.

A meeting of the subcommittee on architectural design of the Montgomery Courthouse building committee will meet this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Bethesda County Building to discuss the exterior design for the new courthouse building, which has been approved by the Fine Arts Commission.

The committee is headed by Capt. Chester C. Wells and includes: George P. Sacks, of Bethesda; Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, of Alta Vista; George E. Hamilton, of the Rockville Pike, and H. F. Taff, of Takoma Park. Definite action on the designs is expected at the meeting.

The Bethesda Volunteer Fire Department will hold a dinner in honor of the members of the fire board tonight at 7 o'clock in the clubhouse of the Bethesda Women's Club.

Agencies Discuss Transients' Needs

Social Council Points Out Lack of Facilities in District.

Progress of work for amelioration of conditions of needy transients and the blind here were outlined at the monthly meeting of the Council of Social Agencies yesterday at the Y. W. C. A., with President Willard C. Smith presiding.

Miss Ruth Allison Hudnut, who with Miss Nelle Williams conducted a recent survey, deplored the lack of facilities in Washington for caring for transient drifters, both men and women, adding that 11,000 men last year were registered at the municipal lodging house. Due to lack of a central agency, she said, many received aid often from more than one organization. Miss Clara Somerville discussed vocational work under way for the 625 blind and near blind she said were in the District.

Mrs. John Jay O'Connor told of the formation of a committee composed of members from 24 organizations to study the transient situation here as part of a program with 19 other cities seeking betterment of conditions for drifters generally.

Police Free Two In Crack Shooting

Sweet, Victim of Police Guns, Only Suspect Being Held.

Arlington County authorities early last night released two men held in connection with the shooting late Wednesday afternoon of County Motorcycle Policeman Raymond Crack during his furious chase of a rum-laden automobile on the Mount Vernon Highway. The policeman, suffering from a bullet wound in the face, is reported recovering.

The two men, both freed at the order of Commonwealth Attorney William C. Gloth when questioning shed no light on the case, are Joe L. Whitehead, 25 years old, of Richmond, Va., and Harry Friedman, 28 years old, of Washington. Two other men arrested in connection with the shooting were released last Thursday.

The only other person being held in the case is Harry Sweet, alias Charlie Haskins, of Baltimore, who is in the Franklin Square Hospital suffering from a bullet wound in the shoulder he received during the chase. Sweet has confessed that he was driving the automobile.

FORMER MERCHANT ENDS LIFE WITH GAS

Leo Geschikter, Takoma Park Resident, Leaves Note Explaining Act.

FAMILY ABSENT AT TIME

Leo Geschikter, 65 years old, former Washington furrier, took his life yesterday by inhaling gas from the kitchen stove at his home, 17 Montgomery avenue, Takoma Park, Md., according to Montgomery County police. He first attempted suicide by slashing his wrists with a razor.

A letter, left by Mr. Geschikter, indicated that the act was premeditated because he felt that he was a burden and a fear of losing his second leg by amputation "I prefer death," he wrote.

Other members of the family were away at the time. The odor of gas was detected by neighbors, who called the police. State's Attorney Robert Peter said he was convinced that it was a case of suicide.

Police said they found evidence that Mr. Geschikter, who had only one leg, wheeled himself in a chair to the bathroom, where he slashed his wrists Failing in this attempt to kill himself, he rolled into the kitchen and laid his head on the gas stove, turning on four burners.

Mrs. Rose Geschikter was in Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, at the time. Four daughters and a son also survive. They are Mrs. Jeanett Kern, Mrs. Frances Newman, Mrs. Gertrude Luce and Mrs. Josephine Smith, all of Washington, and Dr. Charles Geschikter, of Johns Hopkins staff.

This program is brought to you through the courtesy of Knock & Knock, famous makers of hot and cold folding doors, who have but the services of Joe Opportunity as guest announcer. The next voice you hear will be that of Mr. Opportunity.

"Good morning, folks. We are now about to witness another battle of the century. The sky is blue above me as I stand before the microphone, there is a chill in the air. But it is a welcome chill—makes you feel like swinging your arms; taking deep breaths that fill you with vim, vigor and vitality. I'll turn the microphone so you can hear me breathe. Well, well. Wasn't that great? (Stop pushing the bellows, Chance).

"Here we are! Here we are folks. Here come the first candidates. A splendid group of men and women. Wish you could see them, I'll—No, no I can't describe any of them now—there's too many in the field. There's a prospective subscriber at the other end of the field. Someone has seen him. They've all seen him. Now they're off on the run. A great big fellow is out in front—Boy, oh boy, look at that fellow go!—The prospect has seen him, too. He's running, too, running the other way. Can he speed? He's getting away. No! No! He isn't getting away, ladies and gentlemen. Oh, that was great. Marvelous. Ladies and gentlemen, the prospect was just about to jump into a taxicab when the driver met him with a subscription book. As the prospect hesitated, a woman candidate grasped his arm Now he's standing talking to her—sorry I can't hear what he's saying. What's he saying, Chance? Send someone over to find out. Just a minute folks——

"Oh yes, yes. Folks, the man was saying that he would like nothing better than to receive The Washington Post delivered to his home every morning throughout the year.

"Now just a minute—I'll let you hear from the little lady who just got that subscription.

"This is Miss Whiffis, folks."

"Hello, everybody. I'm in this campaign to win one of twelve big automobiles or sixteen radios that The Post is going to give away and I have only two more days to secure 100,000 Extra Votes for each $20 worth of new subscriptions I turn in, so I'm working extra hard today and tomorrow. If you meet me you will know what it's all about. Thank you."

"Well, that'll be all for now, folks. I just want to remind you that there is still plenty of time for YOU to get in this contest. Take the 'mike,' Chance!"

Trade Committees to Meet.

The streets and avenues committee of the Washington Board of Trade will meet tomorrow at the City Club while the aviation committee of the organization will meet at the same place Thursday. Both meetings will be luncheons. Important matters are slated for discussion by both committees.

One Dead, Another Shot After Arkansas Spree

Bonanza, Ark., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—George Hodge, 25, a coal miner, is dead today, apparently a victim of his own gun, and Town Marshal Robert Ransome was in a hospital seriously wounded as the aftermath of Hodge's Sunday spree and Ransome's futile attempt to arrest him.

A farmer residing near here sent word to the marshal yesterday that Hodge, intoxicated, was raising a disturbance at his home. As Ransome approached, the miner was said to have shot him in the face and then fled to the hills. A posse trailing Hodge last night found his body on the summit of the mountain. His head had been virtually blown away by gunshot. A gun was clutched tightly in his hands.

Rate of Interest earned on mean invested assets 7.02%

The high rate of dividends allotted to participating policyholders is continued and the special dividend on maturing policies extended and increased.

EXTRACTS FROM DIRECTORS' REPORT

New policies paid for numbered 161,391 for a net amount of $654,451,143.27, an advance of $213,206,752.36, or more than forty-eight per cent., over the previous year. This marked increase and the fact that the average policy, for the first time, exceeded $4,000, affords impressive evidence of the ever-growing popularity of the Company.

After deducting amounts reassured, the total assurances in force amount to $2,401,237,036.94, an increase of $504,321,102.37. This advance is notable not merely for its magnitude, but because when allowance is made for terminations by death and maturity, it represents a remarkably high rate of continuance and evidences great satisfaction on the part of our policyholders.

The amount paid to policyholders since organization, together with the amount at present held for their security or benefit, exceeds the total amount received from them in premiums by $139,290,474.03.

The rate of interest earned on the mean invested assets has risen to 7.02 per cent. This figure includes a certain amount from bonuses and stock privileges accruing on many of the Company's holdings; but if these were entirely eliminated the rate would still be 6.60 per cent.

A net profit of $13,077,284.62 was realized from the redemption or sale of securities.

The surplus earned during the year, based on the values entered in the accounts, amounted to $42,863,578.59, but from this sum substantial appropriations have as usual been made to further strengthen the position of the Company.

An additional $10,000,000.00 has been deducted from the market values of our securities as a provision against possible market fluctuations, raising the amount thus set aside for this purpose in the accounts to $30,000,000.00.

A further $1,000,000.00 has been written off the Company's buildings.

$931,000.00 has been appropriated to raise the annuity reserves to the Rutherford table of valuation, with interest at 3½ per cent. This exacting standard requires reserves $2,656,000.00 in excess of those of the Dominion Government standard.

$1,200,000.00 has been set aside as additional provision for claims arising from total disability, death claims as yet unreported, and possible claims under cancelled policies on which a surrender value or reinstatement might be applied for.

$22,606,265.67 has been paid or allotted as profits for the year to policyholders.

The special amount entered as a liability to provide for unforeseen contingencies has been maintained at $12,500,000.00.

After making all these deductions and allocations, $5,868,899.96 has been added to the undivided surplus, bringing the total over liabilities, contingency accounts, and capital stock to $60,307,762.44.

In accordance with our usual conservative practice the securities owned by the Company have again been valued at figures much below the market quotations current at the close of the year. This undervaluation represents an important element of strength to the Company additional to the specific provisions in the statements.

Your Directors are pleased to announce that the high scale of profits at present allotted to participating policyholders will be continued during the ensuing year, while the Special Dividend on maturing policies, introduced last year, has been extended to include policies maturing after having been in force five years or longer, and the scale of benefit has been increased.

The business of the Company has always been conducted under the exacting provisions of the Canadian Insurance law and the rigid supervision of the Insurance Department of the Government of Canada. Ever since we entered the United States in 1895, the Company has been under similar supervision there and is now subject to the regulations of thirty-eight States of the Union which require periodical examination of the affairs of all companies licensed in their territory. In the discharge of their regular duties a committee of twenty-two examiners, representing the States of Michigan, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Ohio, Tennessee, Washington, Virginia, West Virginia, Florida and the District of Columbia recently completed an exhaustive examination into every department of the Company's affairs. The report of this committee makes gratifying reference to the liberal treatment accorded to our policyholders, and provides authoritative testimony to the Company's strength. Even adopting the low valuations placed by us on our securities, the committee still reported a surplus at the close of last year $1,333,921.71 in excess of the figure claimed by the Company.

PARITY BY RIGHT, NOT BY PURCHASE.

The defeat of the Tardieu cabinet in the French Chamber adds to the confusion of the London conference. There is no reason to suppose, however, that the attitude of France will change. M. Tardieu was supported by all France in his statement of French naval demands. His program is not merely that of a cabinet, but was shaped by committees of the Chamber and unanimously approved by public opinion.

A concerted agitation has been started in England, having for its object the participation by the United States in a security pact relating to the Mediterranean, which, if consummated might cause France to diminish its naval program and thus relieve Great Britain of the necessity of building cruisers and destroyers to offset the enormous French submarine program. Added naval construction, in the present exhausted state of British finances, is dreaded by all parties in England. It is for this reason that Britain is willing to establish naval parity with the United States.

France's submarine program can not be permitted to become a reality if Britain can prevent it. An increase of 35 per cent in British naval tonnage would be required to offset the French program. Parity with the United States would be out of the question. Therefore, an organized effort is now made to induce the United States to enter into a political pact that would give security to France and thereby enable her to cut down her naval program. The appeal to the United States is based upon two grounds. First, this country can not have parity with Britain unless it satisfies France; and second, the United States is sponsor for the Kellogg pact, and is morally bound to make an agreement to punish any violator of the pact. Thus it is hoped that the double appeal to America's pocket and its idealism may save England from the expense of meeting French naval competition.

The proposal that the United States shall share responsibility for putting down war in the Mediterranean or elsewhere will not be accepted by this country. Americans have had recent experience in rushing to the rescue of European nations, and they want no more of it. Senator Walsh, of Montana, believes that it would be cheaper for America to share in guaranteeing the peace of Europe than to take part in its wars, which would involve United States in any event. But he is almost alone in this opinion, and he admits that the public will not approve such a plan. Americans believe that they can keep out of European wars. They think that Germany's experience will serve as a warning to other countries that may be tempted to outrage American rights.

The first obligation of the United States in preserving its peace and independence is to avoid European entanglements. The other is to compel Europe to keep out of the political affairs of this hemisphere. There will be no excuse for barring Europe out of New World politics if the United States intermeddles in Old World affairs. The road to peace does not lie through entangling the New World with the Old. It is often suggested that the United States can not keep out of European broils; that it will be drawn into any war that may break out. An answer to this might be: Ask Germany whether it pays a European belligerent to provoke America to fight.

Naval parity with Great Britain is America's right. It is a right that does not have to be purchased. Great Britain's desire to possess double the naval power of France is not a matter that concerns the United States. There is no reason why the United States should contribute to Britain's naval supremacy over France and Italy combined, thus turning the Mediterranean over to British control. The United States will not underwrite European peace, or pledge itself to go to war against any enemy that may appear against Britain, France, or any other power. It reserves its war strength for its own assailants. It is reaching naval parity with Great Britain, whether the London conference succeeds or fails.

USING PROHIBITION FOR POLITICS.

Certain members of the Senate seem to feel that that body is not doing its share in keeping the prohibition issue alive. President Hoover had a special committee investigate the subject and bring in recommendations for improvement of the enforcement machinery. A House committee is conducting hearings on various bills to amend or abolish the liquor laws. But alas! The Senate is tethered to the tariff bill, and hasn't had a fair chance to star in the wet and dry debate, except at brief intervals. But its judiciary committee is now functioning, and the Senate may make a contribution of its own to the prohibition muddle.

Senator Wheeler proposed an investigation of prohibition enforcement by the judiciary committee, but Senator Norris, chairman of the committee, goes a step further. He would order a probe of the enforcement bureau and of "all matters in any wise pertaining to enforcement of prohibition laws." He would have the committee especially determine whether the antiliquor laws have been "faithfully, fairly and honestly enforced," and if not whether the lack of enforcement is due to inefficient or dishonest officials. He wants to know if the dry laws "have not been perverted or nullified by the incompetency or the prejudice of executive Government officials having to do with the enforcement of said laws or the appointment of subordinate officials."

From the Democrat-insurgent viewpoint this resolution is very timely. Many of them will be returning home in a few months to seek reelection. What better opportunity could there be to discredit the administration and reaffirm their own political aridity? Senator Norris has special need for a convincing dry gesture after supporting the wet Democratic candidate for the Presidency in 1928. He is not content that Senator Wheeler should receive full credit for this ingenious plan to make political capital.

Prohibition is already being investigated from almost every conceivable angle. The law enforcement commission has made only a preliminary report. The Department of Justice has been probing into conditions relating to enforcement, and has undertaken to secure prosecuting attorneys who are thoroughly in sympathy with the law. The administration is sponsoring the movement to transfer the enforcement agency from the Treasury to the Department of Justice, which will be attended by many changes in personnel.

It is difficult to see what constructive action could come out of an investigation during this transition period. If the Senate votes the $25,000 called for in this resolution it should be considered as a campaign contribution to senators who face a hard fight for reelection.

ALEXANDER P. MOORE.

Alexander P. Moore, who died yesterday in Los Angeles, was a distinguished journalist, and an even more distinguished diplomat. Born in Pennsylvania, at an early age he obtained a job as office boy on a newspaper, advanced rapidly until he reached the top of his profession. In 1920, as publisher of the Pittsburgh Leader, he actively supported the campaign of Warren G. Harding, and in 1923, when the Leader suspended publication, Mr. Moore was appointed Ambassador to Spain.

Mr. Moore won the respect and confidence of the Spanish king and people. The embassy was a Mecca for Americans in Europe. The ambassador worked indefatigably for the interests of his country, but he became a champion also for the advancement of Spain.

His successful career as Ambassador to Spain led to Mr. Moore's appointment as Ambassador to Peru. In Lima he played an important role in ironing out the 46-year-old controversy between Peru and Chile over the disputed provinces of Tacna and Arica. After the settlement was reached, in the summer of 1929, he departed for the United States. He did not return to South America, although he remained Ambassador to Peru until he became Ambassador to Poland less than a month ago. He would have been the first American Ambassador to Poland.

Alexander Moore died in his prime. He served his country well, and his countrymen mourn his untimely death.

RUSSIA ABOLISHES RELIGION.

The protest of European and American churches against the antireligious campaign in Soviet Russia is gaining steady momentum. Since Pope Pius denounced the Russian policy and set a date for all Roman Catholics to join in prayer for those suffering persecution, the Archbishops of York and Canterbury in England, Bishop Manning of New York, and many other churchmen have publicly protested.

An attempt to answer these charges is made through the official organs of the Communist party. Religion in Russia, they say, has never been persecuted. The present situation has come about, they blandly explain, because church circles failed to appreciate in due time the significance of the great social revolution and continued to behave as an open enemy of the Soviet power.

The Communist scheme has no place for religion. Teaching of religion to persons under 18 years of age is prohibited. Churches have been confiscated by the Communist regime. Ministers have been disfranchised. Sunday has been abolished in the new Soviet calendar. Atheism is openly encouraged.

The Stalin regime has adopted its favorite method of camouflage in directing the anti-religion movement. Religious leaders are prosecuted as enemies of the State. It is as individuals, and not as priests and bishops, that they are jailed or slaughtered. As for antireligious propaganda, the Soviet authorities would not soil their hands with such business. They leave it to an unofficial body, in just the same way as they handle communistic propaganda. The Atheist Society functions in one case, and the Communist International in the other. Dictators of the Communist party control both these propaganda agencies, and with their usual duplicity they try to avoid responsibility for the acts of both.

The campaign against religion is a part of the general scheme to abolish everything that does not contribute to the success of the Bolshevist regime. The churches are a menace to communism because they provide a means through which protest against the Soviet program can be made. Individual rights and property have been abolished. It is only logical that the churches should be crushed by the same ruthless machine. The Communists are building a system in which the individual is merely a cog in a great machine, and all liberties, public and individual, are snuffed out as the machine grinds on.

MR. COOLIDGE TRAVELS.

When Calvin Coolidge was in New Orleans recently, he is credited with having said: "President Hoover likes deep-sea fishing. I prefer the creeks." Mr. Coolidge, as President, risked neither squall nor whirlpool.

Curiosity is expressed as to the reason for Mr. Coolidge's present swing around the country. Earlier in the winter he went to Florida to attend a convention of the life insurance company of which he is an official, but when that event was concluded he did not return to Northampton. Although he is supposed to have an aversion to traveling, he started out for New Orleans and is bound for southern California. Why does Mr. Coolidge undertake a 5,000-mile tour at this particular time?

Maybe Mr. Coolidge is just ambling through the Southern States looking over the creeks. Maybe he is just trying to get acquainted with the people who live on the creeks.

Sir Alfred Knox, M. P., charges that the United States "ravages" the English language. We'll bet he pronounced it "raw-vages."

THE FRANCO-BRITISH IMPASSE

By COMMANDER H. H. FROST, U. S. N.

The recent statement by the French delegation of its desired strength for 1936 has created a delicate, if not critical, situation at the London conference. The French statement is so involved and so many details are lacking that its full significance can not be grasped without some interpretation and explanation.

The French naval strength, about 725,000 tons, at first appears large when compared with the projected British total of 1,200,000. However, in fairness to the French, it should be pointed out that at least 88,000 tons of this total are old, semiobsolete, vessels which need hardly enter into our calculations. If we subtract them, the French total comes down to 637,000 tons, or only about 53 per cent of the British figure. This does not appear unreasonable.

The Washington treaty gave France the right to keep the three battleships of the Voltaire class in addition to its allotted total of 175,000 tons of capital ships. As these vessels are very old and have a mixed battery of 11.8 and 9.4 inch guns they offer no threat to the British or any other navy. The French now have six first-line battleships, completed between 1913 and 1916. Another, the France, was sunk accidentally in 1922. The Washington treaty gave France the right to replace this vessel and two other battleships with 70,000 tons of capital ships. France expressly reserved the right to use this tonnage to construct ships of any size she desired up to 35,000 tons. These vessels could have been commenced in 1927 and commissioned in 1930. This right to early construction was given France because of the age of her ships. In reserving the right to construct 70,000 tons during the period until 1936 France is only continuing a privilege which it could have used, but did not, in the past.

This right would permit France to build three fast and strong battle cruisers of 23,000 tons to overtake and overpower the 10,000-ton German "pocket battleships." The British have, of course, the three immensely more powerful battle cruisers, Hood, Repulse and Renown, to meet the three new French ships—if they are ever built. It does not appear that reasonable objection can be taken to this part of the French program.

The French have one newly converted aircraft carrier of about 22,000 tons. They do not desire to build more carriers. As they were allotted 60,000 tons of this type by the Washington treaty they are entitled to some extra consideration when we come to the other types.

France asks for 100,000 tons of eight-inch cruisers. Italy now has 60,000 tons in its program. Germany had one of its "pocket-battleships" half built and is permitted a total of six. The British plan to have 150,000 tons of eight-inch cruisers. So a 3 to 2 superiority over France looks rather a small margin to a nation whose greatest admiral said: "A fleet of British ships of war are the best negotiators in Europe."

Tardieu has stated the intention of his country to build their six-inch cruisers and destroyers to a total of about 258,000 tons. The British proposition for these types combined is 339,000 tons—189,000 cruisers and 150,000 destroyers. The ratio in favor of the British therefore would be only about 4 to 3. And this is not all the story. The French have developed and gained a long lead in a new type, which might be called the "super-destroyer." These vessels are faster than the British cruisers and more powerful than their destroyers. The British cruisers can steam from 29 to 33 knots. Their destroyers mount 4.7-inch guns. The French super-destroyers can make from 33 to 40 knots and their guns are 5.1 or 5.5 inches. And there are now 56 of these vessels built or authorized. Before 1936 comes around there will be more. The Italians also have gone in for these large destroyers, but have given rather more emphasis to the speed than the size of guns. Their destroyer fleet totals 88,000 tons and must also be considered by British admirals. Incidentally, United States destroyers have about 32 knots speed and 4-inch guns.

In submarines the French delegation asks for 90,629 tons. This is the crux of the whole problem. The British destroyers, only 150,000 tons, manifestly would have a tremendous task keeping so many submarines in check, to say nothing of opposing the larger French destroyers. But, of course, the French do not mean for them to be kept in check. Having conceded the British a superiority in capital ships, they mean to have the superiority in submarines. Manifestly French submarines can operate with great effectiveness from their perfectly located bases on the English Channel, the Bay of Biscay and the Mediterranean. It would be difficult to protect British warships against their attack in these narrow seas. Also many of the French boats are large and fast—perfectly suited for waging a cruiser warfare against British merchant shipping in accordance with the authorized procedure of international law. Undoubtedly then the French submarine fleet would be a foe to be reckoned with most seriously in a European war. The British openly stated their alarm in 1922 at Washington. Certainly they still must feel it.

In fact, there have been recent indications that the British will demand increases to meet the French program. Unofficial dispatches mention 30,000 more tons of 8-inch cruisers, 60,000 tons of 6-inch cruisers, and 50,000 tons of destroyers; total 140,000. These increases would disturb the tentative agreements with the United States upon which so much hope had been placed. It has always been understood that these were contingent upon suitable agreement with France. Still there is nothing new in the recent French demands. Now they want 358,000 tons of cruisers and destroyers and 99,000 tons of submarines. At the Washington conference they stated that the absolute minimum they would even consider were 330,000 and 90,000, respectively. So they have gone up only 10 per cent.

Thus we are again, after eight years, striving to break the same Franco-British impasse which prevented the limitation of cruisers, destroyers and submarines at Washington.

The Mediterranean situation further complicates this difficult problem. Great Britain, France and Italy all have absolutely vital sea routes across its blue waters. They form a veritable spider's web on the map. The day when one nation could rule them all is past. If one nation has such control it has the others in its power if war comes. Each nation can not base its case upon the need for meeting all conceivable eventualities. "We believe," said Hugh Gibson, "we should deal with this subject on a broader and higher ground." A three-sided balancing of naval power in the Mediterranean seems the solution which will contribute most to its peaceful use by the merchant fleets of all the world. This balancing of power can be accomplished, despite technical difficulties, if the wish and will to do so exists at London—and we believe it does.

THE PRIZES.

Said an old-time champion to me, as he showed me many a prize,
Which he had won in his earlier days:
"Are they dazzling to your eyes?
You think them precious to hold and keep, but the fire I would throw them in
Could I only be the boy once more with his first prize yet to win.

"These are trophies of victory, and time was I thought them sweet,
But I'd rather be out there playing now and facing again defeat
Than sitting here in an idler's chair with my prizes round me lined,
With nothing to dread, and nothing to risk, and nothing to stir my mind.

"Oh, the game is more than its prize, my boy, as soon you will come to know,
The joy of the race is in running it,
and not in the thing to show.
I've cups and medals enough to spare, but I'd give them all to claim
The thrill of the youngsters struggling there who haven's yet won a game.

"Now I'm settled down and watch them go to the fields to lose or win,
With eyes agleam and with hearts on fire they'll battle through thick and thin,
And I'd rather be those who will lose today, and tomorrow will try anew,
For they still have the joy of the game, while I am left with a

To Prove Yourself a Prince, You Must Make "the Old Man" a King.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

LET us suppose you are an ordinary, middle-aged man—married, and the father of two children.

Your parents live in a distant State and you haven't seen them for years.

You mention them frequently, however, and describe them to casual acquaintances as "my little mother" and "dear old dad."

Apparently you are very fond of them and consider them superior to people of your own age and kind.

As a matter of fact, your "little mother" weighed a trifle over two hundred pounds when you last saw her.

She was a complaining, unreasonable creature, who seemed interested in you only when you had violated some foolish restriction.

At times she punished you unfairly; at times she seemed slovenly and ugly; at times she lost her temper and made you ashamed of her.

"Dear old dad" was worse.

He required you to do unpleasant things he wouldn't do himself; he ridiculed you in the presence of other adults; he seemed to regard you as a nuisance, and took no interest in your affairs.

At times he seemed ignorant and stupid; at times he seemed a cheap braggart; at times he seemed vulgar and cowardly and coarse.

When you visited other boys in their homes, and observed everybody minding his p's and q's, you were ashamed of your parents and you resolved to learn good manners and be somebody.

If your parents were that kind of people, why do you endow them with imaginary excellence?

Because you must make them respectable to make yourself worthy of respect.

By saying "little mother" you create an illusion that adds inches to your own stature; and by ennobling both parents with imaginary virtues you justify the tender reverence that proves you such a model son, and also convey the idea that a child of such ideal parents must himself be a person of unusual merit.

Thus the ego finds fodder to feed self-respect.

Has it occurred to you that your own children some day will have need of self-respect to stiffen their backbones?

Must they also use their imaginations?

If they must go away from home to learn good manners, and if they regard you as an enemy and a kill-joy, the "dear old dad" and "darling little mother" they worship in years to come will be imaginary creatures you wouldn't recognize.

THE ONCE OVER

ELMER TWITCHELL ON PRESIDENTIAL ANGLING.

Elmer Twitchell isn't impressed by President Hoover's fishing prowess as pictured in the newspaper dispatches. Elmer thinks it's all done by mirrors.

• • • •

"You noticed that when Mr. Hoover caught all those big fish," said Mr. Twitchell, "he was accompanied by close associates and stalwart Republicans. I'll believe he caught a 45-pound sailfish when I hear there were some Democrats and strangers in the boat."

• • • •

"When Mr. Hoover goes fishing he is accompanied by his secretary, his personal physician, his favorite newspaper correspondent and his great friend, Justice Harlan Stone," continued Elmer. "You never hear of him letting anybody like Senator Walsh, of Montana, in the boat, do you? Not much!

• • • •

Personally, I've got a hunch that Herbert Hoover ain't so hot about fishing, anyhow. I think he really dislikes it and that the Republican party is just building up a Hoover fisherman myth.

• • • •

"It's a well-known fact that the thing a party tries to do with a new President is to get him into the public mind as a sportsman of some kind or another. It helps to popularize him and make him more human. Now, Mr. Hoover don't hunt, he ain't a dashing horseman and he don't play golf. Those stories about his morning handball games didn't get across big, so they decided to make him a fisherman.

• • • •

"The public always warms up to a man who goes fishing. Look how it worked with Calvin Coolidge. Cal was about the most colorless President the G. O. P. ever had on its hands. It knew it never could put him across as a lion hunter, a great athlete or a man who got 300 yards with his wooden clubs, so it made him a fisherman and got away with it.

"If any man ever suffered when fishing it was Calvin Coolidge, and I think that was one reason he refused to run again. If the party had agreed to let him burn his tackle he would have consented to renomination.

• • • •

"It's the same game all over again with Hoover. The G. O. P. is determined to put him over as a mighty fisherman, the Florida chambers of commerce cooperating to the limit.

• • • •

"No, sir," concluded Elmer, "I'm not being fooled. If the Republican party wants to convince me that Herbert Hoover dashes to the Florida Keys, rushes out in a boat and spins back in no time with a 45-pound sailfish, let it send him out in a boat with Al Smith or Mr. Raskob, or somebody like that."

FOOD FOR THE JOKESMITH.

The Smithsonian Institution has grown a tomato without the use of dirt. It is to be hoped it will get busy at once with spinach and strawberries.

The Facisti administration in Italy has forbidden all jokes about the order. This is a certain sign it must be getting pretty weak.

The Department of Commerce announces with a glow of pride that the United States leads the world as a producer of false teeth. But somehow or other it's hard to get the little boys and girls to burst into an orgy of flag-waving over that.

How do we stand in the glass eye industry? And, now that our curiosity is aroused, can it be true that America has dropped to third place in the international league as a manufacturer of false mustaches?

MORE EVIDENCE FOR PADLOCKING.

Among the many proofs that there is a less than lukewarm support of the dry law is the fact that most of the new hotels in the country have a combination corkscrew and cap remover attached to the wall.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Sketch of Supreme Court History Shows That it Is Human, But Holds the Scales Even.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In connection with the threat of so-called Progressive senators that, if the Supreme Court does not change its policy to suit their wishes, they will set the fierce democracy on its trail, a glimpsing view of similar incidents in its history may be worth while.

Says Senator Dill: "It is for Chief Justice Hughes and Justice Sutherland and Justice Butler and Justice Van Devanter and Justice Sanford and Justice McReynolds, by their decisions in the future to say whether or not the Supreme Court will be in politics."

But when was the Supreme Court ever out of politics?

As far away as 1832 President Andrew Jackson negatived a Supreme Court mandate. In the course of the celebrated dispute between the Cherokee Indians and the State of Georgia, the court—John Marshall then Chief Justice—ordered the release of certain persons imprisoned under a State statute which was declared to be invalid. Instead of enforcing the Supreme Court order as in duty bound, Old Hickory remarked, "John Marshall has pronounced his judgment; let him enforce it if he can."

Turning back to the beginning of the nineteenth century we find President Thomas Jefferson, ardent proponent of States' rights, and Chief Justice John Marshall, steadfast champion of Federal authority, involved in a veritable political feud. The dubious impeachment of Justice Chase, of the Supreme Court, was for the purpose of setting a precedent on which to impeach the Chief Justice himself. Chase was acquitted; and then John Randolph, the Jeffersonian leader of the House of Representatives, made a futile proposal of an amendment to the Constitution by which, at the request of both Houses of Congress, Federal judges could be removed by the President.

Until 1835 the Supreme Court, with John Marshall at its head, was a quasi-partisan body, more or less imbued with the spirit of Federalism, as opposed to the Jeffersonian States' rights doctrine. After Marshall's death, in 1835, with Chief Justice Roger B. Taney presiding, its decisions were, until Cival War times, more or less tinctured with the doctrine of the Democratic party.

The bitter political criticism of the Supreme Court, resulting from its decision in the Drew Scott case, 1857, is well known. And again, in 1871, when, reversing its decision of the previous year, it affirmed the constitutionality of the act making paper money—greenbacks—a legal tender, its integrity was violently questioned. Doubtless the senatorial Progressives would have sung its praise had they been in politics at that time, when in the celebrated Granger cases, it handed down its antimonopoly decisions in 1876.

In other instances the Supreme Court has been a center of political egitation, and its partisan spirit as here revealed safely held in check as it has been by judicial gravity, speaks well for the healthy growth of the Republic.

It is well to bear in mind that the court is not a sacrosanct body endowed with divine insight. It is not a pulseless mechanism adjusted to respond automatically in harmony with every shade of constitutional meaning. And realizing that its members are simply human after all, our fair conclusion must be that the manner in which it has come through the fateful vicissitudes of the past justifies the high esteem in which it is held by the people of the United States.

That it has maintained its integrity despite the stress of political feeling, holding a safe balance of authority between the Federal Government and the States, is its best vindication against the declamatory onslaughts of discontented partisans.

American-British Parity Agreement Should Include Abandonment of Singapore Naval Base.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Americans at London should insist upon the definite abandonment of the Singapore naval base as a part of the parity program with Great Britain. The London Times says:

"As a matter of fact, the successful issue of the conference would make the Singaport base a more unimpeachable piece of work than ever, since it accords completely with the idea of a navy consisting largely of small cruisers designed for the protection of commerce."

This is entirely misleading. The Singapore base is not designed for small cruisers at all. It is a base for a British battle fleet, and if completed it would make the British navy overwhelmingly superior to either the Japanese or American fleet in Asiatic waters.

There will be no security for the Philippines if the Singapore base is constructed. Inasmuch as the United States has agreed to leave the Philippines unfortified, it is up to Great Britain to abandon the Singapore base, which is a menace to the Philippines.

NAVAL OFFICER.

Annuitant Urges Passage of Dale Bill to Obtain Immediate Relief.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your timely editorial in reference to the Federal retirement bill has doubtless been gratefully read and approved by the great majority of those now on the retired list.

The consensus of opinion among those most deeply interested is that the Dale bill as it passed the Senate should be allowed to become a law at once, and thus relieve, to a small degree at least, the suffering of many who are now unable to provide the actual necessities of life from their present small allowance.

The new bill proposed by Mr. Lehlbach, and chiefly advocated by those still in active service, and who can afford to wait, has doubtless some great features, but how long will it take to secure its enactment into a law? In the meantime how much hardship will be caused by the delay? It is prayerfully hoped that Mr. Lehlbach will give favorable consideration to these several points.

EIELSON SEARCHERS FIND BORLAND DEAD

Discovery of Body Leads to Belief Other Aviator's Is Nearby.

WORK IN SNOW GOES ON

Motorship Nanuk, North Cape, Siberia, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—The body of Earl Borland, companion of Carl Ben Eielson, noted Arctic flier, has been found near the wreckage of their plane which crashed November 9, last, 90 miles southeast of North Cape, and today searchers resumed the hunt for Eielson's body. Storms had interrupted the search.

Momentarily expecting word from the searchers that the body of Eielson had been found, the officers and crew of this icebound fur trading vessel today were preparing to receive Borland's body.

The finding of the body was the first actual proof of the generally accepted belief that the two airmen died in the wreck which occurred while they were attempting to fly to the Nanuk from Teller, Alaska.

Borland's body was found last Thursday, but bad weather kept Pilot Harold Gillam from bringing the news to the Nanuk.

Working under severe weather conditions, nineteen men today were digging in the snowdrifts near the wreckage in the search for the body of Eielson, who once was pilot for Sir Hubert Wilkins, the explorer.

As the two airmen were side by side in the plane, which was filled with supplies for the Nanuk, it was believed here the body of Eielson would be found within a short distance of Borland's, which was under 5 feet of snow and ice. It lay near the engine of the plane which had been hurled 100 feet from the wrecked ship. After Borland's body is brought here, it will be taken to the Alaskan coast in one of the planes which has been here in the search.

Searchers said indications were that Borland was killed instantly when the plane crashed.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

IT IS not believed that Chairman Legge, of the Farm Board, is a superstitious man, but there is good reason to believe that he thinks there are evil spirits down in Georgia that would do him harm.

There was a set of circumstances, a sequence of them; indeed, a row of little coincidences toppling over one another which are so deeply rooted in the chairman's mind that it is believed there will have to be some mighty strong explanations and reassurances before he is ever convinced that the State is not hostile to him.

The story reveals at least how sensitive this hard-boiled business man is.

IT BEGAN some time ago when members of the Georgia delegation in the House, with Representative Larsen as the main one, conceived of the idea of showing off Mr. Legge in Georgia, of showing the Georgia farmers the man who had $500,000,000 to give them.

It is part of Mr. Legge's Republican business to go around and permit himself to be shown off this way, so he agreed to make a speech at Milledgeville. Well, shortly after he agreed to do this, he said something one day which the bears in the cotton market seized upon to run the cotton market down. It fell $2 or so a bale.

Whereupon, Senator Harris, of Georgia, in a speech in the Senate jumped all over Mr. Legge's neck, asserting among other things that he had cost the cotton producers $50,000,000.

• • • •

MR. LEGGE thereupon decided there was no need of his going to Georgia. He advised Mr. Larsen or some of the Georgia members that after Senator Harris' speech, the Georgia farmers were undoubtedly hostile to him and he could see no need of going to see them.

The Georgia members, of course, had to start all over persuading him. Presumably they told him that he should not take Senator Harris so seriously; that if he would go to Georgia, he would receive a most hospitable reception. Mr. Legge yielded and went down to make the speech.

And sure enough there were no lynchings, Ku Klux Klan demonstrations or hostility of any kind.

• • • •

MR. LEGGE left Milledgeville in a most agreeable frame of mind, perhaps feeling that he had had the wrong impression of Georgians. But this was not to be for long.

He was returning to Atlanta in an automobile with a couple of prominent Georgia men. A colored chauffeur was driving and he was moving along. The car passed through a little place called Jonesboro so fast, indeed, that the constabulary up and took notice as well as pursuit. And they also telephoned ahead.

A few miles nearer Atlanta the car was stopped by the sheriff with badge, gun and all and no explanation of identities seemed to dissuade him from his official bent. Finally, he did agree to let the chauffeur return the next day and face the speeding charge.

But a letter Mr. Legge has since written to one of the sponsors of his trip leaves no doubt as to his feelings on the matter at all. After reciting his treatment he concluded with the significant statement that when he reached Atlanta he got on the train about as fast as he could and "got out of the country."

Mr. Legge's letter, indeed, leaves little doubt but that he believes the whole incident was an outgrowth of Harris' speech, part and parcel of a Georgia plot. Why, if the Georgians had felt hostile to Mr. Legge they would have put him in jail!

Deficiency Bill Goes Before House Preparatory to Passing Senate.

FIRE REPAIRS PROVIDED

Carrying emergency appropriations for many District projects, the first deficiency bill was introduced in the House yesterday by Chairman Wood of the appropriations committee. It will pass the House this week and will then go to the Senate.

The bill provides $550,000 for the construction of two high-powered incinerators to dispose of refuse here. This sum was carried in the regular District budget, but was transferred to the deficiency bill at the suggestion of Maj. Donald A. Davison, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, who wants to start the work right away instead of waiting until July 1, when the regular District appropriation bill becomes operative.

Other items are as follows:

For razing buildings on the site of the new Supreme Court Building, $500,000. The building will be completed in two and a half years and will cost $9,740,000.

For reconstructing the roof and attic of the executive office building at the White House, which was damaged by fire Christmas eve, $100,000. For putting in an air-conditioning system, $30,000.

For repairing the damage done by the fire at the Capitol about a week later, $3,000.

Incidentally, the testimony before the appropriations committee revealed that the exact cause of these two fires still is a mystery.

For continuing the construction of the Arlington Memorial Bridge, $200,000. The bridge ultimately will cost $14,750,000. The committee was told by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, that the traffic should be moving over the bridge by 1932, although the span would not be completed by then.

For the restoration of Wakefield, Va., the birthplace of George Washington, $65,000.

For a gate at the National Zoological Park, $2,000.

For the Personnel Classification Board to permit it to complete its survey of civilian positions comparable to positions in the Government service, $20,000.

For the pay raises granted Capitol employes in a bill passed last year, $910,641.

MIGUEL DE RIVERA DEPORTED BY SPAIN

Son of Former Premier Sent to France to Prevent Duel Fighting.

BROTHER IS WATCHED

Madrid, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Miguel Primo de Rivera, second son of the former dictator, is the first person to be expelled from Spain by the Berenguer government. He was ordered deported to France today in order, it was officially explained, to prevent him from fighting duels with army officers in Madrid who, he said, had insulted his father.

Miguel, who is a lieutenant in the reserve corps and about 26 years old, boxed the ears of Gen. Queipo de Llano in a fashionable cafe last week, fought a fist fight with him and challenged him to a duel, for sending an "insulting" letter to the resigned dictator. Because of the difference in rank, Miguel was threatened with disciplinary measures instead of having his challenge accepted.

This morning he was placed on the express train for Irun and Hendaye, Franco-Spanish frontier stations, accompanied by police who were ordered to see him across the border into France.

Primo de Rivera already is in Paris with his two daughters. His eldest son, Jose Antonio, a lawyer about 27 years old, is under surveillance in Madrid, also to prevent his fighting duels with those attacking his father. It is reported that Jose Antonio also may be deported to France. The former dictator's third son is a lieutenant in the aviation corps, serving with his unit in Africa.

under the circumstances and he replied: "I'd certainly let the country know about it."

This is apparently what Mr. Tilson was doing at the time.

Considerable surprise was expressed as to why Mr. Tilson told the President that Mr. Hughes should have been defended in the Senate and also why others of Mr. Hoover's advisers told him the same thing, these others speaking even stronger about the matter than Mr. Tilson.

The Senate leaders think that one of the smartest things they ever did was to bend all their efforts toward pressing for a vote on Mr. Hughes and not playing into the opposition's hands by defending him.

But it was certainly a bad day for the Senate with the President. This morning he is to have Speaker Longworth, Mr. Tilson, Representative Hawley and Senators Watson, McNary and Smoot for breakfast to find out more about the situation.

Mexico Reassures Arrested Author

Ortiz Rubio Informs U. S. Newspaperman Action Lacked Sanction.

Mexico City, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Carleton Beals, American author and newspaperman, who was arrested and held incommunicado by military authorities for several hours last Friday, today received assurances from President Ortiz Rubio that the arrest was "a mistake and without the sanction of the president." The president said he deeply regretted the incident and guaranteed Mr. Beals complete immunity from a recurrence of such tactics.

Through Lieut. Col. Chazaro, presidential secretary, President Ortiz Rubio informed Mr. Beals that "every American citizen is guaranteed complete protection in Mexico and freedom from improper official molestation." Col. Gordon Johnstone, military attache of the American Embassy, was present.

Mr. Beals issued a statement saying that "the lamentable incident of my illegal arrest by military authorities last Friday has been entirely cleared up through a most satisfactory conference with Col. Chazaro."

COALITION SCORES VICTORY IN ALUMINUM TARIFFS CUT

Total against—39.

Mellon Interests Cited.

Arguing for the aluminum cuts, Senator Walsh described the Aluminum Co. of America as an "iron-bound, copper-rivited monopoly, which had declined to reveal its production costs to aid in the determination of a fair tariff."

He read from reports saying that Andrew W. Mellon and R. B. Mellon were in control of the company and that the company had earned more than $19,000,000 in one year.

In addition to controlling production in this country, Walsh said, the company had established a big plant in Canada and now controlled the purchase of bauxite from which aluminum is obtained, from South American and other countries.

Greatest Monopoly, Says Norris.

The domination of the company over the American market was so complete, the Montanan asserted, that "no other aluminum company can be organized in the United States to compete with it."

Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, opposed the reductions on the ground that no one could assure him what would happen to the 10,000 workers he said were employed by the aluminum company in New York State. He agreed that the company was a giant of the industrial world meriting some form of "punishment" but he was not sure a tariff cut would be the way to apply it. He was afraid the New York plant would be transferred to Canada if the cuts were enacted.

Seizing on this point, Senator Norris (Republican Independent), Nebraska, said:

"We are confronted here with a proposition that the Aluminum Co. of America, controlled by the Secretary of Treasury and his immediate family, is the greatest monopoly in the civilized world and is protected by a tariff that has enabled the Mellon family to build up this monopoly.

Smoot Against Cut.

"I can not believe that the Secretary of the Treasury who is one of the dominant influences of the Government and has been for three administrations, would resign his office and move away and take his aluminum business with him."

Senator Deneen (Republican), Illinois, opposed the reductions. He said 50,000 persons were employed in the industry which had a capital investment of $400,000,000 and since no testimony had been taken in committee on a proposed cut he thought it unfair to reduce the levies without the industry being heard.

Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, warned against reducing the rates. He said he did not believe a cut would make much difference to the Aluminum Co., but when it was cut to 2 and 3½ cents a pound it was "low enough to pay them to go to Canada."

The duty accepted for cast iron pipe was 25 per cent as compared with 20 per cent in the present law and 30 per cent in the bill.

A rate of 40 per cent was assigned to Fourdrinier wires as against 30 per cents in the present law and 55 per cent in the bill.

The existing levies restored were wire rods six-tenths of a cent a pound, bill 20 per cent; hollow drill steel valued at more than 4 cents a pound, 1.7 a pound, bill 3 cents; wire rope, 35 per cent, bill 40 per cent.

ENGRAVERS INDORSE RETIREMENT BILL

that is for their own benefit. Their action merely proves that they did not understand what they were doing.

"The Dale bill, which the Navy Yard workers indorsed, contains nothing which my bill does not also provide. My bill goes further and reduces the retirement age from 65 to 62, with an option for retirement at 60."

Chairman Lehlbach made it plain that he was not going to yield in his preference for his own bill, and a history of personnel legislation shows that he usually gets what he wants.

Retired Employe for Bill.

Dr. Arthur MacDonald, a retired employe who long has been a student of retirement laws, issued a statement yesterday in which he gave unqualified indorsement to the Lehlbach bill.

"The new Lehlbach bill," he said, "contains nearly everything that was requested by the various interested organizations, which means all that is in the Dale bill, and more.

"The Dale bill excludes, first, employes of the United States Soldiers' Home; second, employes of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers; third, employes of the State Department who are American citizens but who are outside the continental limits, and, fourth, employes of the Indian Service at large. The Lehlbach bill includes these included classes, and rights an injustice.

"In the Dale bill, for 30 or more years' service, the average annuity is $840, and thousands get less; but in the Lehlbach bill, for like service, everyone receives a $900 annuity, and many receive more.

"In the Dale bill, for at least fifteen years' service many receive an annuity of less than $450; while in the Lehlbach bill, no one receives less."

Deffered Payment Plan Is in Effect on Fokkers

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Deferred payments on purchases of Fokker aircraft went into effect today with the announcement of a new finance service of the General Motors Acceptance Corporation. The service, which extends the same terms to aircraft as applied to automobiles, requires a down payment of one-third of the price and the balance in 12 equal monthly installments. Insurance coverage is a requirement of the plan.

The announcement was made here at the International Aircraft Exposition by Roy E. Russell, in charge of Fokker sales, on authority of Gavin Breckenridge, head of the aviation department of G. M. A. C.

Fencing Holds New Interest Among Envoys

Cuban Ambassador Tops Young Colleagues in Sport Revival.

By JEAN ELIOT.

FENCING, popular in Washington a dozen years ago when Col. Robert M. Thompson and Col. Henry Breckenridge captained a group devoted to this graceful sport, seems to be enjoying a renewed vogue. Under the leadership of the Cuban Ambassador, Senor Don Orestes Ferrara, a famous swordsman and, in his youth, a noted duelist, a group from the Diplomatic Corps meets once or twice a week at the Cuban Embassy to try its luck with the foils, usually with an enthusiastic gallery assembled in the big library where the bouts are held.

With the exception of Senor de Ferrara, Signor Luciano Mascia, of the Italian Embassy was the most enthusiastic and most expert devotee of fencing in town. When he was detached interest waned a bit, but the Cuban Ambassador's keenness for the sport has inspired a number of younger diplomats to renewed enthusiasm. Yesterday afternoon, when a small group of guests had been asked in impromptu fashion to view the fencing at the embassy, the Naval Attache of the Italian Embassy, Capt. Notarbole di Villarosa, was Ambassador Ferrara's major opponent, although he also took on the chancellor of the Cuban Embassy, a youngster who has a very dashing technique. Dr. Guell, of the Cuban staff fences occasionally, but admits that he would rather look on as he did yesterday. And others who frequently take part in the bouts are Senor de Linares-Rivas, of the Spanish Embassy, and M. de la Blanchetal, of the French Embassy.

Senora de Ferrara was an interested member of the gallery yesterday and among those looking on were Rear Admiral and Mrs. Andrew Long, Mrs. Thomas Bell Sweeney, Senoritas Rosa and Maria Padilla, daughters of the Spanish Ambassador, with their cousins, the Senoritas Satrustegue; Miss Bina Day Deneen and her sister, Mrs. Birdsall, Signor Amoedo, counselor of the Spanish Embassy, and a half dozen of the younger diplomats.

With the furniture pushed back against the walls and the tea table tucked in one corner out of the way, the library or office on the first floor of the embassy makes a spacious salon and some stirring bouts were staged yesterday with honors about even between Senor Ferrara and Capt. Notarbole di Villarosa.

Thousands of women who attended the recent Cooking School in this city saw how Crisco helped Mrs. Northcross to get better results—to make better-tasting fried and baked foods.

We were interested to learn that most other cooking experts use and prefer this shortening for all purposes, too.

Since the school, many of our customers have been using Crisco and have told us how much they like it. This so impressed us that we have decided to feature Crisco this week, in order that all of you may learn of its many superior qualities.

In its new air-tight can, as sweet and fresh as the day it was made. Fluffy and creamy at any kitchen temperature.

CHICAGO ARRESTS SOLVE 500 THEFTS

18 of 29 Indicted Gunmen Are Arraigned; New "Strip" Robbery Reported.

KILLING MARS WEEK-END

Chicago, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Chicago's crime clean-up is yielding a fruitful harvest. Nearly 5,000 hoodlums have been placed under arrest thus far; 500 robberies and burglaries cleared up and upward of 30 alleged gunmen faced possible penitentiary sentences. More than 1,400 of the 5,000 arrests were made during a week-end spurt by city and county police. Only a few of the total have been held.

Eigteen of the 29 gunmen indicted by the Cook County grand jury last week were arraigned today and their trials set for an early date at the request of State's Attorney John Swanson.

Others, including seven taken last night and three surprised in an apartment today will face grand jury action within a day or two. The latter trio, each armed when arrested, were said to have admitted participation in a number of robberies and were held for the "show-up" at the Bureau of Identification.

Strip Bandits at Work Again.

Hope that the activities of two "strip bandits"—girls who forced victims to disrobe after robbing them—had been curtailed with the arrest of Irene Berent and Betty Meyers, bobbed taxi dancers, glimmered shortly after the girls had been arrested, however. A cab driver reported losing his receipts, his trousers and shoes to a blonde amazon who, with a pistol, enforced her command to "take 'em off."

A slaying last night marred the week-end record, but members of Chicago's organized gangster circles were not involved. Barney Davitto, 37, and Franklin Shew, 31, killed Blaine Roth, 45, in a drunken brawl and were captured by police.

Capt. P. H. Stratton, of the Federal Immigration Service, declared today that action will be taken to deport at once all aliens arrested in the drive.

Deportation Is Threatened.

Immigration officers mingled with robbery victims at the bureau of identification in an effort to pick alien criminals whose records would enable the Government to send them back to their countries.

Reports from other cities that Chicago gunmen were arriving in numbers, protesting Chicago was "too hot" for them, lead local authorities to believe the crime drive here was causing them to disperse.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 16.

Under the revenue act the maximum amount which may be claimed as earned income to which a credit of 25 per cent applies is $30,000. To claim this credit on the tax due on net income in excess of $5,000, the income must actually be earned by the taxpayer as "wages, salaries, professional fees, and other amounts received as compensation for personal services."

The tax on an earned income of $30,000 is computed, in the case of a married person without dependents, as follows:

Net income	$30,000
Less personal exemption	3,500
Balance taxable	26,500
One-half of 1 per cent on $4,000	20
2 per cent on next $4,000	80
4 per cent on remaining $18,500	740
Surtax on net income of $30,000	880
Total normal and surtax	1,720
Less 25 per cent of $1,720, earned-income credit	430
Balance of tax payable	1,290

A taxpayer may have earned during the year a salary of $100,000 or more, but the 25 per cent credit applies only to $30,000 of such amount.

New $10,000 Lawsuit Filed in McCrory Blast

The McCrory Stores Corporation, of 416 Seventh street northwest, was named defendant in another suit for $10,000 damages yesterday, as a result of the explosion last November 21 in which several persons met death and many were injured.

Catherine J. Perry, as administratrix of the estate of the late Elizabeth D. Dawson, of 337 Maryland avenue northeast, brought the newest suit. Attorneys Wilton J. Lambert, Rudolph Yeatman and George Horning, jr., appear for the plaintiff.

In an hearkening back to the old days there are bound to be crudities—especially when old works of the theater are compared with the new.

So, in the revival of "The Fortune Teller," now taking place at Poli's Theater, the moderns point out those barren stretches that hinder the action in places.

Atop of all that, of course, is this wonderful score by Victor Herbert—and then the pleasing voice and personality of Miss Eleanor Painter, playing the protean role of Musette, Irma, and Lieut. Fedor.

That Miss Painter trips lightly from one to the other—now a gypsy, now a fashionable young lady, and again a hussar, is sufficient testimony of her histrionic ability. Her singing needs no encomiums here. Her reputation is established. She does exceedingly well in the revival, making of it a charming picture for the memory gallery.

Old-timers who go to Poli's will find plenty to please in the old "Fortune Teller." So, too, newcomers to the theater. The old fire and sparkle may have dimmed, but the spirit remains, and the boys and girls who lend contributing voices are worthy the heritage of the great. Especially is the singing of "Gypsy Love" song to be commended. It is, naturally, one of the outstanding hits. Presented by Philip Conyers it won three encores last night.

An old-time German comedian, Harry Hermson, plays Boris, the gypsy father of Musette. Pompom is played by Miss Sara Blair. Ladislas, the Hussar sweetheart, is in the capable hands of Eric Titus, possessor of a fine tenor voice. Robert Pitkin plays Fresco, the dancing master.

Milton Aborn, who once brought the opera companies to the National Theater, in the long, long ago, is reaponsible for the staging of this production. It is to his credit that the piece moves with alacrity.

NATIONAL

George E. Wintz presents Mitzi in Emmerich Kalman's operetta, "Sari."

THE CAST.

Pali Racz (the gypsy leader), Boyd Marshall
Laczi Racz ..... Mario Alvarez
Sari Racz ..... Mitzi
Klari Racz ..... Gloria Frey
Joska Fekete (his friend), George Clark
Juliska Fekete (his daughter), Marybeth Conoly
Gaston (Count Irini) ..... Jack Squires
Cadeaux (his shadow), Arthur Treacher
Count Estragon (H. R. H. King of Massilia) ..... Duane Nelson
Pierre ..... Pat Clayton

Tuneful "Sari," with the apparently immortal Mitzi playing the title role as charmingly as in those prewar days when she first captivated audiences, returned to Washington at the National last night. If the volume of applause and the number of curtain calls may be accepted as reliable indices it may be asserted that the captivating process is just as effective as ever. Even the youngsters, reared on a diet of jazz, seemed to like it, which is a consolation to those of the generation now beginning to realize its age. Such approval demonstrates that the melodies which delight those who hear them for the second or third time—with intervals of years in between—are really worth while and not simply pleasant, because they recall the much-maligned good old days.

There is cause for hope in the fact that a fairy tale set to music, such as this is, can retain its popularity in an age of realism which is often confused with something merely sordid.

As every one must know by this time, the plot of the piece such as it is, is all about a little Hungarian gypsy girl who goes to Paris and wins the heart and hand of an aristocrat of the old regime. So much for the plot, it isn't essential anyway, except to serve as a series of convenient pegs upon which to hang the musical numbers; "Love Has Wings" and "Love's Own Sweet Song" with their haunting suggestions of the dreams that seldom come true, the hoydenish gaiety of "Ha-Za-Za," and the satisfying pathos of "My Faithful Stradivari."

In the revived version of "Sari" the chorus is reinforced by the Albertina Rasch Dancing Girls, as dainty a group of terpsichoreans as have graced local boards in recent months.

As of old, Mitzi takes first honors, but she has capable assistants in Marybeth Conoly as Juliska and Boyd Marshall as Pali Racz, the gypsy leader, fated to learn the inevitable lesson that age must give way to youth.

For those who like to spend an occasional pleasant evening in the land of make-believe, it is well worth the time and the price of admission.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

THERE will soon be a new talking newsreel in the field.

I do not know, as yet, what it will be called, nor what arrangements—if any—have been made for its release and distribution, but it is on the way. I'll tell you how I know.

Some days ago this column remarked that it hoped Jack Connolly might not be included in the sudden shake-up that recently overtook the Fox organization. Mr. Connolly, as you well know, since his relinquishment of the post of Washington representative of the Will H. Hays organization, has been general manager of the European activities of the Fox Movietone News. In that capacity he has achieved more than one miracle.

Well, Mr. Connolly was affected by the sudden shake-up that recently overtook the Fox organization.

In fact, his connection with the Fox organization terminated last Saturday night, when Jack was in town and stopped by to tell me all about it. His contract, which had several months more to run, was taken up by the Fox people in toto and the company also will bear the expense of Jack's return trip to Europe to bring back Mrs. Connolly and their two small children, who remained in Paris when he dashed across to America to lunch with a few friends at the Press Club.

The Connolly week-end visit was a mere stopover on his way to Havana, where he will enter into a series of conferences with Courtland Smith upon the engrossing topic of the establishment of the new newsreel. Mr. Smith was the head of the Fox Movietone News personnel, whose official demise slightly antedated that of Mr. Connolly. Together they plan to launch a new enterprise with Mr. Smith as president and Jack Connolly as vice president and general manager. I gathered from a few loose remarks about tight money that the new venture will be capitalized at a paltry $10,000,000, or some such sum.

The information that all of the established talking newsreels made both Mr. Smith and Mr. Connolly flattering offers to come with them smote my ears devoid of any semblance of surprise. These gentlemen would be assets to any company.

Mr. Connolly, as you may have heard, is quite a figure in this business of audible news gathering. How he induced the Prince of Wales, Bernard Shaw, Mussolini, the Pope and various other "impossible" subjects to pose for talking pictures after they had ignored the pleas of rival concerns deserves a place among the adventures of those indefatigable star reporters who seem, somehow, to be fading from the scene. They always got the yarn they were after, and Connolly, something after the manner of the justly celebrated N. W. M. P., never fails to shoot his man, as the camera people paraphrase it.

The Prince of Wales he inveigled before the cameras and mikes by a barrage laid down through his royal highness' secretaries; Pope Pius XI he secured through some sort of occult power never disclosed and G. B. S. capitulated only after the most persistent assault by mail, telephone and personal visit. The results of the Irish iconoclast's experience before the lenses and the recording apparatus were so satisfactory to the bewhiskered gentleman who describes himself as England's foremost writing man that he now mails postcards to Jack inscribed "private and confidential."

Can you imagine!

Speaking of newsreels, the one at the Metropolitan shows Secretary of State Stimson clinking his glass—champagne, by the contour—with the rest of the boys in response to a toast to "His Excellency, the President of the United States." And, mind you, with gusto and apparent relish! My gosh! What are we prohibitionists coming to, unless it is that when in London never mind what the Romans are doing!

And at the Fox, the Movietone News is giving two notables a chance to be heard—Col. House, "the power behind the throne" (Heh! Heh!) during the Wilson administration, and Admiral Billard, head man of the Coast Guard. Col. House tells George Sylvester Vierick all about what he told the kaiser concerning the freedom of the seas way back in 1915, and Admiral Billard explains inferentially that his boys are only obeying the rules when they pour hot lead into the rumrunners.

I mistrust that Mr. Brusiloff's Friml overture at the Fox this week is the direct result of Miss Irene Weber's having behested the motion picture editors on behalf of Mr. Meakin and the management last week to express their preferences among the composers of standard and popular music.

This department nominated Tschaikowski among the former and, in the order named—Herbert having been amply accounted for—Friml, Sigmund Romberg and George Gershwin among those less addicted to the severer musical forms.

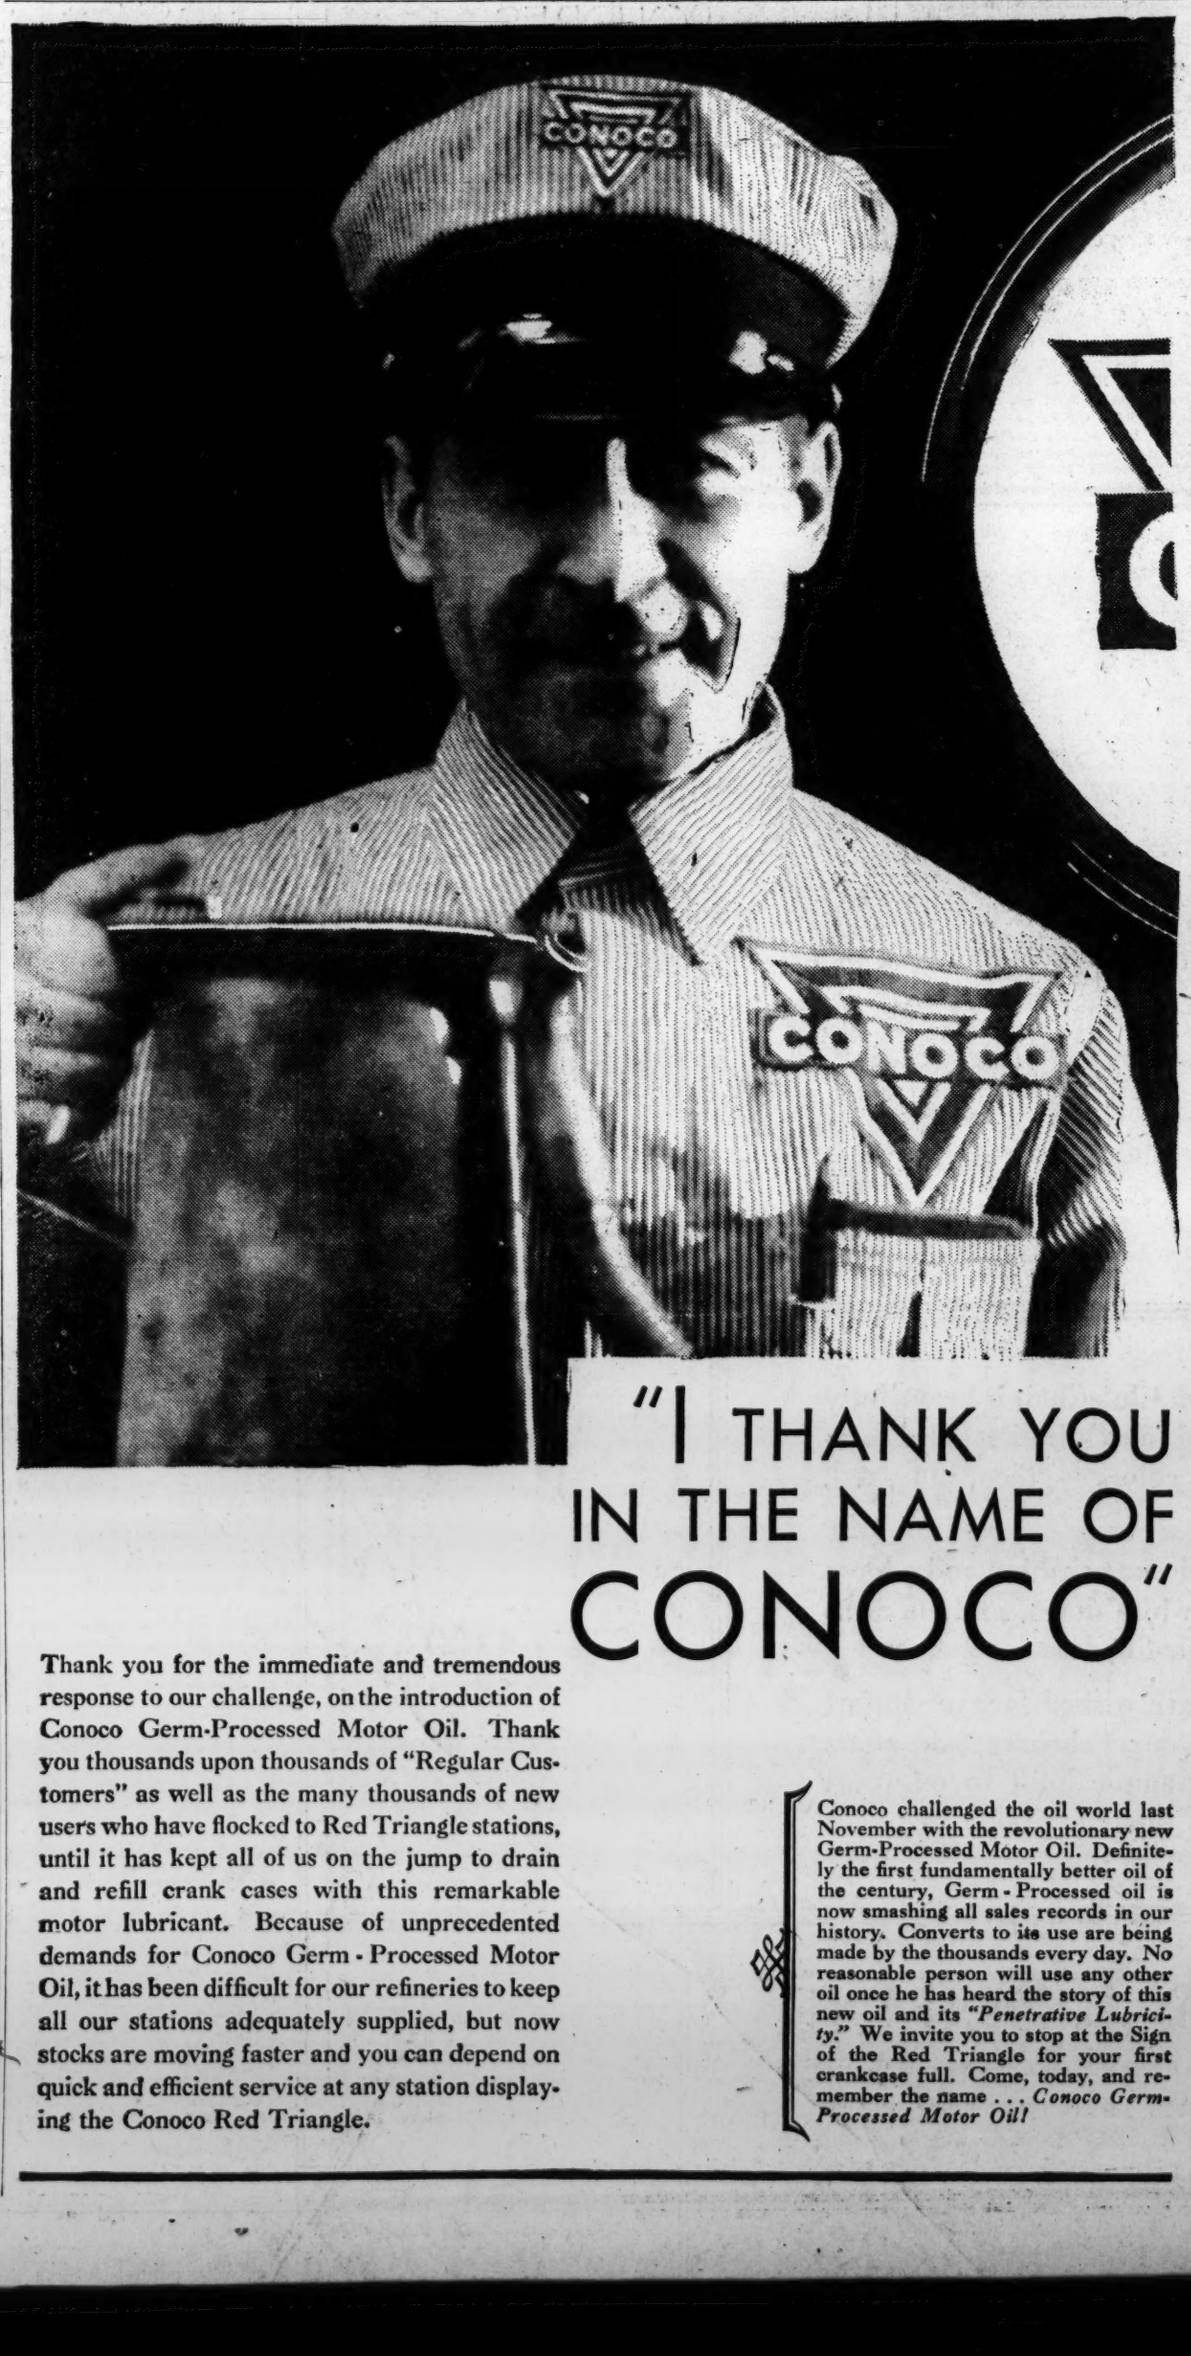
There come to mind no more colorful compositions that Tschaikowski's "Andante Cantabile," "Solonelle," or "1812 Overture," and the "Symphonie Pathetique." They never wear out. Nor even fray.

And—but time's up!

$15,000 Damages Won As Woman Shows Foot

Frances P. Smith, of 1414 Buchanan street northwest, was awarded a verdict of $15,000 for injuries by a jury in District Supreme Court yesterday. The verdict came after the woman had exhibited her mutilated left foot to a jury composed of six men and six women. The verdict was directed against John P. Agnew & Co., Inc.

Testimony was to the effect that the woman lost four toes when her foot was crushed under one of the defendant's coal trucks on December 23, 1927, at Ninth street and New York avenue northwest. Attorney R. H. Yeatman appeared for the woman, while Attorneys Simon, Koenigsberger, Young & Brez represented the defendant. They announced they would file an appeal.



"I THANK YOU IN THE NAME OF CONOCO"

Thank you for the immediate and tremendous response to our challenge, on the introduction of Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil. Thank you thousands upon thousands of "Regular Customers" as well as the many thousands of new users who have flocked to Red Triangle stations, until it has kept all of us on the jump to drain and refill crank cases with this remarkable motor lubricant. Because of unprecedented demands for Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil, it has been difficult for our refineries to keep all our stations adequately supplied, but now stocks are moving faster and you can depend on quick and efficient service at any station displaying the Conoco Red Triangle.

Conoco challenged the oil world last November with the revolutionary new Germ-Processed Motor Oil. Definitely the first fundamentally better oil of the century, Germ-Processed oil is now smashing all sales records in our history. Converts to its use are being made by the thousands every day. No reasonable person will use any other oil once he has heard the story of this new oil and its "Penetrative Lubricity." We invite you to stop at the Sign of the Red Triangle for your first crankcase full. Come, today, and remember the name . . . Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil!

NEW YORK QUARTET IS HEARD IN CAPITAL

Famous Instruments Used by String Ensemble in Library Concert.

PROGRAM IS BROADCAST

Four of the world's most famous musical instruments figured in the concert given by the Stradivarius String Quartet of New York City in the Chamber Music Auditorium of the Library of Congress yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge Foundation. These instruments were the "Titian Violin," the "Spanish" violin, the "Lord MacDonald Viola" and the "Vaslin Violoncello." Inspired by the notable instruments, the members of the quartet were at their best before an appreciative visible audience and unseen thousands through the broadcast of the program by NAA, the naval radio station in this city.

The members of the quartet heard yesterday were Wolfe Wolfinsohn and Alfred Pochon, violins; Nicholas Moldavan, viola, and Gerald Warburg, violoncello.

The program included Ludwig van Beethoven's "String Quartet in F Major," a "Petit Suite," by Modeste Moussorgsky and Johannes Brahms' "String Quartet in C Minor."

In both the Beethoven and Brahms quartets the four movements gave each of the instruments a chance to shine and present its individual musical beauties in a telling manner.

The Stradivarius String Quartet has an ensemble tone of a high quality. Their playing was chamber music at its very best and the audience constantly exhibited its pleasure in prolonged bursts of applause.

Schuldt Is Approved By Senate Committee

The nomination of Judge Gus A. Schuldt to serve another term on the bench of the Police Court was approved yesterday by the Senate judiciary committee, and confirmation by the Senate itself is expected in a day or so.

Judge Schuldt has been on the bench since 1923, when he was appointed by President Harding. He is a native here. He attended Columbian College (now George Washington University) and also National University.

On the Rules of Traffic

By WILLIAM ULLMAN

The traffic regulations may be violated even in reverse gear. The code includes a provision which prohibits turning in a street if it must be done by backing.

The purpose of the rule is clear. Its observance avoids congestion and the attendant danger of collision. If a car can be turned about in one movement there is little likelihood of interference with traffic. Backing, however, slows up other traffic.

Example: A driver tries to turn in a narrow street, though experience and knowledge of his car's turning radius should tell him that he must have to reverse. Instead of driving around the block he holds up through traffic by making the turn in two movements. It is a violation of the regulations.

$80,000,000 in Special Taxes

You Share in This Bill

The buyers of insurance in the United States indirectly but actually contribute a vast sum—approximately $80,000,000 annually—through taxes additional to the regular taxes paid by insurance companies in common with other lines of industry. This money is a burden upon the premium of the policyholder, notwithstanding it is collected from the company.

The original purpose of special taxes upon insurance was to maintain state supervision of the business, but such supervision uses but four cents of each dollar, and the balance—about $77,000,000—goes into the general funds of the states.

These special taxes of the state and the taxes which insurance companies pay in common with all other business concerns, and owners of property, as well as their substantial taxes to the Federal Government, are factors in the cost of fire insurance.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States has adopted the following resolution:

". . . . Special State Taxes now levied on Policyholders through insurance companies should not be considered as a source of general revenue, but should be reduced to the total in each state which will adequately support such state's departmental supervision . . . . . ."

The Stock Fire Insurance companies, which transact by far the greater portion of the fire insurance business of the country, want you to realize this condition and its effect upon the cost of your fire insurance.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"Getting Started."

DEAR Miss McDonald: Just one short year ago I was engaged and to the only fellow I ever loved or could love. And now, one year later, we just seem to grate on each other, for now we are married. I do not know just where the trouble lies. But there are endless quarrels and it has been worse since the baby came. Poor little fellow; sometimes when he cries so I almost find myself blaming him for our troubles. What can I do?

I just feel like doing something desperate. Marriage has been awful, and he has changed completely, though he is always saying that he does the best he can. We never have a cent to do anything with. Last night when he came in it was almost midnight. I was frantic, for I did not know where he was and when he came in I was a wreck.

This morning I feel so weak I am ready to drop. As he went out he said: "Just decide what you want me to do. I've tried everything but we can't get along." So I thought of you and these articles of yours on marriage. Oh, Miss McDonald, what can I do? It isn't like him at all to speak so. He has tried, but he lost his regular job just after our marriage and it broke us up. He is the best boy and I do still love him and my little baby, but here I am just ready to collapse. How can we go on?

Well, well, now did you and your hubby think you would produce offspring guaranteed not to cry? You cried and your hubby cried, probably until your parents feared for your lives. Why should your child not cry? If that is all that is wrong you have very little to worry about. And you can tell the young man that I said so.

Your real trouble is the financial strain you are experiencing, and that you can meet if you meet it together. Do not blame each other for what neither can possibly help. Just decide that you will live on what you have, and enjoy making it do! Some day as you ride in your own car you will remember how you made "dresses for the baby out of daddy's old shirts," and you will wish with all your heart that you were back at the beginning doing it all over again. Why then spoil it all now by not seeing how wonderful an experience it is? Young people today have so much that they really are getting nothing at all out of life. In the old days there was a thrill of starting a new life, and a new home. But today everyone starts just the same, with a radio, and a car, and where is the thrill?

Listen to any group of middle-aged women talking. They are all thinking of their early days and the fun they had "getting started" without asking their folks for money.

Find a cheaper home, learn to shop and market. Put your baby in his carriage and find the stores where there are bargain meats and vegetables. Start now to work at your job as your husband works at his. Use your pretty little head, and make a go of your marriage.

Anyone can give up; it's the real folks who go on, and come out on top with a wide grin and a million dollars' worth of memories! Get busy!

Dare Interprets the Mode

A most chic example of the new detachable cape-collar, tied in white, on this black street dress.

Paris, Feb. 17.

SURE, I've written about long evening gloves before—who cares? You see them, read about them, you're all agog and you buy a pair, and then they are worn once very much to your secret satisfaction, then put carefully away in your sachet-scented glove box, there to await another evening exodus—and all over again you're all nice and interested in long evening gloves!

At that, they are not as extravagant as they first sound. Because in the first place they can be worn only with the very simplest and plainest gowns—and you buy the gloves simply as a part of the gown. And in the second place, one pair of long evening gloves can contrive to belong to several outfits.

Take black evening gloves, for instance. You can wear them with a white ensemble if you are a brunette; and don't you just get a picture of a ravishing blonde in a black velvet evening dress with long black suede gloves? And then, you see, long black gloves can so very well be worn in the afternoon as well as for evening, as, of course, can the long white gloves, which have always and will always be the last word in elegance for evening and afternoon wear.

Colored gloves with colored shoes? . . . Well, once in a lifetime, perhaps; that is, once in the same wardrobe. But colored gloves without colored shoes? Yes—a flame-colored pair, for example, could make its appearance with two or three evening ensembles in the same wardrobe and never be detected.

And, of course, colored gloves are extravagant—who cares? That is, not to be seeming to contradict myself too often, they seem to be extravagant, and actually aren't so terribly.

Clever French mamas know how to do things with pleats and shoulder seams that allow for little sister's inevitable growing—she doesn't just grow "up," you know. This week's illustrated leaflet tells you how to make a delightful ensemble for any child from 3 to 14, and each garment allows for four or five years of growing.

Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet, and if you haven't an actively growing daughter, give it to some mother who has, because I promise you she will be more than grateful!

* * * *

Cape or collar—name it and you can have it—'n' I promised to sketch you one, 'n' here it is! This one is rather elaborate at that, tying with two long white streamers, which were appliqued in a design onto the black background of the cape, which is black crepe exactly matching the dress.

Nice?

The weekly Dare fashion letter, in The Sunday Washington Post each week, has many interesting ideas and suggestions.

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 18 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1 p. m. and 4 p. m. to 5 p. m.

The influences for this date will be rather distracting and it will be difficult to concentrate—diversified activities will take place and no big thing will be accomplished. Society events will go off with a bang, and hosts and hostesses will be repaid for their efforts.

Children born on this February 18 will feel "certain" of themselves and will possess an attractive dignity, old for their years. They may be prigs, but they will never suffer from an inferiority complex. They will be capable of deep feelings, but will be far from demonstrative in their affections.

Only your family or those who know you intimately, are able to appreciate that a truly warm-hearted being, capable of being most human, exists underneath your cloak of coldness and reserve. Your manner is very stand-offish, and you repel instead of attracting people to you. You are admired by many, but are loved by few. Once a friend, always a friend; and it can almost be said, once an enemy, always an enemy. You are sternly just—to you there are no degrees of right and wrong. If you are slightly critical and unforgiving toward others, your own conscience is much more severe on yourself. Remorse and regret often make you most miserable.

In a way your life is a lonely one. You can not force yourself to make first advances, and others do not always take the trouble to break through the superficial barriers with which you surround yourself. You miss many a warm friendship because of your inability to even meet others half way.

All people of your type are conscientious workers—slow but sure. You are rather lacking in initiative, but you never stint either time or energy when you are on any job. If you be a woman, you are probably a "fussy" worker and you waste precious time over unimportant details. You never spare yourself in any way, and you must take care that your nerves do not become frayed. You need to learn how to relax—it will save both your physical and mental make-up.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

DRUGS AND THEIR USERS.

SOME twenty years ago the doctors engaged in a wordy war. The fight was over the question: Does a man drink whisky because he is nutty, or does a man get nutty because he drinks whisky? Finally, they declared a truce. It was agreed that both camps had enough right to fight for.

The same question is up as to the use of narcotic drugs. Again, both sides are right. The people who become drug addicts belong in two classes. One group are normal mentally and emotionally. They get into the clutches of a drug because of illness or for some other fairly good reason. The larger group is composed of people who were badly balanced before they began the use of drugs. They are described as having "constitutional psychopathic inferiority," as "being in the twilight zone of mental ill heath," as being "mentally and emotionally instable." Starting with this as the background the drug itself begins to paint in colors of its own.

The habitual use of any narcotic drug tends to change the personality, to affect behavior, to destroy ethical standards, and to degenerate mind and character. Some persons are more affected, some less. Some drugs are more degenerative, some less. The prolonged use of morphinic or other opiates affects the body surprisingly little. But it does change the mental processes. It affects judgment and attention considerably and memory but little. The subject lacks will power and feels discouraged, helpless and pitifully depressed, especially when his drug dies down.

The chronic cocaine user has a greatly impaired judgment. He is apt to acquire delusions and to become paranoid. As a rule the use of any opiate tends to restrain a criminal from criminal acts, although the desperation of drug hunger may drive him to extremes to meet his need. On the other hand, the immediate effect of cocaine is to make the addict more aggressive and invasive. The use of any of these drugs lessens the tendency to sex crimes.

The drugs of the bromide group destroy character and upset emotional stability faster than do the opiates.

The immediate effects of drugs are overcome by eliminating and other drugs within a day or two. The cure of the urge to take up the drug again is a matter of mental, moral and character training and not of taking medicine.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE DIET.

P. G. writes:

1. What is a good diet for a person with high blood pressure?

2. Is 218 very high?

3. Where is the best climate to get relief?

REPLY.

1. Dieting for high blood pressure is not of major value unless one is obese. The obese should diet to reduce. Otherwise, live largely on sour milk, vegetables and fruit. Eat meat in moderation. Do not tolerate constipation.

2. Yes, especially if the subject has any kidney, heart or eye trouble, or is given to worry or anger.

3. Climate is of minor importance in high blood pressure. Perhaps it is well to live in a soft, lazy climate and at a low altitude. How are your kidneys, heart and eyes? Do you worry?

Fourteenth Radio Bridge Game on WRC Today

Station WRC will broadcast the fourteenth radio bridge game at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, featuring four widely known bridge players. The games are prepared under the personal supervision of Milton C. Work, international authority and teacher of bridge. The following hands will be played:

Gratz M. Scott, of New York, "South," the dealer, holds: Spades—Q 10 4; Hearts—A K 6; Diamonds—A K 5 4; Clubs—K J 2.

Earl S. Cobey, of Rochester, N. Y., "West," holds: Spades—9 6 5 3; Hearts—Q 10 9; Diamonds—Q 10 8 3; Clubs—7 5.

Mrs. E. L. Bradbury, of Dallas, "North," holds—K 7; Hearts—J 4; Diamonds—J 9 7 6; Clubs—Q 10 9 8 4.

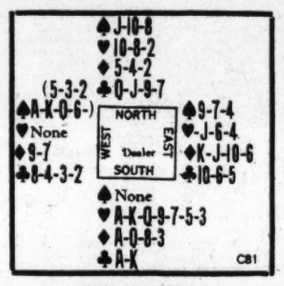
Miss Marguerite Cohn, Fort Smith, Ark., "East," holds: Spades—A J 8 2; Hearts—8 7 5 3 2; Diamonds—2; Clubs—A 6 3.

Tomorrow morning a summary of the game will appear exclusively in this newspaper. It is suggested that the readers clip these summaries and thus keep a permanent record of the hands as broadcast. These can not be procured other than through The Washington Post.

WORK ON BRIDGE

INTERESTING HANDS I HAVE MET.

The bold bidder and nervy player frequently gathers enormous scores when luck is with him. To illustrate, I give the following hand which was played in a game of Contract.



THE BIDDING.

South opened with a bid of six Hearts. He subsequently explained that he feared North would not be strong enough to jump a bid of five (which, of course, was the case) and, as it probably needed only the Jack of Diamonds in the North hand to produce a little slam, he decided to bid it himself. As South was not sure of taking more than ten tricks in his own hand, his bid might have cost a set of two tricks instead of the sure game that a four-bid would have produced.

THE PLAY.

In the play West led a Spade, and the day seemed bright to South. The probable division of the three adverse Hearts was 2-1, so the chances were that they could be exhausted in two rounds, and then (after South had led the Ace and King of Clubs) dummy could be put in with a Heart to cash his Queen-Jack of Clubs, which would insure twelve tricks. After that the Diamond finesse could be tried for the extra trick, worth 50 points.

The first trump lead, however, showed that three rounds would be needed to exhaust East, and that would leave dummy without an entry for his Clubs; so Declarer was obliged to lead the Ace and King of Clubs to tricks 3 and 4, and then to trick 5 a small trump, playing the Eight from dummy. It is obvious that this presented East with a trump trick that otherwise he could not have won. East then led a Diamond and Declarer had to play the Queen, risking his contract on the success of the finesse. When the Diamond finesse won, the slam was made easily by putting North in on a third round of trumps and discarding South's two losing Diamonds on North's two good Clubs.

Giving away a trump might have put Declarer down three tricks; but it had to be done, as it was his only chance for his contract.

BRIDGERS, ATTENTION!

Because of the space limitations the answers given in our great Milton C. Work Home Bridge Contest which ended recently are necessarily abridged, but in order to satisfy intense interest in the Questions and Answers, Mr. Work has prepared a splendid 48-page booklet entitled, "Playing Problems," which reproduces the eighteen hands, the complete auction and contract bidding, with the reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reasons for such answers in complete detail, all written in Mr. Work's clear and interesting style.

This booklet, "Playing Problems," which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high priced textbooks, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of this newspaper by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self-addressed stamped return envelope, together with 6 cents in stamps to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48-page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

CARPET BEETLES OR BUFFALO MOTHS.

(Bureau of Entomology.)

Carpet beetles, or so-called "buffalo moths," are common household pests usually associated in their destructive work with clothes moths. Ordinarily they are not so destructive as clothes moths because they reproduce only once a year, and then not so abundantly.

Experienced housewives in the North are familiar with the stout, oval, reddish-brown, hairy grubs or larvae of the common carpet beetle found beneath carpets or in clothing. In Southern homes, however, the longer, slender, golden brown larva of the black carpet beetle, with its tuft of golden bristles, is more common.

All carpet beetle larvae feed upon fabrics or upon various articles, including upholstered furniture containing wool, silk, hair, fur, bristles or feathers. They even feed upon dried animal matter.

Protection against carpet beetles can be secured in tight chests and trunks by the use of the crystals of naphthalene, paradichlorobenzene, or camphor, or by the fumigants carbon disulphid and carbon tetrachlorid. Where infestation is general throughout a house or is serious in closets, it may be advisable to fumigate with hydrocyanic-acid gas, carbon disulphid, or sulphur, but none of these fumigation methods should be employed except by a person well informed regarding them.

"Parking With Peggy"

"The old-fashioned girls who once spoke straight from the heart have learned to say 'No!' straight from the shoulder."

Representative Beck Will Speak on Flag

Representative James M. Beck, of Philadelphia, will speak over the radio Tuesday afternoon at 5:15 o'clock. His subject will be "The Constitution and the Flag." This is the third in a series of talks being sponsored by the United States Flag Association and the National Broadcasting Co. The first talk was by Vice President Curtis and the second by former Attorney General Wickersham.

Representative Beck is a former Solicitor General of the United States, and is considered one of the country's leading authorities on the Constitution and constitutional law.

Parent-Teacher Jubilee To Be Observed Today

The thirty-third anniversary of the Parent-Teacher movement will be celebrated today by the District of Columbia Congress of Parents and Teachers with a pageant program at the Wilson Teachers College, Eleventh and Harvard streets northwest.

Children from the John Burroughs School will assist in presentation of the pageant. The program will start at 1:30 o'clock.

Prices realized on Swift & Co. sales of carcass beef in Washington, D. C., for week ending Saturday, February 15, 1930, on shipments sold out ranged from 15.00 cents to 24.25 cents per pound and averaged 19.47 cents per pound.—Adv.

GEORGETOWN BOXERS BEAT WASHINGTON & LEE, 5-2

Sharkey-Scott Referee to Judge

Prevention of Towel-Throwing Sought by Scott's Pilot.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 17 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—They held that meeting of fight managers and boxing commissioners here today, and decided that there will be only one judge—the referee—in the 15-round battle between Phil Scott and Jack Sharkey on February 27, but they didn't name the referee. That somewhat important announcement will be held off until two days before the fight.

Several other things also were decided. One being that in the event of a knockdown, the man scoring it must retire to a neutral corner, and, as in the case of the New York rules, the official time-keeper will begin the count, the referee picking it up at the count of five. The referee is supposed to spend the first five seconds seeing to it that the fellow who put over the flooring swipe finds his neutral corner and ensconces himself therein. In five seconds the ordinary heavyweight ought to be able to go out for lunch and return.

Referee to Halt Count If Necessary.

If however, the knocker-down fails to go to a neutral corner by the time five is counted, the referee shall halt the count until such time as the delinquent fighter gets there, and then the count shall proceed where it left off—the next count being six. This differs from both the New York and Chicago rules, the former having the count continue, the latter having the count start all over again.

At the meeting today, Jimmy Johnston, Scott's manager, insisted that there be two judges in addition to the referee. Johnny Buckley, manager of Sharkey, objected to this, and the chairman of the Miami Boxing Commission, Louis McReynolds, decided in favor of Buckley.

Johnston won his point when he demanded that the men bandage their hands in their respective dressing rooms, each side having a representative in the rival dressing room to see that no horseshoes, stove lids, pieces of eight, cigar butts or overt acts were installed in the gloves along with the fists of the fighters. Buckley wanted the bandaging done in the ring, but McReynolds ruled that this would be a waste of time.

Johnson Speaks on Towel Throwing.

Now as to seconds: There will be only three seconds, although Johnston held out for four. Losing out on this point, Mr. Johnston, who is a man of few thousand words, asked for the floor, as he wished to read a speech. It had to do with the subject of towel throwing

It appeared from his speech that Mr. Johnston wants "his Filup" to be knocked out entirely, conclusively and completely and not saved from punishment by any action of the referee or seconds. That is, if Filup is to go that way.

Insists Fighter Must Be Knocked Out.

Here's what Jimmy read:

"I shall insist that the commission bar the throwing in of a towel. I'll take a gamble with my man and Mr. Buckley will have to do likewise with his. I respectfully request that this commission incorporate into the rules under which this fight will be staged a clause to the effect that neither side be permitted to throw in a towel. If a fighter is on the verge of a knockout, I hall ask that to avoid any talk of frame-up, fake or collusion, such fighter be compelled to take his medicine and be knocked out.

"Furthermore, I want to say a few words about fouls. I realize that my Filup will go into the ring with a handicap — the handicap brought about by the claim of newspapermen that he is out to win on a foul. For him I'll say here that we are out to win and win fairly. Sharkey's record shows as many foul victories as that of Scott. All I want is the appointment of a referee who will know the rules and see that blows are fairly landed. We'll claim no foul in this fight. It will be up to the referee to decide whether a punch is fair or foul.

G. W. and Salem Grid Teams Likely to Clash

George Washington and Salem College, of West Virginia, will meet in football on next October 11 if negotiations being carried on between the schools are consummated. Salem officials will visit the Colonials tomorrow night, when a basketball game between the two institutions will be played in the H Street Gymnasium, and an agreement on the gridiron contest probably will be effected then.

Salem last season won three and lost three games in the West Virginia State College Conference, of which Davis-Elkins, Bethany and Marshall are members. The October 11 date on the George Washington schedule was to have been filled by American, according to the plans of G. W. authorities, but American had scheduled another game on that date prior to inauguration of formal negotiations by George Washington.

George Washington still has no opponent for its opening date, September 27. More than a score of schools have been canvassed.

13TH DEFEAT HANDED TO C. U. FIVE

St. John's, Brooklyn, Outclasses Cardinals, 36-16.

By JACK ESPEY.

SAINT JOHN'S, of Brooklyn, the king pin of Eastern collegiate quintets, had little trouble winning the decision, 36 to 16, from Catholic University last night at Brookland. It was Catholic's thirteenth straight defeat and St. John's nineteenth victory in 20 games. Providence College holds the only victory scored over the Brooklyn Team this season.

The Indians, as they are known in their home precincts, might have run the score higher than they did had they taken the game seriously. They commenced evidently with the belief that they were in for a soft night and never changed their attitude. But for their previous record, which shows victories over New York U., Columbia, Crescent A. C., Rider, Lehigh and Holy Cross, to mention some of their prominent foes, the visitors never would have impressed the handful of fans present that they really are outstanding.

From a Catholic U. standpoint, the only enjoyable feature was the snappy performance of Capt. Joe Walsh. The midget Cardinal forward accounted for 11 of his team's 16 tallies, and bore the burden of the passing. He scored all of Catholic's 8 points in the first half. Jim Hanley, substituted for Johnny Oliver in the second half, was the only other Cardinal to register a point.

Posnak Star of Visitors.

St. John's presented in Max Posnak, forward, the most finished basket ball player that has visited a local floor this winter. Although he apparently could have scored more than he did, he chose to act as the hub in the Indians' passing game and to retrieve the ball on shots missed by the Cardinals.

Posnak, a left-hander, handles a basket ball as if it were a baseball. Seemingly without effort, he whips the big sphere around the court with cannon-ball speed. It was due to his many timely and fast traveling tosses that Schuckman, Hinchcliffe and others were able to cage easy goals from under the basket.

Schuckman, on a pass from Posnak, sank a field goal in the first ten seconds of play and from there on the final result never was in doubt. Two side court flips by Walsh gave Catholic a tie in the early minutes, but even then it could be seen that St. John's held command.

The score at intermission was 16 to 8 and 23 to 10 after seven and one-half minutes had elapsed in the second half. With a 29-to-15 count five minutes before the close, an entire substitute team went in for St. John's. The subs outscored the Cardinals, 7 to 1, during the remainder of the game.

Daley Beats Simpson at 100 Yards

Record Holder Loses by Yard; Edwards Beats Swiss.

Holy Cross in Mile Relay Victory Over G.U. in 3:23 3-5.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Jimmy Daley, Holy Cross sprinting flash, beat George Simpson, of Ohio State, "the world's fastest human" at 100 yards, in the final of the 60-yard dash at the New York Athletic Club games at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Daley gained a lead of a few inches in the first half dozen strides and increased his margin to a yard at the finish. Niels Schoening, of Columbia University, was third and Frank Hussey, New York A. C. veteran, fourth. The time was slower than had been expected, Daley being clocked in 6 3-5 seconds, as compared to the record, 6 1-5.

Simpson and Daley, rival sprinting standardbearers of Middle West and East, stood out as the class of the field, winning their qualifying hats previously in the identical figures of 6 3-5. The final quickly settled down into a duel between Simpson and Daley, with the latter having the better of it all the way. Niles Schoening, of Columbia, was a yard back of the Ohio State flash.

Holy Cross Wins Relay In 3:23 2-5.

Holy Cross turned in the best mile relay time of the indoor season thus far when Klumbach, Holland, Morin and McCafferty covered the route in 3:233-5, to beat Georgetown by 5 yards. The Crusaders led all the way by from 2 to 10 yards with Bernie McCafferty, the crack anchor runner, easily holding the lead against Art Briggs, of Georgetown. Carlin, Ricca and Burke led off for the Hilltoppers.

Phil Edwards, former New York University and Canadian Olympic star, thrilled the crowd of 12,000 with a brilliant victory over Dr. Paul Martin, of Switzerland, and Fred Viet, of the N. Y. C. A., in the "Brefney Half-mile," one of the feature events. The time was 1:56 1-5.

Half a lap from home the Swiss Olympic veteran uncorked a sprint, but was unable to cut in ahead of Edwards on the turn. Edwards answered with a sprint of his own that carried him to the finish first by 5 feet, while Martin stood off Veit, his conqueror in the Millrose A. A. games, by less tna a yard.

Harold Cutbill, Millrose A. A.; Charles Thompson, New York Central A. A., and John Mara, Georgetown, trailed Edwards, Martin and Veit.

Petkiewiz Beats Americans.

Stanislaw Petkiewiz, hard-running invader from Poland, beat two young American rivals, Paul Rekers, of Penn State College, and Joe McCluskey, sensational Fordham freshman, with a great closing sprint in a 5,000-meter race. The winner's time for the distance of about 3 1-10 miles was 16 minutes 15 seconds.

The University of Pennsylvania romped away from Yale and Columbia in a two-mile relay in 8:08 3-5. Penn's fast-stepping quartet, consisting of Kerr, Coan, Montgomery and McKniff, won as it pleased by a quarter of a lap, but Yale was pusned to nose out Columbia after a close duel all the way.

Tommy Warne, of Northwestern University, more than fulfilled advance notices by trimming Barney Berlinger, of the University of Pennsylvania, and Fred Sturdy, former Yale crack now representing the Los Angeles, A. C., in the pole vault.

Warne cleared 13 feet 6 inches to beat Berlinger by half a foot, while Sturdy, who fell an inch short of the world's indoor record of 14 feet 1 inch in this same event a year ago, could do no better than 12 feet 6 inches.

Charlie Engle, of Yale, broke the tape a yard ahead of Ed Blake, of the Boston A. A., in the "Buermeyer 500," with Richard Griffith, of the New York A. C., the only other starter, 10 yards back.

Chicago Cubs Assemble For Jaunt to California

Chicago, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Members of the championship Cub cast, including Manager Joe McCarthy, assembled today, making final preparations for the spring training jaunt to Catalina Island, Calif., tomorrow afternoon. Only eight players and officials will comprise the first party, many of the players having motored to William Wrigley's island in the Pacific.

The Cubs are still angling for another established National League star, probably a catcher, before their spring training campaign opens.

C. U. CUB FIVE BEATEN BY WESTERN

Scholastics Win, 26 to 22, With Freeman in Leading Role.

THE Catholic University Freshman Quintet suffered its second loss of the season and the first to a high school team when it fell before Western High last night, 26 to 22, on the Brookland court. It was the second time that the Cardinal yearlings failed to run a winning streak to seven games. Previously, after having scored six straight victories, they bowed to Benjamin Franklin. They had won six times in a row preceding last night's game.

Inability to sink foul chances proved disastrous to the freshmen. They made good only four of sixteen attempts.

Western, with Freeman doing the bulk of the point making, gained a 11-7 lead in the first half and increased its margin to 22-13 by the end of the third quarter. In the fourth period Whelan, Carney and Sheary staged a spurt that threatened to pull the game out of the fire.

Lumpkin Suspended For Failure to Fight

Cincinnati, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Roy "Father" Lumpkin, former Georgia Tech back field star who played professional football at Portsmouth last fall, was suspended indefinitely today by the National Boxing Association for failure to fight Dick Powell, Ironton, Ohio, professional football player.

Stanley M. Isaacs, N. B. A., president, said an Ironton promoter paid Lumpkin $200 several days before the match which was to have been held on January 16. Lumpkin later refused to enter the ring and announced he had given up his intention of boxing professionally.

Isaacs said Lumpkin fought at Knoxville since failing to keep the Powell engagement and that his suspension was asked by the Ironton Boxing Commission.

Chicago to Play Yale At New Haven in 1932

Chicago, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—The University of Chicago Football Team will play a return engagement at Yale in 1932, Athletic Director Amos Alonzo Stagg announced today.

Yale will depart from a long established policy by playing at Chicago in 1931 in "recognition of Stagg's 40 years of significant service to the best interests of college athletics." It will be the first invasion of the Middle West by a blue team.

Archdeacon, Injured, Released by Toronto

St. Louis, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Maurice Archdeacon, formerly with the Boston Braves, Chicago White Sox and Washington Nationals, and last year outfielder for the Toronto Baseball Club of the International League, announced here today he had just received notice of his unconditional release by the club. He suffered a split hand the latter part of last season and was out of the game several weeks.

Bush to Move Chisox From Rough Diamond

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Manager Donie Bush took one sweeping look at the yard picked for the White Sox spring training ground today and decided to move.

The diamond, located to the rear of the St. Mary College campus was rough and dangerous and Manager Bush labeled it a "suicide plot."

Until a new diamond is located, Bush will train his men at the San Antonio Texas League Club Park. The baseball field at Fort Sam Houston, on the outskirts of San Antonio, also was under consideration.

SPRING GRID DRILLS FOR WESTERN

Gonzaga Candidates Report Friday to Coach Mitchell.

FOR the first time in the history of the school, Western High will have spring football training, according to an announcement made last night by Dan Ahern, director of athletics at the West End institution. Although only one other public high school, Central, indulges in the early conditioning, Ahern is hopeful that the preseason work may be greatly beneficial to those who would give Western its first interhigh grid championship.

Although Western engaged in a tie for the title with Tech and Eastern some three years ago, it has never established a clean-cut claim to top honors, and toward this end Ahern will drive his men.

Accordingly, the Red and White mentor expects to call out his candidates in a week or ten days. With only a few of the 1929 eleven to be missing when the next grid season rolls around, Ahern should have a formidable group from which to choose his next year's team, and accordingly is hopeful of making a much better showing next fall than the record of the Western team showed last year. The spring practice will be conducted on Western's regular field a few blocks from the school.

Gonzaga Candidates Report Friday.

Another high school, however, will probably beat Western in donning their togs for the spring work, as Coach Orrell Mitchell has signified his intention of calling out Gonzaga's grid aspirants next Friday. Inasmuch as the Purple's new athletic field on Benning road is being put in shape at present, Mitchell plans to work his 1930 prospects in a field back of the Eye street school, but may take them to their stadium in a few weeks.

Prospects for a successful season at Gonzaga next year are unusually bright, notwithstanding the graduation of almost every member of the 1929 eleven. However, five or six letter-winners will be back, while Mitchell expects between 50 and 60 other boys to answer his call on Friday, among them being Ernest Viau, a 170-pounder, and according to all reports, a coming star. Although last year was his first experience in the sport, Viau showed up well, and Mitchell has hopes of making a triple-threat backfield man out of him. The big boy has plenty of power and needs only to be taught how to use it in a game, according to Mitchell.

Central will start its spring training as soon as the Mount Pleasant stadium is in shape, said Coach "Ty" Rauber last night.

G. W. Guests Limited At Manhattan Bouts

Admission to George Washington's boxing match with Manhattan College on February 27 will be limited to specially invited guests, according to Athletic Director Pixlee. It was found necessary to place a limitation on the number of spectators, Pixlee stated, because of the small seating capacity of the George Washington Gymnasium. It has been estimated that the gymnasium will seat not more than 1,000 persons at a boxing match.

The forthcoming match will be the second of the season between the Colonials and Jaspars. Last Friday in New York City, the Colonials gained a 3-3 tie. It had been erroneously reported that the Manhattanites had won the decision, 4 to 3.

Tilden Rallies to Win 5-Set Match From Six-Foot-Six Irish Cup Star

NICE, France, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Big Bill Tilden held fast to his position in international championship tennis today by capturing the southern France championship.

He won his final match against the Irish Davis Cup player, Lyttleton Rogers, 4—6, 8—6, 6—1, 5—7, 6—0.

Tilden was not feeling at his best, but he and Rogers, who is a 6-foot-6 youth of 20, put up one of the most interesting matches ever seen on the Riviera. Both were exhausted after two and a half hours of hard play during which many of the games went to deuce.

Rogers started out well and captured the first set and was well on his way to winning the second when he lost it through carelessness. Big Bill swept through the third set, 6—1. The fourth set went to deuce and Rogers finally captured it.

Tilden then swept through the final set with his style of ten years ago, playing such beautiful tennis that Rogers could make no headway and failed to take a single game.

Cordovano, Bordeau, Fish Stop Foes in Third Round.

Slugging Is Keynote; Tardugno, Tierney Win Decisions.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH.
(Sports Editor of The Post.)

GEORGETOWN'S boxers returned from foreign battlegrounds to stage their first home match of the season last night and the powers at the Hilltop with a keen sense of discretion and out of deference to the limited seating capacity of Ryan Gymnasium, had barred women from the bouts. There was nothing ladylike in connection with the program, Georgetown's seven fighters emerging from the ring against Washington and Lee University with three knockouts and two decisions to their credit and one knockout and a decision entered in the result aainst them.

Slugging of the old-fashioned type with fists slung from the heels and the unfortunate objects of their aim pirouetting on their own heels featured the program. Towels flung from unlucky corners were the signal to stop three of the fights and Referee Spike Webb, of the Naval Academy, halted two more with beaten boxers in distress.

G. U. Knockout Aces Enter Picture.

With the three lighter-class bouts disposed of, Washington and Lee was holding a 2-1 lead over the Hilltoppers when the Georgetown knockout artists were wheeled into action. The Generals did not win another bout. Charley Fish, the Hilltop's intercollegiate champion stopped Robertson; Jack Tierney won the decision over McKinney; Leo Bordeau knocked out Heaps and Sam Cordovano climaxed the engagement with a knockout of Day. These three knockouts occurred in the third round after Hilltop fighters had worn the Generals into a ripened state for the finishing blows.

Previously, Joe Villanova, 116-pound fighting his first bout for Georgetown, had barely lasted in losing the decision to Robison, W. and L. southpaw; Mike Hardugno punched out a clean decision over Slosburg, the Generals' 125-pounder and Capt. Black of the Generals, effectively disposed of Ted Schwartz in the 135-pound class with a savage wallop to the belly and a right to the chin in the first round.

Cordovano Shows Two-fisted Attack.

Sam Cordovano was fighting his last battle for Georgetown, and he did not dally against Day, his heavyweight opponent. He set after the Virginian with a two-fisted attack in the first round that netted him the edge, albeit a flurry of counter-wallops in the face that diminished his enthusiasm.

The pair swung from post to post in vicious exchanges in the second round with Cordovano's heavier wallops slowing Day perceptibly, but the latter lashed out from the ropes when it appeared that he was about to be knocked out and lasted through the round, clipping Cordovano on the right eye with a series of lefts that gashed it wide open, and the pair were drenched in red.

Day came back courageously enough in the third round, but was shaken from his determination before a minute had passed and while virtually out on his feet, was rescued by the towel from his corner.

After absorbing Fish's well-directed punches to the face and stomach for two rounds, Robertson, of the Generals, succumbed to a series of straight lefts and rights to the head in a neutral corner and Referee Webb halted the uneven contest.

Heaps describes the Bordeau-Heaps light-heavyweight battle. That's the way the Washington and Lee fighter went down before the bull-like rushes of the Georgetown full back who in his anxiety to finish his opponent rushed him from the start only to be met with lefts and rights to the head which he accepted with infinite boredom and nonchalance and continued to bull Heaps about the ring. It should have been stopped in the second round in which Heaps went down four times, but Bordeau couldn't put over the final wallop until shortly after the start of the third.

G. W. Freshmen Meet Md. Yearlings Tonight

What should turn out to be a first-class game is on the books for tonight when the George Washington Freshmen entertain the Maryland Freshmen in the Colonials' Gym on H street at 8 o'clock.

To date, both aggregations have taken the measure of all the local high school teams with which they have come in contact, and the scores of each game have borne a striking resemblance. Each frosh combination has lost but one game—the G. W. Cubs losing to the Georgetown Freshmen, and the Old Line youngsters dropping a fray to the Catholic University first-year men.

TWO NEW YORK TEAMS FACING SAME PROBLEMS

Gotham Clubs To Get No Help

Both Must Depend on Rookies; Both Troubled by Holdouts.

2 Outfield Positions, 2d Base Wide Open in Giants' Line-Up.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

IF the two New York teams, the Yankees and Giants, hope to get any help in the pennant races which appear in the offing, they will have to develop it from the rookies they have grabbed since the 1929 season ended. "Bob, the Gob" Shawkey, who had hopes of coaxing either "Big Ed" Morris or Charley Ruffing from the Red Sox mound staff, has given up all ideas of swinging a deal with the Beaneaters while he has discovered, as also has "Jawn" McGraw, that none of the other fourteen big league pilots means to contribute anything to the causes of the Yanks or Giants.

These two skippers of the New York entries also find themselves facing similar predicaments in other respects, both being bothered by the holdout gestures of some of their stars, while each is having his troubles building up a strong inner defense and filling at least one outfield vacancy.

In the Giant camp, two and possibly three berths will be standing wide open to grab the right men from among a likely looking crop of rookies. One is at second, another is left field, while the third may develop in center field if Edd Roush has any trouble with his aging legs.

McGraw Blamed for 2d Base Problem.

McGraw has no one but himself to blame for the weakness at the keystone sack, for he had two of the best in the business performing there in Frankie Frisch and Rogers Hornsby and the position never has been satisfactorily filled since the latter was traded to the Braves for Catcher Frank Hogan and Outfielder Welsh who failed to last more than a season.

Andy Reese, out most of last season with an infected foot, appears to be outstanding second-base candidate, with Eddie Marshall, who starred both when farmed out and with the Giants after being recalled last fall, as likely to furnish plenty of competition.

McGraw has several promising rookie fly chasers lined up. In addition to Chick Fullis, who alternated with Fred Leach last season and who has been carefully groomed by the Giant manager, there are George Fisher and Sam Leslie. The latter hit .376 with Memphis as a first baseman, but will be converted into an outfielder, while Fisher clouted .339 for Buffalo and was regarded as one of the outstanding players in the International last season.

Shawkey Also Counting On a Reese.

Shawkey also is counting heavily on a Reese to solve the Yankees' second base troubles, Jammy, who was purchased along with Lyn Lary from the Coast, rating high in the preseason dope. This pair worked so well together with the Oakland Club that "Bob the Gob" plans to reunite them and to shift Tony Lazzeri to third. If this experiment fails, there is Bennie Chapman, who hit .336 with St. Paul last season, ready to put in a real bid for the third-base berth, with Lazzeri remaining at second.

Sammy Byrd and Cedric Durst are generally rated as the outstanding candidates to fill Bob Meusel's shoes; but Allen ("Dusty") Cooke, a .358 batter with St. Paul last year, can not be overlooked.

At this writing Messrs. Shawkey and McGraw are figuring that, as is invariably the case, all of their holdouts will swing in line, but should any of Babe Ruth, Waite Hoyt, Bill Terry, Fred Lindstrom, Travis Jackson, Ed Roush et al. fail to come to terms, then plenty of added trouble may be looked for.

Burroughs Club Lists Ring Bouts Tonight

The Burroughs A. C., recently admitted to membership in the District of Columbia Association of the A. A. U., will hold its first boxing exhibition tonight at St. Anthony's Hall, Twelfth and Monroe streets northeast. A long program has been arranged and many of the leading local amateur leather pushers will appear. Heine Miller will referee.

MD. QUINTET AT RALEIGH TONIGHT

Tackles N. C. State; Two Games Here Tomorrow.

WITH Maryland scheduled to meet North Carolina State at Raleigh tonight, local college court fans must wait until tomorrow night for action on the home floors of Capital teams.

The attractions tomorrow night will be the George Washington-Salem game at the Colonials' gymnasium and the Catholic-Johns Hopkins contest at Brookland. Salem only recently was scheduled by George Washington and little is known of the caliber of its team. It is reported, however, that the West Virginia school usually produces a fast quintet. The Catholic-Hopkins clash originally was arranged to be played in Baltimore but the two schools agreed last week to shift the scene to Brookland. In a later meeting Catholic will invade the Blue Jay gymnasium.

G. U. Five Invades Annapolis.

In another game, which can not be termed local, but which doubtless will draw many local fans, Georgetown tomorrow will engage Navy at Annapolis. The Hilltop Five has recovered from its beating at the hands of Syracuse last Saturday and will be out to gain its third win over Navy in as many years. Since the Georgetown Tossers started as freshmen, they have not lost a game at Annapolis. The first game in 1927 was played with the Navy Plebes.

Maryland tonight will be striving to reverse the result of an earlier game played with North Carolina State at College Park. The Wolfpack, Southern Conference champion, won a two-point victory at College Park on February 1.

Maryland Quintet At Chapel Hill.

Following the N. C. State fray, Maryland will oppose North Carolina University tomorrow night at Chapel Hill and then, on Thursday night, will meet Duke for the second time. In that game, at Durham, the Terrapins also will be seeking revenge for a previous loss, the Blue Devils having eked out a triumph on the College Park court on January 9. Duke right now seems to be playing the best basket ball in the Southern Conference. A victory for Maryland therefore would boost the Terrapin stock considerably.

Stewarts Want Game.

A game for tomorrow night, to be played at the Silver Spring Armory, is wanted by the Stewart Bros. Photographers. Call Manager Stewart at Adams 1005.

Johnson Cue Victor.

Clicking off one run of 27 and two of 26, E. C. Johnson last night defeated J. F. Fairbanks, 125 to 100, in the pocket-billiard tournament being staged at Elmer's Academy. Tonight, H. G. Grantham and P. V. A. Sawyer cross cues.

MIDDIES ADD TO DIAMOND SCHEDULE

2 "Practice" Games With Yale Listed for April 3-4.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 17.—While Midshipmen athletes hopeful of making the baseball team are awaiting the short lapse until indoor practices begin, Lieut. Comdr. Frederick G. Reinicke, graduate manager of athletics at the Naval Academy, has been doctoring the schedule up a bit and several additions are reported.

On April 7, the Baltimore Orioles are slated to come here for an exhibition game. The International Leaguers and also the Washington Senators were carded last season but, owing to a rainy spring, the contests were cancelled. In addition to the Orioles, the Middies will hold two practice games with Yale.

Yale Games Precede Only Trip On Road.

The Eli flippers will be engaged with the Middies on April 3 and 4 following a "drill." The New Havenites are not scheduled for a regular game as Navy can play officially only on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

For years, a Yale game has been one of the most important of Navy's schedule. The practice tilts will be just prior to Navy's trip to Durham, N. C., for a test with Duke, the only game booked for the road.

The opening date of March 29 has been given Franklin and Marshall College. The revised schedule follows:

March 29, Franklin and Marshal; April 2, University of Vermont; 5, Duke at Durham; 9, Pennsylvania; 12, Fordham; 16, Bucknell; 19, Lehigh; 23, Villa Nova; 26, Washington and Lee; 30, University of Virginia; May 3, Duke University; 7, University of Richmond; 10, Wake Forest; 14, William and Mary; 17, Georgetown; 21, Maryland; 24, Mount St. Mary's, and 31, Ohio State University.

The Plebe schedule just announced follows:

April 23, Baltimore City College; 26, Emerson Tech of Washington; 30, Mount St. Joseph of Baltimore; May 3, Catholic University Freshmen; 10, Severn School (pending); 14, William and Mary Freshmen; 17, Allentown Prep; May 21, Maryland Freshmen.

V. P. I. Court Coach Undergoes Operation

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Feb. 17.—Robert S. "Bob" Warren, coach of varsity basket ball at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, underwent an operation for appendicitis at Raleigh, N. C., yesterday, according to word received here this morning, and will be lost to the Gobblers team for the remainder of the season. The operation was reported as wholly successful, so that Warren is expected to return to Blacksburg in several weeks to resume his duties as trainer for V. P. I. teams.

An acute attack of appendicitis first left the V. P. I. basketeers without a coach early this month, but Warren returned to Blacksburg a week ago after receiving treatment at Raleigh. He directed the Poly attack in but one game before a recurrence of the malady forced him to return to Raleigh for an immediate operation. Loss of the popular court mentor is a blow to the Gobblers on the eve of their annual Carolina invasion and the State games with Washington and Lee.

North Carolina Teams To Invade Blacksburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Feb. 17.—"North Carolina week," one of the toughest six-day grinds of the indoor season, will feature the waning days of the current athletic campaign at Virginia Polytechnic Institute. Schedule makers have booked a heavy array of six contests for next week to send Gobblers basket ball teams trekking once more into Carolina territory. Meanwhile other "down home" aggregations will parade into Blacksburg to battle the Techmen on the mat and in the roped arena.

Friday the varsity and freshman basketers will head into Tarheelia to open a two-day invasion in a double-header with University of North Carolina teams at Chapel Hill. Both V. P. I. teams will jump to Raleigh Saturday to wind up the excursion in a twin bill at North Carolina State College.

Teams from the Old North State also will be on the card at Blacksburg. Duke University wrestling and boxing teams will oppose the Polytechnic aggregations in the final athletic events of the winter season in War Memorial Hall. The matmen will clash in the first engagement and the boxers in the nightcap. All bouts booked for the final week in February will be fought out in foreign gyms against old foes at Lexington and Charlottesville.

Kibbey Rolls 425 Set; Federal League Record

Clarence Kibbey, of the Treasury Team, last night recorded a new season individual set record in the Federal Duckpin League when he did some consistent bowling for a 425 set. His games were 145, 146, and 134. His heavy pin spilling enabled his team to roll the second highest team set of the season, 1,771. The high set is 1,779, held by the G. P. O. Five.

Kibbey's new set mark displaces that of Swain, who has held the season record at 418.

181 PIN GAME ROLLED BY CHAREST

Eight Marks Include 3 Strikes in Row; League Mark.

CLARENCE M. CHAREST, present national veterans' singles tennis champion, rolled a 181 game, 9 pins short of the District record, and a 409 set in the General Counsel Duckpin League at the Lucky Strike Alleys last night. His game score goes in the books as an all-time league record and takes rank with the biggest scores ever recorded on District drives.

Charest opened his big game with a spare, counted six pins and spared again to count six pins. He spared in the third and followed with a tripie-header strike, going into the seventh box with a 123 total. He cleaned up nine pins after a split in the seventh and spared in the eighth, counting ten by striking in the ninth. He missed a single pin in the final box, but upset the single with the third ball for a 181 total. His second game was 96 and he rounded out the set with a 132 count.

Charest's heavy scoring enabled the Athletics to defeat the Red Sox in two of three games.

V. P. I. Frosh Trounce Little Generals, 48-20

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Feb. 17.—Virginia Polytechnic Institute freshmen flashed a speedy brand of ball here tonight to overwhelm Washington and Lee freshmen, 48 to 20. Bushall, flashy Polytech forward, romped away with the game in the final half and rolled up a total of 11 goals from the floor. Led by Hall, with five floor goals, the Goblets breezed ahead after 9 minutes and kept the advantage throughout. The Goblets unleashed a great brand of floor work and topped it off with a keen eye for the floops to add 10 points before the Little Generals counted in the final half.

Wash. College Five Downs St. John's

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 17.—In a game which may decide the State championship, Washington College cagers tonight bested St. John's College loopers, 26 to 19, in one of the hardest fought and skilled exhibitions flashed in Annapolis this season. The game was marked by spectacular guarding all the way, and it was on penalty flips that the invaders gained most of their margin. In the final minutes of the first half, Washington profited by a field goal by Dopson and fouls by Giraitis and Stevens to hold a half-time edge of 10 to 7.

At the start of the second period, a field goal by Capt. MacCartee, preceding a foul by Giraitis, of the visitors, and Carpenter's field goal, tied the count at 11-all. It was at this stage that Washington College staged its big spurt that decided the issue. Robinson sank a 2-pointer, and Giraitis followed with two long range tosses and Robinson a foul to give the Shoremen a 18-to-11 lead. St. John's was never able to catch up thereafter.

Washington and Lee Five Beats V. P. I., 35-20

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Feb. 17.—Washington and Lee's Generals won their tenth straight Southern Conference court game tonight by staging a great spurt in the final half to defeat Virginia Polytechnic Institute basketers here, 35 to 20. V. P. I. fought the visitors on even terms throughout the first half, but could not tame the speed and skill of Red Hanna in the final period. Williams, the Generals' scoring ace, was turned back without a field goal, but Hanna romped away with six and Cox with four.

Roanoke Five Bows To Hampden-Sydney

Special to The Washington Post.

Salem, Va., Feb. 17.—Roanoke College surrendered their last home game of the season tonight to the Hampden-Sidney Tigers, 33 to 26, in a hard battle in the college gymnasium. The visitors from Death Valley rolled into an early lead of 10 points, and a Maroon comeback in the last half only brought them to within 3 points of a tie. The Tigers pulled away, however, and held a safe lead to the end of the contest.

Allen led Roanoke with 11 points and played a brilliant game. Harris topped Hampden-Sidney scorers with four field goals.

STOCK SALES DROP AS UTILITIES CLIMB

Noon Rally Sees Tobacco, Chemical and Aviation Shares Advance.

EASTMAN KODAK GAINS

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—The bull faction regained control of the price movement on the stock market today, which it lost on Saturday, after several days of indecisive struggle.

Further liquidation turned the market decisively downward during the morning, unexpected firmness in the money market and renewed weakness in the commodity markets damaging bullish sentiment for the moment, but trading soon turned dull, and pools were encouraged to resume operations.

The market rallied briskly during the afternoon, under the leadership of the utilities, tobaccos, chemicals, aviations and some of the low-priced specialties. Total sales for the day showed substantial contraction, transfers aggregating but 3,289,170 shares.

Gasoline Prices Cut.

Developments in the petroleum industry continued of an unsettling nature. Gasoline prices were cut about 2 cents a gallon in various sections in the Middle West, and, following recent reductions in crude prices in the midcontinent area, Pennsylvania crude was reduced 25 cents a barrel, the fourth cut since August, sending prices to the lowest levels in more than two years. Oil stocks were inclined to ease, nevertheless losses were slight.

One of the first copper companies to report 1929 earnings was Nevada Consolidated, which showed $3.96 a share against $3.48 in 1928, somewhat less favorable than the more optimistic estimates had indicated. This had a mildly depressing influence on the copper shares.

Firmness in the money market was rather surprising in view of recent trends. Call money renewed at 4½ per cent for the first time in several days, and threatened to go higher for a time as banks called some $30,000,000 in loans, and replacement funds were slow in appearing. Money was in better supply in the afternoon. Withdrawals were said to be largely by interior banks.

Sentiment Proves Confused.

Commission house advices and speculative sentiment generally appeared rather confused. Several pools have been formed to put individual stocks higher, and various interests are undoubtedly anxious to keep a bull market in motion to aid financing merger plans. On the other hand, efforts are being made to prepare the bond market to absorb large reparations issues, and this program might be thwarted by a runaway stock market.

Eastman Kodak was a strong spot, rising 11 points to a new peak for the year. The American Tobacco issues rose about 2 and 5 points to new high levels for all time. National Air Transport was bid up more than 4 points, to 19¼, a new top for the movement and United Aircraft made a 4-point gain.

Columbian Carbon rose nearly 9 points. Auburn Auto closed up 3 after fluctuating over a 15-point range. Columbia Gas and Consolidated Gas were strong spots in the utilities, closing about 3 points up. In the lower priced group, Packard Motor and Philadelphia and Reading Coal reached new high ground for the movement, the latter influenced by the cold snap, and American Woolen issues were again taken in hand by operators for the rise.

U. S. Steel Advances.

American Can and U. S. Steel rallied after early heaviness, the latter closing about 1 point higher. Allied Chemical and Atchison lost about 3 points, and Youngstown Sheet, 5.

Wheat and corn futures each lost about 2 cents a bushel, reflecting weak foreign markets and disappointing export figures. Cotton futures lost from $1.25 to $1.45 a bale.

Foreign exchanges continued to ease gradually, sterling cables reaching $4.86 1-16, off 1-16. The Canadian dollar was an exception, rallying to 99.28⅛ cents, a new high for 1930.

FIRM MONEY RATES CUT BOND TURNOVER

Sales Fall Off $2,000,000 as Price Trend Proves to Be Irregular.

COAL FIRM LIENS RALLY

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Trading in bonds on the New York Stock Exchange fell off rather sharply today, because of the continued firmness of money rates. The price movement was irregular, but the trend of active issues in all leading divisions appeared to be downward. Total sales fell below $8,000,000, as against a daily average of more than $10,000,000 last week.

The investment demand centered largely in issues with convertible features. American Telephone & Telegraph convertible 4½s were turned over in large volume, crossing 152, to a new high record for a gain of more than 2 points above Saturday's close, and nearly 15 points above the year's low. International Telephone convertible 4½s closed fractionally higher, at 120¾, after having sold as low as 119½ and as high as 121⅜.

The disappointing character of recent traffic and earnings statements has dampened enthusiasm for the railroad issues, although liens of some of the Southern roads, particularly Florida East Coast 5s and Louisville & Nashville refunding 5½s, showed independent strength. Strength and activity of New York Traction Co. mortgages apparently was in anticipation of another court decision on the 7-cent fare case.

The cold wave brought a better demand for the coal company liens, Old Ben Coal 6s and Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s showing substantial gains. Some of the sugar company bonds also recorded moderate gains. Certainteed Products 5½s and New York Dock 5s were heavy.

United States Government issues were slightly reactionary, pending the announcement of the terms of the offering of Treasury certificates purchased under the new discount plan last week. The foreign group was extremely irregular, the announcement of the French cabinet's resignation coming too late to exert any influence on the French government issues. Antioquia first 7s, Esthonia Republic 7s, Finland Republic 6s and Rio Grande do Sul 6s of 1968 touched new high levels for the year.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Cotton was lower today under realizing or liquidation by recent buyers who appeared to be influenced by talk of an easier technical position following last week's advances, combined with the easier showing of Liverpool and the grain markets. May sold off to 15.73, or 35 points net lower and 45 points below the high level of last Friday. That delivery closed at 15.79, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 25 to 29 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 11 to 16 points in response to the relatively easy showing of Liverpool. There was some trade buying and covering, but it was quite readily supplied and after some early irregularity the market became rather weak and unsettled. It looked as if the buying of last week had left it without much support, and an idea that the technical position had eased as a result of recent covering was one of the most discussed factors on the decline. March sold off to 15.46, July to 15.90 and October to 16.06 during the early afternoon, making net declines of about 35 to 36 points. Later fluctuations were irregular but the bulges seemed to meet some further selling and the final tone was barely steady, although last prices showed rallies of 6 to 10 points from the lowest.

It appeared that no aggressive buying movement was likely to develop above the 16-cent level until the question of acreage has been settled was expressed in various quarters during the day, and may have increased the disposition to take profits on long cotton or to liquidate recent purchases.

Business was only moderately active and a good part of the trading reflected further switching from near to late months. There was not much change in differences between the old crop positions, but the new crop was relatively steady, with October closing 64 points over March, compared with a difference of 61 points at the close of last week. Rather more favorable reports from the goods markets appeared to have very little effect.

Liverpool cables said there had been local, continental and Bombay liquidation with a poor offtake there but reported a fair cloth inquiry from Egypt and the Near East.

Port receipts today, 9,643. United States port stocks, 2,260,540. Exports, 28,641, making 5,255,455 so far this season.

TICKER CLUB TALKS OVER ORGANIZATION

Mutual Protective Group of 16 Financial Firms Selects Name.

NEW BOND OFFICE OPENS

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Beyond selection of a tentative title, "The Ticker Club," plans for a proposed mutual cooperative and protective association of the sixteen local financial houses having membership in the New York Stock Exchange are still in the discussional stage, no action being taken regarding formation of such a group at a meeting called for this purpose yesterday at the Metropolitan Club.

Tentative articles of organization drawn up by a committee composed of Chester Lockwood, Harriman & Co.; A. Chester Flather, G. M.-P. Murphy & Co., and Arthur Foraker, Eastman, Dillon & Co., were studied at yesterday's meeting, but action on them was deferred. Another meeting will be called in about two weeks, it was announced following the conference.

Hemphill, Noyes & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange and underwriters and participants of investment securities, will open their newly established Washington offices today on the mezzanine floor of the new Shoreham Building, Fifteenth and H streets northwest. The office will be under the management of Thomas J. Mangan, jr., who has been associated with the investment business in Washington for the past several years. Associated with Mr. Mangan will be Robert K. Carpenter and Nevins P. Gardner, who will be identified with the stock department. Both Mr. Carpenter and Mr. Gardner have been connected with investment offices in Washington prior to their new affiliation.

Makes Twenty-fifth Branch Office.

Hemphill, Noyes & Co. have branch offices established in various other cities throughout the country as well as Canada and the Washington office accounts for its twenty-fifth branch. The Washington office is equipped with complete facilities for a brokerage and general investment business. The private wire system of this firm is one of the largest in the country, being connected with all the principal cities of the United States.

Hemphill, Noyes & Co. have for many years been prominently associated with the financing of many public utilities and industrial concerns, and in addition to the above association this company has its own investment trust known as General Empire Corporation, which is made up chiefly of bank stocks throughout the country. Mr. Mangan also announces that Thomas P. Bones, jr., will be associated with him.

The annual report of the Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, found elsewhere in today's issue, has a deep interest for a constantly increasing number of American readers. The company now has 49 divisional offices in 38 States of the Union.

Business Increases 48 Per Cent.

That its conservative methods do not limit its vigor is indicated by new paid-for business for the year amounting to $213,200,000. This is 48 per cent of an increase over the preceding year—a truly amazing growth. The report reflects an unusual state of prosperity. The company only four years ago wrote a billion dollars of assurance—the first Canadian life assurance company to do so. This year it is able to show not only another billion but over $400,000,000 to the good, the total being $2,401,237,000. This is over half a billion dollars of increase over last year and puts the Sun Life into the front line of major life insurance companies in the world.

Robert S. Stunz, vice president and cashier, Park Savings Bank, has been named chairman of the sports committee for the District of Columbia Bankers Association convention.

Basil C. Linthicum has been appointed sales manager of the real estate department of the Washington Loan & Trust Co., and will specialize in the sale of investment properties. He has been associated with Shannon & Luchs, Inc., for nine years.

Bank "Publicity" Speakers.

In connection with national "Publicity Week" of the American Institute of Banking, Vice President Francis G. Addison, jr., Security Savings & Commercial Bank, and I. J. Roberts, assistant cashier, Riggs National Bank, will speak over Station WMAL tonight. Tomorrow night, Dr. Robert Stonier, institute educational director, New York City, will speak over WEAF. The local chapter has arranged for the installation of a radio at the chapter rooms for members and students to hear Dr. Stonier.

Charles E. Howe, treasurer, American Security & Trust Co., was elected a member of the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday, filling the seat left vacant by the late Charles J. Bell, chairman of the board, same institution.

David N. Houston, trust officer, American Security & Trust Co., and J. Elliot Moran, assistant trust officer, will attend the midwinter trust conference in New York this week.

Plans for the banquet of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, at the Willard Hotel, Saturday night, are progressing splendidly. Reservations close today, and Chairman T. Hunton Leith urges banks to forward their guest lists today.

Curb Review

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Acute weakness of the oil shares, several of which sank to new low levels for the year on selling inspired by the recent crude oil and gasoline price cuts, featured today's irregular curb market. The general list ran into a flurry of selling in the early trading, but offerings were readily absorbed and a brisk rally was under way at the close.

Recent cuts in the price of petroleum products, coming at a time when many traders believed that progress was being made toward the stabilization of the industry, apparently led many holders of oil securities to dump them overboard. White Star Refining, making its first appearance on the tape in some time, broke more than 16 points below the previous sale on a few transcations. Cosden lost 3¾ net and Gulf, Humble, Imperial, Ohio Oil and Standard Oil of Ohio lost 1 to nearly 3 points. Standard Oil of Indiana sold below 50 for the first time since 1923.

Electric Bond & Share sold down to 97¾ and then crossed 100 again for a net gain of more than 1 point. Other utilities also made sharp rebounds from their early lows. American Gas & Electric was marked up 6½ points and American & Foreign Power warrants. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore and National Electric Power A were among the issues to advance a point or more. Sierra Pacific jumped 3¾ points to a new 1930 high at 55.

Aluminum Co. of America, which has recorded a rather spectacular advance in the last six weeks, broke 10 points on selling presumably inspired by the announcement that Senator Walsh, of Montana, had asked for a drastic slash in aluminum duties on the ground that the company has a practical monopoly of the product.

Associated Rayon preferred, Republic Steel preferred, Hazeltine Corporation and Lilly Tulip Cup were outstanding strong spots in the industrial group. Gleanor Combine Harvester sold off about 1½ points in face of an increase in the annual dividend.

Chief interest in the investment trust and trading corporation group centered in the admission to unlisted trading privileges of the no par common stock of the United Founders, a few thousand shares of which changed hands around 48⅛. The stock previously had been traded in "over the counter" and on the Boston Stock Exchange. Insull Utility Investment dropped 1½ points despite the statement of Samuel Insull that stockholders would be given valuable subscription "rights" in the fall.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Only the Federal Farm Board's newly organized National Grain Stabilization Corporation stood up today as a strong rallying point for wheat values. Almost every other known influence counted against upholding of wheat prices, with Chicago future deliveries forced down to nearly the lowest level yet this season. A specially disturbing factor here was word that the Winnipeg market, shaken by a $2,000,000 grain failure and by flattening out of export demand for wheat from North America was reported as semidemoralized.

Chicago closing quotations today on wheat future deliveries were nervous, 2c to 2¼c a bushel lower than Saturday's finish. Corn closed 1¾c to 2¼c down. Oats 1⅛@1¼c to 1⅜c off and provisions varying from 5@7c decline to an advance of 2c.

Capping the climax of adverse developments today for friends of higher prices on wheat was a late announcement that the United States wheat visible supply showed a disappointingly small decrease for the week. The decrease amounted to just 632,000 bushels compared with 3,811,000 bushels curtailment a week ago. Earlier, the market here had been thrown into turmoil by tumbling down of prices at Liverpool and Winnipeg and by spreading of assertions that European importers had definitely beaten North American wheat growers in the price war which has been waged for the last six months.

Smashing of wheat values at Winnipeg today went to an extreme of nearly 6c a bushel, with advices current that Argentine offers of wheat to Europe were enlarging at prices under those asked for wheat from North America. The maximum drop at Chicago was 3½c. Meanwhile, Liverpool dispatches told of entire absence of any demand there for wheat, with stocks afloat for Europe showing an increase and only ten weeks remaining before the start of Great Lakes navigation will release further quantities of North American wheat destined for Europe. News that the agricultural committee of the French Senate has asked the government of France to authorize immediate export of not less than 18,000,000 bushels of wheat and to pay a bounty to the exporters was also at hand. However, possibility of aggressive moves by the National Grain Stabilization Corporation acted as evident steadying power giving considerable backbone to prices here as the day drew to an end.

Corn and oats as well gave way with wheat, and outdid previous low-price records for feed grain this season.

Provisions were likewise responsive to wheat weakness, despite upturns in the value of hogs.

1 year (Daily and Sunday Only).... 1,500

This insurance scale applies on new and renewal, daily and Sunday combinations only. No Extra Votes will be issued on Insurance premium money.

The greatest vote-getting offer of this entire campaign ends at 9 P. M., Wednesday. Today and tomorrow offers the greatest opportunity to new candidates and to old alike. No present vote total is so great that a new entrant can not exceed it during this short period. Candidates who have already entered should exert every effort during this period to maintain and develop their lead. The campaign itself extends until April 5th, but this offer of 100,000 Extra Votes for each $20 worth of new subscriptions turned in before 9 P. M., on Feb. 19th, is the greatest that will be offered during the entire campaign.

NOTICE To Candidates

City entrants must present their $20 subscription clubs to the campaign office, on the fifth floor of The Post Building, before 9 p. m. Wednesday. Subscriptions mailed in by out-of-town contestants must bear a postmark not later than 9 P. M., Feb. 19 . . . consult your postmaster as to what time you must mail your subscriptions to have them so marked.

Care must be taken to distinguish between old and new subscriptions in order that proper vote credits may be given. A new subscription is one ordered by a person or family not at present a reader of The Post. Transference of subscriptions from one member of a family to another is NOT a new subscription.

Sheriff E. B. Kirby, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Henry Magarity, Capt. Haywood J. Durrer and A. W. The sheriff arrested Ernest Hitafferand and Charles Ennis, who were charged with the possession of a still and mash. The still and samples of mash were brought to Fairfax and the rest of the apparatus destroyed.

Harvey and Everett Lacey, of Franconia, charged with the theft of chickens and eggs from several persons near there, were granted a hearing yesterday before Justice of Peace, Thomas P. Chapman at Fairfax. Harvey was also charged with the possession of a half gallon of alleged liquor. The justice refused to hear the case against George Brown, 16, because of his age, but ordered him taken before Judge A. C. Ritchie of the Juvenile Court. The trio was arrested late Friday night by Sheriff Kirby, Deputy Sheriff Henry Magarity Capt. Haywood Durrer and Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams, who stated that a confession had been obtained from the trio. Harvey and Everett were held for the action of the grand jury at the March term of court under a bond of $1,000 each. They were remanded to the Fairfax Jail on failure to give bond. The sheriff stated that the charges against Brown would be presented to Judge Ritchie some time today.

Rockingham Man Held as Bigamist

Indictment Is First of Kind Ever Reported by County Grand Jury.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Feb. 17.—The first bigamy indictment returned in Rockingham Circuit Court in the past decade was found today by the February grand jury against William C. Carter, formerly of Fairfax County.

Carter is alleged to have married first cousins, his first wife being Miss May Shifflett, daughter of George Shifflett, of Accotink, Va. They were married at Rockville, Md., in 1918 and lived together in Alexander until last fall when they separated. Mrs. Carter sued for a divorce on the grounds of desertion, but this has not been granted.

Carter married his second wife, Miss Ruth Shifflett, daughter of Hiram Shifflett, of near Harrisonburg, at Rockville, Md., on January 2 last. The second wife is said to be under 16 years old. The first Mrs. Carter learned of her husband's second marriage when the license was erroneously mailed to her at Alexandria. Carter is now in jail here.

HIGHER PRICE TREND FOR VIRGINIA APPLES

Statistics Set Forth in New Agricultural Experiment Station Bulletin.

PEAK REACHED IN 1922

Blacksburg, Va., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—The average price per bushel received by apple producers in Virginia has been on the upward trend for the last 25 years, in line with the increasing importance of commercial apple production in this State, a historical study of prices made by Arthur G. Peterson, agricultural economist, shows. This information, with other statistical data, will be published soon as a bulletin of the Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station.

Prices suffered an after the war drop from the peak prices of earlier years, but have returned to a high level reached in 1927, the figures show. Peak prices of $2.90 a bushel were received during the spring of 1922, but in the following fall dropped to 70 cents a bushel.

Apple prices vary widely because of the fruit's perishable nature and the great variety and number of grades of apples, according to the study. Prior to 1900, prices varied even more because of lack of facilities for preserving and shipping apples to distant markets. Recent figures are more reliable, due to the standardization of grades and increased facilities for shipping to central markets.

A complete monthly record of prices since 1909 was available for the study made by Mr. Peterson under the direction of J. J. Vernon, department of agricultural economics, V. P. I., and Q. C. Stone, of the United States Department of Agriculture. Factors affecting the general price level of agricultural commodities and an analysis of 123 statistical price tables are to be included in the bulletin.

Lad Drowns in Try To Rescue Friend

Mill Creek Youth Loses Life as Playmate Is Saved From Ice Hole.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 17.—Attempting to rescue a playmate, Forest Allen, 12, who had broken through ice in Mill Creek, near St. Margaret's, 4 miles from Annapolis, Anton Schwarler, 16, also broke through and was drowned, while the Allen youth finally was rescued. The tragedy occurred yesterday afternoon.

Schwarler, noticing the predicament of his chum, started for him, attired in a heavy coat and boots. William G. Clarke, stepfather of the Allen boy, also broke through, trying to rescue the latter. The two managed to keep afloat until several neighbors threw a rope to them and hauled them ashore.

They suffered no ill effects from their icy bath.

Virginia Youth Drowns While Fishing in River

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., Feb. 17.—A 15-foot boat pole stuck in the mud and standing upright in 10 feet of water in the Shenandoah River afforded the clue that today located the dead body of Ralph Painter, 18, who was drowned yesterday near Newport, 14 miles south of Luray. No one saw young Painter, who toppled from his boat when, it is believed, he tried to release the steering pole from deep mud into which he had driven it while steering his boat across the stream.

His home was only a short distance from where he started across the stream after spending the day hunting and fishing. His delay in not returning home caused his father, George M. Painter, to make a search.

Search was immediately begun for young Painter's body. Today his body was brought from the water. The drowned youth was a nephew of William M. Painter, of Baltimore.

Phone Alexandria 523.

Harry B. Caton was chairman for the Boy Scout court of review, with William L. Leitch, vice chairman; D. C. Boob, clerk, and John Strauss, Allen D. Smith and W. D. Hodges, members, which awarded honors to the following scouts: Jack Harrison, John Weaver, Peyton Luckett, who passed the second class; Jack Robinson, star award; Omer Hirst, David Apter, William Robinson, John Quarles, Paul Mount, D. Randall Book, James Wallace, Earl R. Myers, Llewellyn Powell and Ashton Powell, merit badges.

These members of the local scout troops met the requirements for the Boy Scout work and passed the examinations given by the court.

M. J. O'Connell, who recently had been appointed executive vice president of the Eastern Shore Public Service Co., with headquarters at Salisbury, Md., and who will leave in a few days for that place, last night entertained at a dinner at the George Mason Hotel in honor of his successor as manager of the northern division of the Virginia Public Service Co., James A. Ward, who arrived in Alexandria yesterday from Sidney, Ohio, where he was connected with the Ohio Electric Power Co.

Those invited to meet the new manager in this city, Mr. Ward, were city officials, officers of trade associations, Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs, leading business men and officials and department heads of the Virginia Public Service Co. and the Seaboard Public Service Co.

An automobile driven by an unknown driver and one driven by A. W. Meades, of Washington, were in collision at the intersection of Franklin and Washington streets late Sunday night, and the driver of the first car, which carried a Maryland license tag, jumped from the machine and ran away.

Meades summoned the police, who found the abandoned car contained 116 half-gallon jars of alleged liquor, packed in cases of 12 half-gallons each, and with three partially filled jars outside the cases.

Friendship Council, No. 28, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, will meet Friday evening in their new quarters in Eagles' Hall, 413 King street, and will hold a special George Washington Birthday celebration, with a patriotic program of talks and songs, and a supper will be served at the social hour following the business meeting.

Capt. R. H. Atkinson, who was in command of the Alexandria Light Infantry when that organization served in the Spanish-American War, has issued a call for all veterans of that war to meet at 721 King street at 1 o'clock Saturday, to participate in the parade that day, and requests they wear their badges.

Mrs. Ethel O'Neil has requested the police to help in a search for her son, James O'Neil, jr., aged 17 years, who left home on Saturday afternoon with a boy named Johnnie Higgs.

Fire Chief James M. Duncan, jr., has received notice from the Cherrydale Fire Department and the McLean Department that these two organizations will participate in the February 22 parade on Saturday.

The old Friendship fire engine and plug catcher will be drawn by the members of the Friendship Fire Company, under command of Capt. J. Sidney Douglas, who has called a meeting for 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the engine house to complete arrangements for the parade.

Infant Feared Dying From Attack by Pig

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Feb. 17.—Little hope is entertained at University Hospital for the recovery of the 6-month-old son of Mrs. Leonard Knight, of Greer, Greene County, who had his left arm chewed by a pig.

The child was attacked during the brief absence of his mother. Upon returning to the house in the mountains the parent found the pig tugging at the baby's arm, which was dangling from the cradle. Examination at the hospital showed that the pig's teeth had ground into the bone, maiming the infant, who, if he recovers, will never have use of the arm.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA is organizing a Glider Club.

"My, but it's exciting—just the thought of it," she exclaimed.

"Whatever gave you that idea?" I asked. "Whatta you want-a do, break your neck?"

"No," she said, "just glide! It must be heavenly to get in a plane and soar, up, Up, UP—far into the clouds!"

Arms extended above her head, she breathed a deep breath.

* * * *

SOMETIMES I think Luella's a bit flighty, by nature.

"Where will you do all this gliding?"

"Oh," she remarked, "out at some country club——"

"They play golf at country clubs—and people on the links won't want a lot of gliders buzzin' around their heads——"

"We wouldn't disturb the golfers——"

"Oh, no! You wouldn't disturb the golfers. Nothing soothes golfers so much as gliders flying around. It's particularly fine when the golfers are about to tee off, or putt——"

"Bother the old golfers," she said. "It might be a good thing for them if they took up gliding, too!"

* * * *

NOW there's an idea. Everything goes in pairs, riding and hunting; why not golfing and gliding?

"You're right," agreed Luella. "We'll call it the National Golf and Gliding Club, throw it open to players of both games——"

"Oh, is gliding a game?"

"Not exactly a game," she explained, "it's a sport—but we can make it a game if we get enough members."

The last I saw of her she was mailing out invitations. She incorporated a verse in each one:

Over the land, and over the sea,
Gliding around from pole to pole,
I thank whatever gods there be
For my immortal soul.

HOOVER'S SCHOOL WILL OPEN MONDAY

30 Mountain Children Will Be First Students at Institution.

WILL CELEBRATE LATER

Madison, Va., Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Deep in the Blue Ridge Mountains where snow now sifts through the wild oak branches, President Hoover's bright, trim little school for mountain children will open its doors to an education-starved people next Monday. The school was to have been opened today but bad weather made postponement necessary.

From the tangled wildness of the interior of the mountains, piled up in purple grandeur here, will come afoot and on horseback the 30 children who will be the first pupils of the school.

Getting learning from books will be a new experience for these shy folk of Virginia wilds and Miss Christine Vest, teacher of the school, will have to start with elementals.

No Celebration Monday.

There will be no grand celebration Monday. That will come in about a month, when Mrs. Hoover has announced she will visit the school. Mountain roads are virtually impassable now owing to winter snows and rains.

The First Lady will find ample outlet for her well known humanitarian sympathies in the ragged little mountain children. Some of them are shy as wild rabbits. They have never ridden on trains. Some of them have never even seen one. The biggest excitement in their lives has been "hog-killin' time" at their mountain homes.

The last Federal census showed 969 illiterates in Madison County where the school is located. There is a much lower percentage than in some of the other mountain counties. Amherst had 2,351 and Franklin 2,636. The coming census may find these figures somewhat reduced.

Honest and Loyal.

The straightforward personality of 12-year-old Ray Buracher, the mountain boy who visited President Hoover in his Rapidan camp last summer, is said to have been reflected in many of the children who will attend the school. Those who have taught in other mountain schools say that loyalty and honesty are marked characteristics of the Blue Ridge children. Boys who cheat in mountain schools are promptly banished by the other boys.

President Hoover personally is financing the new school, which is only a few miles from his summer camp. He made plans for it last summer after the visit of the Buracher boy, who told the President of the need of education among the mountain children.

HOOVER INDORSES JEFFERSON TRIBUTE

Birthday Anniversary Date, April 13, Falls on Palm Sunday and Passover.

SPECIAL RITES PLANNED

New York, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—President Hoover in a letter to Felix M. Warburg, of New York, has indorsed the plan that next April 13, Thomas Jefferson's birthday, "be specially marked by proper celebration of the founding of religious freedom."

The plan was originally suggested by the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation as part of its educational work because of the coincidence this year that April 13 will mark not only the religious holy days of Palm Sunday and Passover, but also the birthday of Thomas Jefferson, who wrote the law for religious freedom.

"It would seem to me," wrote President Hoover, "to be a fitting and inspiring undertaking."

Instead of appointing a special national committee to undertake such a celebration, the President stated, "It is my thought that the board of governors of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation already comprises in its membership men and women of outstanding leadership in all directions of national thought, and that it would be desirable that they should undertake to bring the occasion to the attention of the American people and make such arrangements as would give it significance."

The members of the board of governors of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation are former President Calvin Coolidge, Stuart G. Gibboney, president of the foundation; Dr. George J. Ryan, president of the board of education of New York City; Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia; Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University; Claude G. Bowers, editor of the New York Evening World; Dr. John H. Finley, editor of the New York Times; Gov. John Garland Pollard, of Virginia; T. Jefferson Coolidge, of Boston, and Col. Jefferson R. Kean, of Washington, both direct descendants of Jefferson; Patrick Cardinal Hayes, Lady Astor, Senator Royal S. Copeland, John W. Davis, former Ambassador James W. Gerard, Will H. Hays, Charles D. Hilles, Mrs. Rose Gouverneur Hoes, great-great-granddaughter of James Monroe.

Among others on the list are former Govs. E. Lee Trinkle and Harry Floyd Byrd of Virginia; William H. White, jr., former president of the Alumni Association of the University of Virginia, and Fred W. Twyman, of Jefferson's native city of Charlottesville, Va.

Alleged Bootlegger Is Taken After Chase

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Feb. 17.—Bernard (Peepey) Lam, accused by Sergt. John Logan, of Harrisonburg police, as a Rockingham bootlegger, was captured last night by Logan, Dry Enforcement Officer Dorflemeyer and Sheriff Charles R. Fawley after a chase of a dozen blocks through the streets of this city during which pistols were brought into play.

When accosted by Logan and Dorflemeyer, Lam, then in his car, turned on the gas and tried to make a getaway. He was chased through the northeast section of the city, abandoning his car on East Market street. He then led the officers through the business heart of the town and was finally captured near the courthouse. A half-gallon of alleged liquor was found in the abandoned car, the police claim.

BILL WOULD KEEP JUDGES OFF TICKET

Measure in Virginia Senate May Have Effect on Congressional Race.

DELAY FOR IT FORECAST

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 17.—Senator Lloyd E. Warren, of Portsmouth, today introduced a bill in the Senate which would put an entirely different complexion on the forthcoming congressional race in the Eighth congressional district, because it would provide that no judge of a court of record should be a candidate for office unless he first resigned his judgeship.

Senator Frank L. Ball, of Arlington, who is opposing Judge Howard W. Smith, said he knew nothing of the bill, and Senator Warren, whose attention was called to the situation, said that he had not thought of that in introducing the measure. He said he introduced the measure because he did not believe as a general thing judges should be allowed to participate in active politics, because it was embarrassing for an attorney to appear before a judge who was a candidate for office. He is not likely to try to force the bill through this term.

Delegates Daniel Coleman, of Norfolk, and E. C. Folkes, of Richmond, with the aid of Delegate E. C. Crowder, of Richmond, stripped the uniform small loan act, introduced by Delegate J. Vaughan Gary, of Richmond, to provide that all small loan companies should not have less than $25,000 capital in cities, of this provision and amendments that were added to limit the interest, now 42 per cent a year, to 24 per cent on unsecured loans and 18 per cent on secured loans. Another amendment would make violators of the salary buyers' law, which prohibits a charge of more than 10 per cent, subject to jail sentences.

Two Oyster Bills Pass.

The Senate passed two of the more important of its oyster bills, the one giving broad legislative powers to the proposed commission of fisheries, by the vote of 32 to 3, and the one imposing an 8-cent-bushel tax on seed oysters going out of the State, by the vote of 32 to 2. Senators Holland, Holt, and Stubbs voted against the first, and Senators Holt and Stubbs against the second.

Several controversial matters, including the school code bill and the bar integration bill were passed over in the Senate, while there was a lively scrap over the cat and kittens bill which would have made any cat a nuisance as soon as he crossed a line 500 yards from his rightful home.

The boxing bill seems to be on its way to defeat, according to observers, and messages began to arrive from many sections of the State in which delegates were urged to vote against the measure, which was indirectly the cause for a slight sensation Saturday when Delegate Vivian L. Page, of Norfolk, one of its patrons, asked that Dr. Fred R. Chenault, Richmond pastor, be excluded from the House of Delegates. Mr. Page alleged that Dr. Chenault was lobbying against the bill. Dr. Chenault was back in the House today armed, however, with a pass, and, he said, not lobbying for or against the bill.

Most Work Against Bill.

There is some sentiment for the bill designed to legalize sparring and boxing exhibitions when held under the auspices of a club, but more work is being made against it than for it.

The roads committee reported favorably on the Witten bill to create 22 more places on the State traffic force and appropriate $60,000 annually from the highway maintenance fund for the payment of their salaries and expenses. The bill also would provide that the places be filled with World War veterans wherever practicable.

Senator Smith has introduced a bill that would create a commission of five, two members of the Senate and three of the House, to study State-paid salaries and attempt to standardize them. There is something wrong, he said, when one department head gets $12,800 and another $4,800 and one stenographer gets $150 and another $75.

Rockingham Hunts Fugitive Convicts

Two Men Who Fled Camp in Green County So Far Elude Pursuit.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Feb. 17.—An all night man hunt for two escaped convicts from the State highway camp at Standardsville, Greene County, kept the southeast section of Rockingham County awake and excited last night. A posse, led by Deputy Sheriffs Lucas and Newman, tracked the escaped convicts through the snow, after losing the trail along the river banks and the Norfolk & Western Railroad tracks, as the hunted men criss-crossed from woods to clearing.

The two men, dressed in convict garb, were seen sitting around a fire at Weaver's Bluff. As Deputy Lucas and his posse approached, the men extinguished the fire and escaped in the woods. They were then trailed for miles in the snow, but finally lost on the tracks of the Norfolk & Western.

The convicts, who were trusties, escaped from the Standardsville road camp when a windstorm uprooted their quarters. They had only two months to serve. They had been sentenced from Lynchburg, and their names were not given Rockingham officers.

PALMISANO ACCUSED OF ELECTION FRAUD

Hill Says Representative From Maryland Ran Home Precinct.

(Associated Press.)

John Philip Hill (Republican), contesting the election of Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), for the seat from the Third Congressional District of Maryland, appeared yesterday before a House elections committee in his own behalf and enumerated what he termed "27 proven points," which he contended, showed that Palmisano "fraudulently ran his own home precinct on election day."

Hill's attorney, Charles Ruzicka, who made the opening statement, sat by while Hill made the summary. Mrs. Hill, and three small daughters, Suzanne, Elise and Kitty, listened intently.

Contending that Palmisano was Third Ward executive in Baltimore on election day, Hill declared that Palmisano made his own Fourth Precinct polling place his election headquarters, and that he directed and influenced the vote in that precinct, voted "absentees," convicts and "repeaters" and handled the ballots contrary to law. Hill laid special stress on the voting of Vincent and Anna Fermes, relatives of Palmisano who, Hill said, registered from Palmisano's home residence, and who, Hill contended were not in Baltimore on election day.

Robert F. Leach, jr., attorney for Palmisano, said that not a single charge of Hill, except that concerning the two Fermes votes, was "worth the paper it was written on." He declared that return sheets showed the pair voted, whereas testimony showed them out of town, but added, "We offer testimony to show that emissaries of Hill had access to these books in the office of the supervisor of elections, and at that time carried blue and red pencils, the same as those used by election judges in checking the vote."

Leach added that in the large election supervisor's room it would have been possible for the emissaries of Hill to force the check marks opposite the Fermes' names.

Police Chase Ends In Auto Wrecking Pursued Motorists Hurled Liquor Jars From Car, Is Charge.

After a mile-a-minute race through the Brookland section early yesterday, a pursued automobile crashed over the pavement into the grounds of Mount Harmony Cemetery, Ninth street and Rhode Island avenue northeast and overturned, but its three occupants escaped capture by police, apparently unhurt.

On motorcycles, Twelfth Precinct Policemen Thomas Heide, Watson Salkeld and C. A. Berry began pursuit of the automobile at Twelfth street and Michigan avenue. Thundering through virtually the entire Brookland section at a speed of 60 miles an hour, the occupants were reported to have hurled jar after jar of liquor into the path of their pursuers.

When overtaken, the wrecked machine failed to yield any liquor, police said. The car was being operated on dead tags and is believed to have been stolen. Authorities were without a clue last night that might lead to the identity of the three occupants.

Trade Board Committee Is Host at Oyster Roast

More than 200 members of the public order committee of the Washington Board of Trade and their guests made merry last night at an oyster roast at the Capital Yacht Club. Hilarious features of the occasion were the presentation of an antiquated horse collar to Odell Smith, chairman of the committee, and a huge valentine to William Ellis, who was chairman of the mid-winter dinner committee.

Guests of honor included Maj. Pratt, superintendent of Metropolitan Police, Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty and Capt. F. S. W. Burke, of the First Precinct. Fred J. White was chairman of the committee in charge.
